HURL 'MURDER BOMB': SLAY 1

Affects Only Europe, Premier Says.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 2.—Premier Pierre Laval, following the cabinet meeting this morning at which the government approved the Franco-Italian naval accord which will permit those countries to sign the London treaty, declared that the new pact contains no clauses dangerous or harmful to the interests of the American navy.

While he was unable to speak about the exact nature of the accord, owing to the gentlemen's agreement between the French and British delegations to preserve silence for a couple of days, M. Laval denied categorically several alarming rumors which the heavy smoke screen surrounding the transaction has caused to circulate. In particular, he qualified as "absolutely false and unfounded" a report sent out by a British news agency last night and printed this morning by the London Daily Herald, official organ of the Labor party.

Report Battleship Cut.

This report is considered to be of the highest importance because it declared that one of the conditions upon which France and Italy would sign the London pact was the drafting of an amendment cutting down the maximum tonnage for battleships from 35,000 tons, as allowed by the Washington conference, to 25,000 tons.

This would be highly satisfactory to the British and Italians, as it would mean they could build maximum sized battleships without straining their budgets and without fear of seeing them surpassed by some richer country. But to fix such a low arbitrary limit, observers point out, would be tying a stone around the neck of the American navy.

It was stated last night that the new accord implies a modification of the Washington treaty provisions on capital ships, but it is understood that this applies to tonnage changes and replacement of capital ships and no question of limiting the size of battleships is concerned.

Only Europe Affected.

"In general," M. Laval declared, "the modifications to the treaty envisaged are purely of European character, and I do not see how they can arouse any disquietude in America. The United States will be fully advised on all facts concerning the accord, and will be able to judge for itself. There will be no attempt to keep anything secret. The only reason we have not published the figures was out of considerations of diplomatic courtesy and on the request of the British delegation, which wanted the dominions and the partners in the three power pact to be officially notified before anything was published."

After speaking enthusiastically of the impetus world peace has been given by the conclusion of this accord, M. Laval was asked if he was completely satisfied with what France got out of the agreement.

"Perfectly," he replied. "In every detail."

REPORT HOLIDAY TO 1936

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 2.—Revelations were made here tonight which throw considerable light upon the naval agreement between France and Italy. These revelations were printed in nearly identical language in the evening newspapers and have the earmarks of being given out by the foreign office as a response to reports that Italy had given in until 1936 on her demands for parity with the French navy.

It was revealed in these articles that the naval holiday between France and Italy has been prolonged until 1936, each power agreeing that its building program for the next four years will consist of replacements only. That brings the French tonnage down 40,000 tons and saves money for Italy in lowering the level up to which Italy has to build to have equality in new shipping. Nothing was indicated about the superiority apparently conceded to the French in old tonnage.

Mediterranean Race Ended.

It was furthermore revealed that Italy regards the Mediterranean building race as ended for the next four years, indicating that ships which France builds for North Sea or Atlantic purposes will not be regarded by Italy as affecting the Mediterranean status. On this point a belief exists here that England may have given

KIRKLAND CASE DEFENSE SEEKS TO EXHUME GIRL

Plan Counter Attack as State Rests.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Valparaiso, Ind., March 2.—[Special.]—The state rested this afternoon in the case of Virgil Kirkland, on trial for his life in Porter county court here for the murder of his schoolgirl sweetheart, Arlene Draves.

ELSIE DRAVES.

Tonight the battery of defense lawyers were in conference with their medical expert, Dr. Orlando F. Scott of Chicago, perfecting a plan for attempted impeachment of one of the state's main witnesses, Dr. James B. Burcham of Gary.

To achieve their purpose, it was indicated tonight, defense counsel will demand exhumation of the girl's body, buried these last three months in a rural cemetery on the outskirts of her native town of Reynolds, Ind., 100 miles south of here.

Will Charge Incomplete Autopsy.

As the strategy was outlined tonight, Kirkland's lawyers will call as their first witness Dr. A. O. Seipel of Valparaiso, a general practitioner and formerly coroner of Porter county for eight years.

On Dr. Seipel's testimony Attorney Ronald Oldham expects to build the foundation for argument to Judge Crumpacker that Dr. Burcham, in performing an autopsy upon the girl, neglected one operation of vital importance to the defense.

On this theory, coupled with discrepancies, the defens expects Dr. Seipel to point out in the testimony of the coroner's physician, Attorney Oldham will ask Judge Crumpacker to order the body exhumed.

Prosecutor John Underwood was unaware tonight of the defense plan. However, Kirkland's counsel were anticipating a strenuous objection from the state when they ask for the order for exhumation.

Six witnesses paraded to the stand before Prosecutor John Underwood turned to the farmer jury at 4:05 p. m. and announced that his case was finished. One of the six, a former chum of Kirkland, vividly pictured the defendant's growing terror on the freezing night last November when, as Arlene lay in his arms in the back seat of a car, he perceived her body growing cold in death.

Identifies Girl's Clothing.

Arlene's sister Elsie and her eldest sister's husband, Murrel Clemens, also testified. Other witnesses were Dr. G. H. Stoner, Valparaiso physician, and Prof. Joseph Bradley, Valparaiso weather forecaster.

Her hands trembling slightly, Elsie Draves examined the blood flecked silken garments the prosecutor handed her. There was a black silk party dress, silk underskirt, and pale green underthings. In a choked voice the witness identified them as the clothing Arlene had donned the night of Nov. 29 before Kirkland called to escort her to a liquor party at a Gary home.

Clemens pictured the party aftermath. In a clear, unemotional voice he told the jury how his wife and he, sleepless with worry over Arlene's lateness, were startled by Kirkland, ringing the doorbell at 3:30 a. m. and bursting into to tell them the girl was at a doctor's home, dead.

Tells of Meeting in Restaurant.

William Davidson, a sober faced youth of 20 years, was the first witness called. Nervously fumbling with the buttons on his coat, he told the jury he had met Kirkland between 2:30 and 3 o'clock in the morning at a downtown Gary restaurant. The defendant stared intently as he testified.

Q.—Tell the jury what happened that night, as far as you know? A.—I ran into Paul Barton at the lunch counter. He was talking about telephoning for a doctor.

Q.—Where was Kirkland? A.—He was sitting in the back seat of Bar-

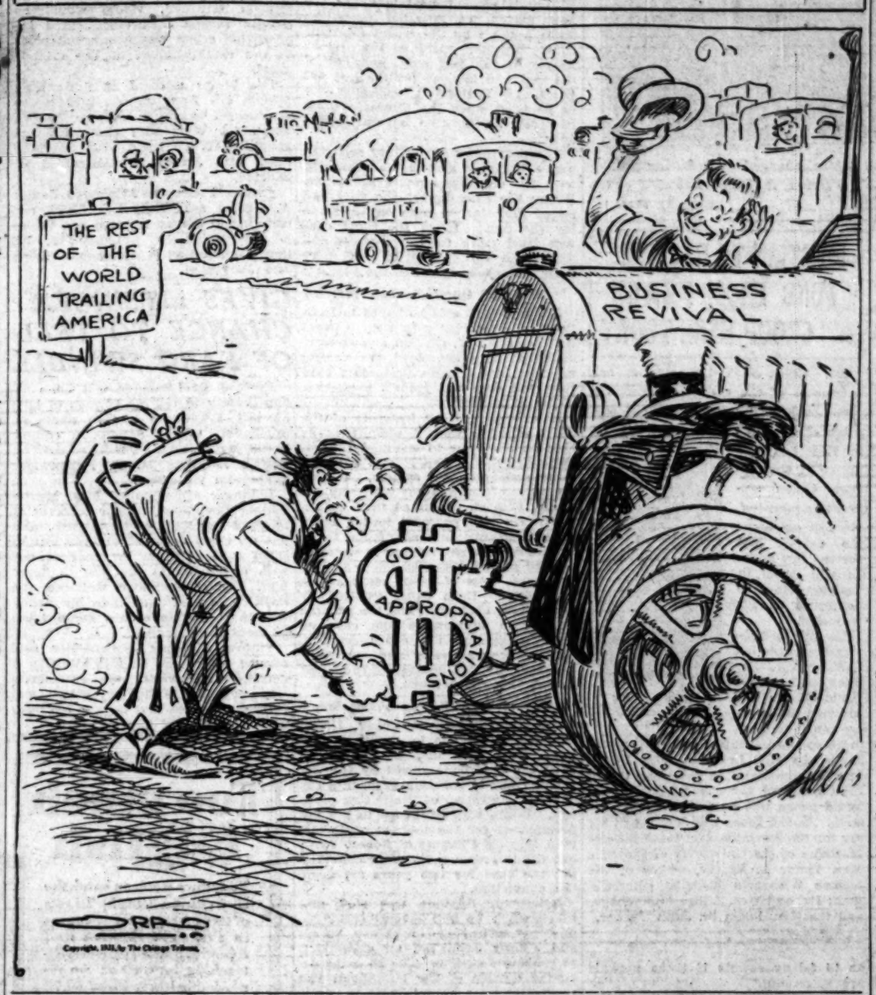
CRANKING 'ER UP



Family Exhibit to Dispute Eye Color Theories

Attorneys for George Adair Greene Longley, who is suing for half of the million dollar estate of Albert W. Longley, expect to prove today before Judge Michael Feinberg that two blue eyed parents can have brown eyed children.

At least one scientific witness, it was announced, will be put on the stand to state that there is nothing absolute about the Mendelian dictum that blue eyed parents reproduce only blue eyed offspring; that, in fact, it is a highly uncertain matter in most individual cases and that exceptions are so numerous to the general rule that the rule itself is legally worthless.

A family of seven, consisting of blue eyed parents, two brown eyed and three blue eyed children, will be produced in court as exhibits to prove the point, according to E. Warren Everett, counsel for George Adair Greene Longley.

Fights to Break Will.

George Longley, who is now about 55 years old, claims that he is the son of Albert, a hat manufacturer, who died in California in 1928. The Albert Longley will left the bulk of his million dollars to Mrs. Mary Carolyn Longley, his third wife, and cut off George Longley, who claims to have been his son by a former marriage, with an annuity of $600.

George Longley's attempt to break this will and to obtain half of the estate, is based on the claimed relationship, which it is alleged the hat manufacturer had acknowledged freely during his lifetime. The mother of George Longley, as this side holds, was Alice Adair Longley, first wife of the maker of the will. George's birth occurred before their marriage in 1878, and if paternity is established the subsequent wedding would legitimize his claims.

Present Eye Color Theory.

Opponents of the claimant in the hearings before Judge Feinberg have maintained George is not the son of Albert and Alice, and one of the points made was that the pair were both blue eyed, while George Longley has brown eyes.

Expert witnesses for the widow and other minor heirs under the will outlined the Mendelian principle and have declared that two blue eyed persons cannot have brown eyed children. There is, however, no scientific proof or even documents to prove that the manufacturer and his first wife were actually blue eyed in the scientific sense, although lay witnesses declared they were.

Prof. Horatio Hackett Newman of the department of zoology at the University of Chicago, who is the author of a work on "Evolution, Eugenics, and Genetics," is a voluntary witness for George Longley's side.

"Blue eyed parents can have brown eyed children," Prof. Newman said yesterday. "The discussion of the matter has resulted in the dissemination of incorrect ideas and doubtless has been disturbing to many families when they should not be disturbed.

"The percentage of brown eyed children born to supposedly blue eyed parents runs from 5 to 20 per cent in tests. Even scientists with the best of equipment are not able to determine with absolute certainty that supposedly blue eyes may not have some brown pigment sufficient to transmit brown eyes to their children.

"As for the layman, it is not generally known that scientists regard all eyes that are commonly called hazel, green or gray as brown. So many exceptions to the so-called Mendelian law are found that I do not think it is possible to dispute paternity on that ground alone."

Karpen Home Robbed; Loot $25,000 Gems

Burglars last night entered the apartment of Louis Karpen, vice president of S. Karpen & Bros. Furniture company, in the Beachview club, formerly the Sisson hotel, at 1725 East 53d street, and escaped with jewelry valued at $25,000. There was no broken door or window, and police were mystified as to how the burglars gained entrance.

Karpen and his wife, Ella, left their suite early in the evening, dined at the Shoreland hotel, and attended a loop theater. They returned shortly before midnight and discovered the robbery.

The apartment was not ransacked. Apparently the robbers knew where the jewelry was kept in a dresser drawer, Mr. Karpen said, and went directly to it. The loot included diamond rings, brooches, watches, pearl necklaces, and other gem studded articles.

RAIDERS SEIZE COLLEGE LIQUOR IN LAKE FOREST

Complaints that students at Lake Forest college were procuring intoxicating liquor somewhere near the institution sent police last night to the home of Matthew Turpil, 1295 McKinley avenue, Lake Forest. He is janitor of the college and father of eleven children.

The raiders, Sergt. Paul Jensen and Policeman Clarence Pfister, seized six pints of alcohol, and one pint of coloring. Turpil was locked up at the Lake Forest station and held for arraignment today before Justice Samuel Sorenson on a charge of violating the state dry law.

According to Chief Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest, the raid resulted because of recent complaints from parents that their children, students at the college, were drinking.

Evanston Council Grants 30 Year Car Franchise

Evanston's city council last night voted a thirty year terminable franchise to the Evanston Railway company for the operation of surface cars. The reservation was made to the effect that the city, if it wished, could purchase the lines. Charles Speed, president of the company, told the aldermen all the rolling stock would be modernized. Roller bearings are to be installed, linoleum placed on all floors, and leather seats will replace the cane type.

One man was fatally shot and another was slightly wounded by five machine gunners in the attempted blasting last night of an alleged gambling house in Blue Island in which the gangsters tried to blow one of their victims to bits with a bomb 26 inches long and 4½ inches in diameter, loaded with pulverized dynamite and shrapnel. The unsuccessful bombing took place at 119th street and Vincennes road, across the street from the city limits.

The target of the bomb was a gambling place owned by James Hackett, reputed to be wealthy.

The murder bomb, constructed of steel pipe, contained approximately 15 pounds of dynamite and, had it exploded, could have lifted the one-story brick building under which it was thrown and damaged houses a block away, according to Sergt. Joseph Corvin of the Chicago bomb squad.

An Assassination Plot.

The police described the hurling of the bomb as a desperate attempt at assassination, in contrast to the usual bombing, in which much lighter charges of explosives are set and which are used only for the purpose of damaging property and intimidating owners.

Victims of the bombers were William [Biter] Mayer, 60 years old, caretaker and watchman of the place, and Hilario Rodriguez, 35, a Mexican. Both of Mayer's legs were riddled and torn by machine gun bullets. He died early this morning in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island. Rodriguez's jaw was mashed. He also was taken to the hospital.

Rodriguez was the victim of a most harrowing experience and the only witness to the attempted bombing. He was standing at the southwest corner of Vincennes road and 119th street, waiting for his wife, when an automobile stopped on the Chicago side of the street, which is the Blue Island boundary. Five men emerged from the car, three of them lifting a heavy object, and walking to the side of Hackett's place on the southeast corner, which runs in the guise of a cigar store.

Hurl Victim After Bomb.

The other two strolled over to Rodriguez, drew revolvers, and ordered him to follow them. Believing them to be police, the Mexican obeyed and joined the first group. As they stood there one of his captors demanded his money and, on Rodriguez's plea he had none, struck him on the face with the butt of his gun, shattering his jaw. During all this time the desperadoes gathered around a four-foot deep coal chute leading beneath Hackett's cigar store. Two of them had the bomb.

Suddenly one of the men applied a match to a fuse attached to the missile and tossed it into the hole. Two others seized Rodriguez bodily and hurled him after the bomb.

There was a momentary sputtering and sizzling as the fuse burned, with Rodriguez looking on in terror. Realizing the danger, he climbed out of the chute in time to see the quintet boarding their car. Two of them alighted again and blazed away at him with a machine gun. One bullet inflicted a slight flesh wound.

Shots Fell Watchman.

The rat-a-tat of the shots brought Mayer, the watchman, out on the run. He advanced a few steps and was quickly felled by a fusillade of bullets which ripped into his legs and left him in a dying condition in the street. A few seconds later the bombers disappeared west in 119th street.

Neighbors, attracted by the firing, summoned police and the fire department. Within a short time the intersection was thronged. Bomb experts from Chicago arrived as firemen were filling the coal chute with water, retrieved the bomb, and on examination pronounced it one of the strongest explosive devices ever reaching their attention. That it failed to explode was due, they believed, to the wetting of the fuse by soggy basement ground.

Speculate on Motive.

The attempted bombing, police said, probably was due to the fact that Hackett insisted on playing a lone hand in gambling in Blue Island. According to reports, Hackett operated a handbook without partnership or allegiance to any gambling group. Recently, it is said, a powerful combine has harrassed Hackett to join their syndicate. To all advances Hackett is said to have turned a deaf ear and turned the emissaries away with sharp refusals.

Hackett said he knew of no reasons for an attack. His connections, if he has any, are unknown, but he appeared to be a man of influence. While the excitement over the incident was at its height Hackett appeared at the hospital and at a Blue Island police station. At the latter place he imperatively ordered the captain to detail a couple of bluecoats at his gambling place and a couple more at the bedside of the slugged Mexican.

FIND MISSING WOMAN SPY IN POLICE INQUIRY

Alcock Has Stormy Jury Session.

Crime and Politics

Federal and county officials were concerned yesterday with prosecutions and investigations which developed the following outstanding features:

1—As a result of the discovery of rum selling to children in the vicinity of the Hyde Park high school 128 truant officers have been assigned to investigate conditions in the regions about all Chicago schools.

2—The investigation of drinking by children of school age is linked with the inquiry being pressed by the special Cook county grand jury in which the police department is under examination as to charges of graft collection.

3—Acting Commissioner Alcock was reported in a clash with the special grand jury. Following this a woman investigator came to the fore in a habeas corpus proceedings to be heard this morning.

4—Al Capone, in the federal court, appeared to receive his formal sentence and posted an appeal bond. Simultaneously Jerry O'Connor, politician and gambler, was made the subject of an action attaching his property in an income tax investigation. Other public enemies appeared in phases of prosecution.

After Acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock had appeared before the special grand jury yesterday and caused a reported stir in the investigation into police corruption, it was revealed that Mrs. Shirley Kub, former undercover operative for Alcock, is in custody of the state's attorney's office.

J. A. FARMAR.

This revelation was forced by the filing of a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court and ended the mystery of her supposed disappearance in January the day after she faced the special jury and divulged what was described as "sensational evidence" of police graft. Mrs. Kub will be produced in court this morning, according to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, co-director of the graft quiz.

Rumor Contempt Citation.

The appearance of Alcock in the jury room yesterday developed reports of friction between him and the jurors and prompted a report in the Criminal court building that some of the jurors had mentioned a contempt citation for Alcock. This report was based on the calling into the jury room of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, an unusual proceeding.

Alcock, it was understood, was subpoenaed as a witness to explain why he had not suspended seven policemen as the jury had recommended. The recommendation resulted from the refusal of the seven, all attached to the Englewood district, to sign immunity waivers and testify. Alcock, it was reported, stood pat on his refusal to suspend the policemen.

Officials declined to go into details of Alcock's reported differences with the jury, but indicated pointedly he had not backed down in his position, and that he would be called again today.

Will Appear Again Today.

"Alcock did make a definite refusal to suspend the policemen," admitted Assistant State's Attorney Mueller. "He said it would be bad for the morale of the department. We're not through with him, by any means. He'll be back tomorrow and he'll bring with him the information we want."

J. A. Farmar, foreman of the jury, was asked whether Alcock had proved stubborn or balky as a witness, and replied: "Well, you know how Alcock is." From neither Judge McGoorty nor Alcock were any statements forthcoming.

Possibilities that the "desired information" related to conditions on the south side, particularly in the Englewood and Woodlawn district, where high school students and other minors have found no difficulty in procuring booze and other intoxicants, were indicated. The grand jury, it became known, was concerned in this phase of the inquiry as a result of the raid Saturday on a speakeasy which catered to Hyde Park high school students.

Schools Start Inquiry.

Raiding of the place brought immediate action from Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan yesterday. He instructed William L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education, to investigate booze selling in all school neighborhoods.

Mr. Bodine, acting on the orders, advised his 128 truant officers to make a searching survey of conditions and report every speakeasy within two blocks of a school house.

At the same time school authorities began an inquiry into the story of Monica Henderson, 13 years old, a student at St. Patrick's academy, Momence, Ill., that she had visited a booze flat in Blackstone avenue in company with a married man and had seen high school boys drinking there.

According to the girl, she visited the apartment of Gus Meyers, where liquor was served. Meyers, arraigned Saturday before Judge Howard Hayes in the Grand Crossing court, refused to testify and his case was continued to March 11. Outside of court, however, he charged the girl's tale was inspired by spite. He denied selling to students.

Among those seized in the booze flat raids was Don Teeling, son of Lieut. George Teeling of the Woodlawn station.

Writ Filed for Woman.

What effect the return of Mrs. Kub would have was problematical. The writ which portrayed her not as missing, but as a prisoner in technical custody of the state's attorney's office, was filed, it was said, without her knowledge, and, according to Mueller, without her consent. The petition was submitted by Attorney John R. Mc Sweeney and was directed against Alcock and Judge McGoorty. It charged she was being held at the detective bureau.

Mrs. Kub entered the graft inquiry the middle of January in the exposé of Sergt. Jack Herdegen, who was accused by his ex-sweetheart, Miss Bernice Shaw, of purchasing his police promotion with $1,500 obtained from Jack Zuta, slain vice monger. Miss Shaw also charged Sergt. Herdegen was a collector for Zuta in the Warren avenue district and that Mrs. Kub assumd the rôle of Herdegen's protector by threatening to kill her if she "squealed" on him.

Both Women Before Jury.

The two women appeared before the grand jury Jan. 19. Mrs. Kub disappeared the following day when she was supposed to return as a witness. Fears were expressed she had been menaced and driven out of the city because of testimony given the jurors about general and specific police graft.

Investigators, however, recently observed her riding in an automobile bearing a police license assigned to the state's attorney's office.

In line with the special grand jury quiz, the regular March grand jury was sworn in yesterday by Chief Justice McGoorty. The judge asserted that while Chicago has much to be proud of, its crime situation stood as a challenge to law enforcing agencies and the citizens as well. He cited the operation of the federal laws as an example of true law enforcement. The regular grand jury probably will be asked to reindict in cases where the special jury has acted.

BANDITS GIVE THEIR VICTIM CARFARE HOME

Two robbers stepped onto the running board of the automobile of Joseph Tablik, 7819 Drexel avenue, as he stopped for a traffic light at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue yesterday afternoon. With the point of a pistol against one rib Tablik obeyed orders and drove to a quiet spot about a block away.

"Get out," said one of the holdup men, "but before you start give me your money."

"I haven't got any," replied Tablik. "Tomorrow is pay day and I only had enough for gas this morning."

"In that case," spoke the second man, "here's car fare home. Be careful that nobody takes it away from you."

CAPONE HEARS SENTENCE; POSTS BOND FOR APPEAL

U. S. Begins Tax Case Against Gambler.

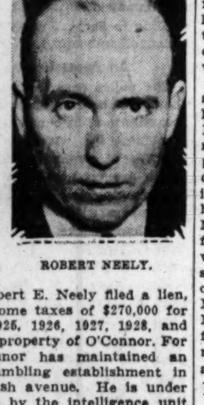
Public enemies and less prominent hoodlums were concerned yesterday with the processes of the law, both state and federal. Those with legal difficulties ranged from Al Capone, public enemy No. 1, to Jerry O'Connor, loop gambler and race horse man, who is in trouble over his income taxes.



ROBERT NEELY.

Acting Collector of Internal Revenue Robert E. Neely filed a lien, claiming income taxes of $270,000 for the years 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, and 1929, on the property of O'Connor. For years O'Connor has maintained an elaborate gambling establishment in South Wabash avenue. He is under investigation by the intelligence unit of the revenue bureau, which handles criminal cases. Whether his case will result in a criminal prosecution has not been ascertained.

Capone Appears for Sentence.

Al Capone appeared before Federal Judge Wilkerson for his formal sentence to six months in the county jail for contempt of court. He also posted a supersedeas bond of $5,000 to permit an appeal. His counsel was allowed 30 days to file a bill of exceptions and the court stipulated that if the contempt case is not disposed of by June 1, when the supersedeas expires, he must go to the Circuit Court of Appeals if he wishes a continuance.

Capone again was escorted to and from the federal building by police squads under Lieut. William McCarthy and Lieut. Edward Birmingham, who protected him last week, during his trial, against possible assassins.

Druggan-Lake Cases Delayed.

The income tax evasion cases against Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, the former beer partners, who have entered conditional pleas of guilty, were up in federal court yesterday for sentence, but each was continued until June 1 pending outcome of the appeals of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien. The beer dispensers reserved the privilege of changing their pleas as to felony counts if these appeals are successful.

Judge Francis Borrelli continued the vagrancy case against Harry Guzik, Capone vice monger, until March 16, with the understanding that it must be disposed of then. Guzik's attorneys insisted on an immediate trial, but the state's attorney's office was engaged with other matters.

State's Attorney Swanson ordered his assistants to be ready on March 25 to prosecute the perjury case against Bernard O'Donnell, brother of William (Klondike) and Myles O'Donnell, which was continued yesterday by Judge Peter M. Schwaba for the eighth time on the request of the state. O'Donnell claimed ownership of a gun in a motion to quash his indictment for carrying concealed weapons, and disavowed ownership during his trial.

The case against Peter von Frantzius, sporting goods dealer, charged with selling machine guns without keeping records of the sales, was continued until March 18 by Judge Justin F. McCarthy, who ruled that a jury must hear it.

Mrs. Lloyd announced yesterday that a fund collected for the promotion of world peace will be presented to Einstein. Among those who will board his car for the reception are: Dean Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago, Mrs. Victor L. Berger, widow of the former Wisconsin Socialist congressman; Mr. and Mrs. James Mullenbach, and the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker.

NEW JURY SYSTEM SPEEDS MURDER TRIAL OF WHITE

High Court Ruling Bars Questions on Law.

William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, considered next to Al Capone as the leading public enemy as listed by the Chicago Crime commission, was placed on trial for murder in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court yesterday. This is White's second trial for the crime, his first conviction having been reversed by the Supreme court.

White's present trial is under the new system of criminal procedure made possible by the recent Supreme court decision making the jurors judges of the fact only, and not of the fact and law, as for the last 103 years. His is the first important case to be tried since the Supreme court rendered its decision several weeks ago.

The progress made in jury selection under the new system, as compared with the old, was quickly noticeable. Before the first day of the trial had ended four jurors were sworn in to try the case. When the same case was tried more than five years ago under the old system it took more than two weeks to select the jury.

No Legal Questions Involved.

Judge Sabath said he hoped to have the jury completed within three days. Attorneys W. W. O'Brien and Everett Jennings, who examined the veniremen for the defense yesterday, said they felt sure the judge's prediction would be fulfilled.

It was pointed out by some of the court attachés that it often took as long as one hour to expound the various theories of the law to a single juror under the old system. Within the space of ten minutes yesterday Attorney O'Brien examined four veniremen. He was confined in his questions to asking only about the facts. In all twenty-eight veniremen were examined at the curtailed court session yesterday, four of them being sworn in, eight of them being excused by peremptory challenge, and the rest for having an opinion in the case or scruples against the death penalty. Court adjourned early and was slow in getting started because of the usual long Monday court call.

Charged with Killing Policeman.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne, who is in charge of the prosecution, said that he expects to meet the objections raised by the Supreme court in refusing to sustain the original conviction of White five years ago. White was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume of Forest Park, but the Supreme court after considering the case for two years set aside the conviction.

Policeman Pflaume was shot and killed when he and several other policemen attempted to arrest White and Jimmy Johnston, an ex-convict, as robbery suspects. The shooting occurred outside of the Mannheim Inn roadhouse near Forest Park.

Johnston was also killed in the shooting and Policeman James McBride was wounded. McBride was recently wounded severely while riding on a street car on his way to the state's attorney's office to assist Prosecutor Ditchburne in gathering the evidence for the new trial of White. Claude Maddox, head of the Circus gang and a friend of White's, is under indictment for the shooting.

The Supreme court in reversing the original conviction said that the prosecution failed to show that the authorities had any right to search White or Johnston or to suspect them of crime. Prosecutor Ditchburne is now prepared, it is reported, to show that White had taken part in two bank robberies and that the police were searching for him at that time as a suspect in these crimes. White was also wanted for the robbery of an ice cream company truck just a few hours before the shooting on Dec. 13, 1925. The prosecutor refused further discussion of his evidence at this time.

The White case was dropped after the Supreme court decision. However, when the recent drive against public enemies started the case was revived and White, who is considered Capone's direct agent in the labor racketeering field, was thrown in jail without bond.

State Asks Death Penalty.

The prosecution is asking the death penalty. In the event such a verdict is returned, White would be hanged rather than electrocuted because his crime was committed prior to the establishment of the electric chair.

The jurors selected at yesterday's session are Fred Cukier, 2230 North Maplewood avenue; James Merton West, 213 West 15th place, Chicago Heights; W. C. Dyer, 6334 Sheridan road, and James A. Comerford of Hillside.

Assistant State's Attorneys James A. Brown and Ross Lee Laird are assisting in the prosecution and White is represented by Attorney W. W. Smith in addition to Attorneys O'Brien and Jennings.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Mathews, Edward McCleskie, and James Campbell, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

GIVES LITSINGER CHANCE TO TELL OF FARO SWINDLE

Edward R. Litsinger will have an opportunity to tell his version of how he lost $50,000 in a faro game at Springfield to the Sangamon county grand jury, March 12, if he so desires, State's Attorney H. E. Fullenwider announced yesterday.

Litsinger accompanied Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, to Springfield, and put up the $50,000 which was lost to three card sharps. He charged her with complicity in the plot to fleece him. Mrs. Blacklidge declared the Cook county reviewer knew his money was to be put in a faro game when he went to Springfield.

State's Attorney Fullenwider said several weeks ago he was awaiting a detailed statement of Litsinger's charges before taking any action, and Litsinger replied that he was too busy with the primary election.

LINCOLN PARK BILL READY FOR HOOVER'S PEN

A bill to give the Lincoln park commissioners jurisdiction over the breakwaters surrounding the Lincoln park harbor and a strip of submerged land in the harbor, 350 feet wide and extending between Oak and Ohio streets, was adopted by the house of representatives in Washington yesterday. Since the bill has already passed the senate, it now awaits only the signature of President Hoover to become law.

The passage of the bill advances plans of the park commissioners to establish a yacht and plane base.

CHARLES PAPE, CAPITALIST, IS SUED BY WIFE

Charging abandonment, Mrs. Marjorie Savage Pape filed suit yesterday in the Supreme court of New York state for legal separation from Charles C. Pape, Chicago and New York capitalist, whose Chicago address is given as the University club.

In her petition Mrs. Pape charged that her husband offered her $5,000 in lieu of alimony claims, which she refused, and asserted that he told her on Feb. 26 that he would remove his property from New York or transfer it to others to prevent her from collecting anything.

This is the BIG IDEA

SOME stores offer some merchandise at prices which do not allow the usual profit, hoping to get the public in with a "leader" and make up the loss on additional purchases which are priced with a greater margin of profit.

For The Davis Store to meet all the lowest prices of all stores every day, on all merchandise, means the elimination here of all high prices. Every article is priced at a "leader" price here. This modern merchandising idea is big, and it is revolutionary.

And The Davis Company, being part of the world's leading mercantile organization, is able to offer the public thousands of additional items at prices so low other stores sometimes refuse to compete. Are you benefiting by The Davis Price Policy?

Chicago's Watchdog
If you buy anything here and pay more than the same article is priced elsewhere on the same day, we will refund you the difference in cash.

$100,000 IS PAID TO VETS IN DAY; 17,000 ASK LOAN

3 Tribune Stations

The three Public Service offices of THE TRIBUNE, at 1 South Dearborn street, 4152 West Madison street, and 1101 East 63d street, are assisting ex-service men in making their bonus loan applications. The downtown office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to midnight, and the west and south side offices from 8:30 a. m. to 10 p. m. Special staffs are provided to aid bonus loan applicants.

Government checks for an aggregate of more than $100,000 were mailed to Chicago war veterans yesterday as the veterans' bureau proceeded with its task of paying loans on adjusted compensation certificates. The first checks distributed on Saturday amounted to approximately $50,000, making the total paid out so far close to $150,000.

Col. Hugh Scott, commandant at the Edward Hines hospital and regional director of the veterans' bureau, promised that the payments will be speeded up today as two more automatic check writing machines go into operation. Two of the machines were installed yesterday, while the clerical force was doubled. Before the end of the week it is expected that 1,000 checks a day will be turned out. This will represent $250,000 daily, as the checks average $250 each.

Seen Boon to Business.

Meanwhile, most of the checks mailed Saturday reached the veterans to whom they were sent and much of the money went immediately into circulation. Financial authorities say the flood of new money will have a decidedly favorable effect on Chicago business conditions.

Under the new bonus law veterans may borrow 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates. There are approximately 357,000 veterans in Illinois, of which 120,000 are in Chicago. A fund of $1,000,000 has been advanced to the Illinois regional office of the veterans' bureau to meet the immediate loans, and Col. Scott is expecting further advances from Washington sufficient to keep ahead of the payments.

The rush of applicants eager to obtain their loans continued during the day to swamp the agencies caring for them.

17,000 Apply for Loans.

A total of 17,000 applications was received during the day. Approximately 15,000 applications were received at the veterans' bureau office at 230 South Wells street and at a supplemental office opened at 206 West Van Buren street. This was 5,000 more than were received on Saturday, the first day for filing applications, and Capt. Charles R. Debow, the contact officer in charge, said he expected the rush to continue for several days. In addition 2,000 applications were taken at the Hines hospital.

At THE TRIBUNE public service office, 1 South Dearborn street, 5,100 veterans were assisted in making out their applications, while approximately 2,500 were helped at the other TRIBUNE public service offices at 4152 West Madison street and 1101 East 63rd street.

The rush for applications at the veterans' bureau loop office was augmented by the appearance of more than 1,000 veterans seeking to obtain adjusted service certificates. Out of the five million men in the service about 500,000 failed to apply for the certificates and many of these were reminded of their failure to apply by the new loan law. Those who applied yesterday, however, were turned away, as the supply of application blanks was exhausted. Capt. Debow advised these applicants to wait for several days until the government printing office is able to supply more blanks.

Governor Utters Last Word on Potlikker

Now We Can Eat! Exclaim Shabby Vets in Bonus Line

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

If any veterans are going to put away in savings banks the money they get from bonus loans, it certainly wasn't indicated by any of those who waited in line yesterday to make out applications for loans at 206 West Van Buren street, the newly opened office of the veterans' bureau.

They were jovial crowds of men who assembled before the Van Buren street office and that at 330 South Wells street as early as 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning. They twitted the affable policemen who made them line up as if for inspection. A few hoary jokes were told, possibly the same which did them service in France.

Where the Money Goes.

Inside the building they again formed in lines before a half dozen tables on the first floor.

John Karels, 1420 West Van Buren street, when asked, "What are you going to buy with your money?" replied:

"That's a silly question. I'm going to buy my five kids—the youngest is 18 months, the oldest 9 years old—some good solid food. I'm going to buy 'em shoes.

"I'm going to get $231, I've figured. My wife's sick in bed. I'm a laborer and I've been out of work 11 months. You can see I won't save much of the loan. Well, I haven't asked for charity, I'm glad to say."

Mrs. Frank Hayes, 1013 West 18th street, wife of a printer who has been ill for three months, was at the veterans' bureau office to take an application home for her husband to sign. Their $300 will go to pay doctor bills and to buy clothes for the children. The couple have four children, the oldest 9 years old.

Other comments by veterans seeking loans were as follows:

PHILIP I. SARNOWSKI, 3735 Muskegon avenue—I've borrowed $100 on a $1,583 policy. That's almost as high as they come. "I had 26 months in the service, over a year in France—in the St. Mihiel and Argonne with the 131st infantry, Thirty-third division. I enlisted, then got married, and our eldest kid was born after I'd been in France seven months. Now I'm going to use this money I get to pay our debts and let him graduate from grammar school and get confirmed.

HENRY EBERLING, 5618 South Racine avenue—I'm selling apples at a stand at Jackson and La Salle. All this I get'll have to go to my wife's folks, because we're living with 'em. But I may save out some to give my old lady, at that.

Fried Chicken for Them.

JAMES CLINTON, Negro, of 3668 Indiana avenue—Me and my wife and three kids is going to have a good chicken dinner—fried chicken. And I'm going to send my wife back to Jackson, Miss., where we came from, to visit. I'm working in the foundry and I don't owe anything.

GEORGE TAMAS, 6932 Lakewood avenue, who was in the army before the United States entered the war, as well as throughout the war—I had a shoe business of my own and $8,000 in the bank a year ago. I went bankrupt. Now I'm selling apples in the loop. I made 55 cents today. The furniture store has taken my furniture. I'm going to pay my bills first, but there's one thing I'm going to save out money for: a coat and shoes for my wife. The kids are only 2½ years and 14 months. They don't need clothes.

Proposes Tourney

New Orleans, La., March 2.—(AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long tentatively decided today to call a potlikker tournament with the potlikker editor of the Atlanta Constitution as the guest of honor in order to demonstrate to the editor the art and etiquette of dunking the corn pone in potlikker, chitterlings, and "collards."

"I am now considering calling a potlikker tournament at the Louisiana white house in Baton Rouge," Gov. Long said, "and I shall make the potlikker editor of the Atlanta Constitution the guest of honor.

"I have concluded that the only way to handle this matter is to make it nation-wide and a tournament in which all potlikker enthusiasts may participate."

WOMAN CALLED TO JURY SERVICE; IT'S A MISTAKE

For a few hours yesterday Miss Vlasta Rys, 1615 South Austin boulevard, Cicero, had hopes of being the first woman to serve on a Circuit court jury in Cook county. She had been summoned for jury service in Circuit Judge George Fred Rush's court in the county building. With 34 other prospective jurors, all men, she waited in the courtroom for a jury trial to be called.

VLASTA RYS.

"I feel rather embarrassed," Miss Rys told reporters. "The men all look down on me. But I'm ready to serve."

Meanwhile word was sent to the jury commissioners and they hurried in to inform Miss Rys that it was all a mistake. She was then dismissed by Judge Rush after being paid the juror's daily rate of $5. Although the use of women on juries was approved by the voters last November, the new system is not yet ready for operation in Cook county. A list of eligible women jurors is now being compiled from the poll records.

ROB ENGINEER IN AUTO, THEN BEAT HIM UNCONSCIOUS

Frank J. Murray, 47 years old, 1641 West Marquette road, was beaten unconscious by two robbers who halted his automobile on a lonely highway west of Maywood yesterday afternoon. At the Englewood hospital, where he was taken, it was stated last night that his condition was serious and that his skull was possibly fractured.

Murray, an estimating engineer, had gone to the western suburb to look over some work. According to his rather incoherent story, the men forced the large automobile in which they were riding against his car and when he stopped robbed him of $160. After beating him they left him in a ditch.

A passing truck farmer brought him to Chicago. At Grand and Cicero avenues he was placed in a Yellow cab and the driver, Julius Druwe, 258 North Francisco avenue, took him on his own order to the hospital.

ARRAIGN 2 CHICAGOANS AS SLAYERS.

Rossbud, S. D., March 2.—(AP)—Two men who said they were John McCree and Roy Carter of Chicago were to be arraigned at Parmalee tomorrow after their identification late yesterday as the slayers of C. B. Dowling, 75, Parmalee storekeeper.

Appellate Court Upsets Lyle Gun Toting Sentence

The Appellate court yesterday set aside the gun toting sentence imposed on Peter Delmero by Judge John H. Lyle several months ago. Delmero was sentenced to a year's imprisonment in the Bridewell and a fine of $300. The defendant said that he asked a jury trial and that his plea was refused.

Carl De Mont, Merchant, Dies of Auto Gas in West

Carl De Mont, head of the linen company bearing his name at 334 South Michigan avenue, was found dead yesterday of carbon monoxide poisoning in a garage at Altadena, according to telegraphic advices received here last night from Los Angeles. De Mont was slumped in his machine, the motor of which was running. His home address was 3740 Sheridan road.

BRIDGE SLAYER'S SOBS INTERRUPT MOTHER'S STORY

Testimony Aids Defense Accident Theory.

Kansas City, Mo., March 2.—(AP)—Tears interrupted the trial of Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett for the alleged "bridge game" murder of her husband today, after Mrs. Alice Adkins, 47, mother of Mrs. Bennett, was called to the stand.

Visibly affected by the ordeal to which her mother was to be subjected, Mrs. Bennett tried to restrain herself. Her sobs became audible when James A. Reed, her chief counsel, asked the witness her name. She was crying without restraint when the mother answered.

Tears welled to the eyes of the former United States senator when, after vainly attempting to start another question several times, he appealed to the court for a recess.

Testimony Aids Defense.

Mrs. Adkins, who sat quietly, but watching her daughter with concern while friends quieted her tears, presently was able to continue testimony in which she helped develop the theory of the defense that the shooting of Bennett was accidental.

Mrs. Adkins still was on the stand when court adjourned for the day. Defense attorneys said Mrs. Benentt would follow her mother to the witness chair tomorrow.

The mother said she awoke in her bedroom the night of the trouble when the light was turned on and saw her daughter rummaging in the drawer in which Mr. Bennett's pistol was left for Mrs. Adkins' protection when he was not traveling.

"What are you doing?" she asked.

"Jack wants his gun; he is going to St. Joseph," her daughter replied, according to her testimony.

"Did she seem to be worried about something?" the attorney asked.

"Yes, she did appear troubled," replied Mrs. Adkins.

Tells of Shooting Aftermath.

Pistol shots rang out a moment later, the witness said, and she ran into the living room, where her son-in-law was staggering near a doorway and her daughter was "paralyzed by fear." Both women rushed to the wounded man as he slumped to a chair, she said.

"O, Jack, I couldn't help it," Mrs. Adkins quoted her daughter as saying.

"He said 'mother' and seemed to be trying to explain something to me," Mrs. Adkins testified, "but I couldn't understand him.

"Myrtle was crying 'Jack, Jack, talk to me,' and later said, 'If Jack is gone I want to go, too.'"

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, N. Y., March 2.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey refereed some bouts in the notorious city of Niles, Mich., Saturday night, and his old pal, Doc Bonnie, requested the merchants to close their stores at 9 o'clock in the evening in his honor. It was like asking the inhabitants of Belgium to quit playing backgammon the day that the German army started shooting at the fortress of Liege. RING LARDNER.

REVIEWERS WIN 48 HOUR DELAY ON TAX PROTESTS

Judge Again Says He Favors Owners.

Attorneys for the board of review were yesterday granted forty-eight hours by Judge Taylor in which to file new objections to the petitions of thirty downtown property owners who demand that the hearings on 1929 real estate assessments be reopened. During the course of the arguments the judge again declared that he could see little reason why the pleas of the taxpayers should not be granted even though the result may be "almost a calamity." The case was set for final hearing next Monday.

Taxing officials yesterday were estimating that if the taxpayers win their plea for a hearing on their assessments it will mean a delay in mailing out the 1929 tax bills of anywhere from two weeks to two months. The taxes are due April 1.

Attorneys put the blame for the new crisis in the county's financial troubles on the shoulders of the board of review. Attorney Lester Falk, representing the thirty taxpayers whose property has a market value of about $60,000,000, declared that the action of the reviewers in refusing a hearing on their complaints was autocratic.

Cutmore Blames Reviewers.

Harry S. Cutmore, chief appraiser for the board of assessors, said that the board of review might have begun hearing complaints on the assessments in August, instead of November.

Meanwhile, public officials began taking stock of their funds to determine how much ready cash was on hand to meet pay rolls and bills. The outlook for the sale of 1931 tax anticipation warrants was viewed with pessimism in some circles, because of the uncertainty as to when the 1929 taxes will be collected. Doubt was expressed if the banks will lend any more money until these taxes are collected.

Michael J. O'Connor, assistant deputy controller of the county board, reported that the corporate and highway funds are completely void of cash. Pay rolls have been met and bills paid since Dec. 1 on what are called extralegal loans from the county treasurer. How much longer the county treasurer will advance the necessary funds is a moot point, he admitted.

Schools Face Crisis.

President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education, said that the board can keep going only until April 1. After that, he said, the payment of salaries to the 20,000 teachers and other school employés will depend entirely on the sale of tax warrants. Negotiations for the sale of $12,500,000 in bonds to Halsey, Stuart & Co. have been completed but all of this will be spent in a month, he said.

A teachers' pay roll of $3,700,000 is due next Friday and again on March 27. The civil service employés will be paid $335,000 today—a day late—through arrangements with the syndicate purchasing the bonds, Myers said.

Only the city appeared in a position to continue paying its employés during the next few months. City officials announced that the total cash resources at the present time are $48,191,877 and that it is proposed to take this money to meet current expenses and deposit 1931 tax anticipation warrants in its place.

Dillon Keeps Up Social Front as 33 Victims Identify Him

A young man lounged yesterday afternoon in the lieutenant's office at the first district police station. He was receiving visitors, a steady stream of them, and many of these visitors pointed their fingers at him and exclaimed "That's him!"

MRS. LOTTIE IVER. [Robbery victim.]

"Absurd!" remarked Edward Dillon, 24 years old, smoothing back his black curly hair as he was identified for the thirty-third time as an armed holdup man. A circle of policemen looked on.

"Did you ever see any one like him?" inquired Sergt. Thomas Foley. "Apparently he's held up most of Chicago. And look at him!"

Serves Two Prison Terms.

Young Dillon has been identified time after time as a bandit who held up hotels and stores in addition to an occasional alley stickup. His record revealed that he had served two prison terms for robbery following his release from custody in connection with the murder of his father, Dr. William A. Dillon, in St. Louis in 1925.

But the prisoner's ready line of conversation, his air of injured innocence in the face of overwhelming evidence brought remarks from the detectives.

However, Dillon was shown to have been as convincing in a drawing room as in a police station. Despite his prison record, he had gained an introduction to persons of prominence in Chicago and had escorted their daughters to fraternity dances and theaters on funds provided by his pistol.

A 17 year old girl, daughter of a well known manufacturer, was with Dillon when he was arrested on Saturday night in the lobby of the Erlanger theater.

Gives Story of His Life.

Dillon appeared indignant yesterday when the name of his companion was given publicity. But he hinted that she had not been the only girl of good standing to have accompanied him to social affairs.

He told something of his early life to interviewers. He is the grandson, he said, of Judge Daniel Dillon, a noted St. Louis jurist. After leaving high school he went to Washington university in St. Louis and later to the University of Kansas. It was while he was at the latter school, he declared, that word came of the finding of the body of his father on the campus of the St. Louis university.

"When they found out I was the beneficiary of $25,000 life insurance in a policy taken out by my father there was quite a fuss," he said. "I was arrested, but they let me go after a while."

"Did you get the insurance?" he was asked.

"I did," he replied. "Don't ask me where it went to."

"It must have gone somewhere," remarked Sergt. Foley, "or you wouldn't have been pulling 90-cent holdups."

Many Victims Identify Him.

The reference was to Dillon's holdup of Al Baker, 1260 North Dearborn street, an insurance broker, who saw Dillon in the theater lobby and insisted upon the arrest. The police were for some time reluctant to grant his request because of Dillon's suave protests. But Baker positively identified the youth as the man who held him up and took 90 cents from him.

But once the word was broadcast to victims of holdups to come in and view Dillon, identifications began piling up in the police records. No. 33 was Henry Dorian, 1255 Wilson avenue, proprietor of a cleaning and dyeing establishment. Dorian took one look at the youth.

"Well, we meet again," he remarked, grimly. "You're the fellow with the gun that took $15 from me."

Will Tell It as Witness.

"You decided it quickly enough," responded Dillon. "How do you know it was I? How much did you lose? When was this robbery?"

"I'll tell it all on the witness stand," replied Dorian.

"O, don't put yourself out for me," said Dillon.

A woman came in, looked at the youth, and said: "No, that isn't the one who held me up."

"That's a pleasant shock," remarked Dillon. "I was beginning to think I had committed all the robberies in Chicago since the first of the year."

But another woman among those viewing the prisoner identified him as the man who had held her up. She is Mrs. Lottie Iver, 5451 Cornell avenue.

Among those who arrived at the station was former Judge Joseph L. McCarthy of the Municipal court. Judge McCarthy said that Dillon robbed him and his wife in front of their home at 4710 Magnolia avenue on Jan. 7. Dillon took $16 from him, but did not take his wife's jewels, the judge said.

WEALTHY MATE ACCUSES FORMER CHICAGO WOMAN

New Haven, Conn., March 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna May Struthers Bishop, formerly of Chicago, was accused of infidelity, public impropriety, and a "commercial attitude" toward her husband, Frank S. Bishop, in a 3,000 word statement filed today in amplification of Bishop's divorce bill, which was placed on the records here last October.

Bishop, a wealthy corporation lawyer and a Yale alumnus, charged in the statement that his wife had concealed her intrigues from him by the practice of fraud and deception. He further related that Mrs. Bishop told him shortly after their marriage on Dec. 31, 1920, that she had repudiated her love for him "and that the only way he could get it back was by paying $2,500 for it."

The specific charge of misconduct with the late Albert H. Loeb of Chicago also was made. The latter was the father of Richard Loeb, now serving a life sentence in Joliet prison for the murder of Bobby Franks. Mrs. Bishop, before her marriage, was governess to Richard, and it was alleged by Bishop that an intrigue between her and the millionaire Loeb began while she was a member of his household. Mr. Loeb died on Oct. 27, 1924.

certain guarantees about the Mediterranean.

On the basis of the above facts Italy claims that she has gained the following advantages:

First—Political prestige, since the other great powers have had to wait for Italy's last word before they could make a pact of world wide scope. Second—Italy has defeated a move for France to adhere separately to the tri-party pact of London. Third—Italy has avoided having any hierarchy of other powers impose unacceptable conditions on her. Fifth—Italy has gotten around the question of parity without renouncing this principle in working out contingent programs, that is, the naval programs of now and 1936. Sixth—Italy has obtained equivalence in replacement construction with France until 1936, leaving unprejudiced her right to develop her fleet in view of problems which arise after that date.

"ENDS NAVAL RACE"

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—Elated at the success of the hurried negotiations they began just a week ago, Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, accompanied by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, returned to London this evening.

"The outstanding feature of the success, whatever may be the limitations imposed on naval armament in one category or another, is the political achievement," he declared. "It prevents what was a very real possibility, a renewal of competition in naval armaments between the two countries concerned.

"It has been suggested that the result might be a compact of three countries against a fourth. I wish to emphasize that there was no such pact nor any other pact mentioned. We went to solve problems left unsolved by the London conference."

May Not Go to Senate.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—Formal notification of the successful conclusion of the British-French-Italian naval negotiations was given Secretary Stimson today by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador.

The secretary announced later that he still lacked sufficient details and would maintain the silence he has held since the negotiations began.

In view of the information they have so far, American officials thought that the agreement would not have to be submitted to the senate.

ROME, March 2, 1931 [Ninth Year of the Fascist Régime.]—(AP)—The agreement reached on the naval questions which were left unsolved at the London conference is a great international event.

It will have large and beneficial repercussions not only on the Italo-French relations, but also on those of the five great naval powers which thus see consolidated the results so ardently desired by their peoples as a means of avoiding a ruinous armament competition.

Says Italy Makes Sacrifices.

It is reasonable to hope for favorable influence on the world economic crisis that so greatly harasses peoples with painful manifestations, of which the most evident is unemployment.

For these and for other reasons the happy results of this agreement may be felt by all the peoples of the world, and so is made a fortunate beginning of this year of preparation for the general disarmament conference.

Italy has not hesitated for the sake of this high ideal to take the initiative of considerable sacrifices. I can affirm with a clear conscience that Italy in this matter has done her duty toward civilized nations.

Pays Tribute to U. S.

It pleases me to recall that the United States has always exercised, in the interest of the agreement that now has been reached, an effective and objective action that the people and the government of Italy have appreciated highly. I am glad also to remember that this new phase of world pacification was begun by the clear and firm declaration President Hoover made in assuming office.

I can say that the American program for the reduction of armaments is also the program of Italy, and I hope firmly that Italy and the United States may coöperate in the realization of this aim.

DEAN OF ALIMONY ROW ENDS 6 MONTH COUNTY JAIL TERM

William Hudson Donald, 77 years old, 6359 University avenue, known as the "dean of alimony row" in the county jail, stepped to freedom yesterday when his six months' term expired. He was sentenced last September by Judge Philip Finnegan after he had failed to pay alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Katherine Anne Donald, 71 years old, 5548 Drexel avenue. She charged that her former husband preferred to maintain a housekeeper to paying her $646 back alimony, accrued at the rate of $8 per week.

CERMAK-DENEEN UNION IS SEEN IN BAIN RE-ELECTION

Anti-Thompson Sentiment Swinging to Democrat.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Something at least approaching an understanding between A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor, and Senator Deneen was seen yesterday in the reelection of Commissioner John Bain of the south park board.

Commissioner Bain was reelected without opposition at the meeting of the judges of the Circuit court held in the county building. There was no other candidate proposed and the action was by acclamation. It was reported in the corridors that a complete accord had been reached on Sunday.

Prior to that time there had been an agreement that the election would be postponed until after the mayoralty election, five weeks from today. A combination of Democratic judges with non-Deneen Republican judges could have effected that delay without difficulty. That it did not occur was taken as indicating that Cermak will be able to count upon some Deneen organization support against Mayor Thompson.

Swing to Cermak Seen.

This was the first overt act since the primary a week ago today, accepted as proof of the general belief that a large part of the anti-Thompson vote is swinging to Cermak. But it is asserted by Democratic leaders that there were less manifest but no less certain signs of the same sort of tendency at the first "Republican day" luncheon given in honor of Cermak at the Steuben club.

The Democratic headquarters professed itself confident that in spite of his long silence Dr. Herman N. Bundesen will not announce himself as a third candidate, citing these evidences of anti-Thompson Republican support for Cermak to show that organization support will not go to an independent on April 7.

John J. McNeill, a west side undertaker, and others constituting what Dr. Bundesen has said is an "unauthorized" committee, issued another statement predicting that the coroner's name will be entered in the race before the deadline at midnight tonight. Dr. Bundesen immediately branded this statement also as "unauthorized."

"When an announcement is made," he said, "I'll be the one who makes it."

He added that he will issue a statement over his signature today saying with finality whether he will or will not be a candidate.

Roe Causes Amusement.

Another development in the Bundesen situation caused some amusement among the politicians. Last week a certificate of the nomination of Bundesen on the "People's Nonpartisan ticket" was filed by Charles C. Roe, who has been in trouble with the law in the past because of his political tactics. Bundesen immediately said he would withdraw from that nomination and disowned the Charles Roe crowd. Now Roe has filed a mayoralty nomination certificate for himself as the choice of the "Citizens' Nonpartisan" party.

Because of a similarity of names the identity of Charles C. Roe, this politically irresponsible operator, was confused in THE TRIBUNE yesterday with that of Clifford G. Roe, an attorney of high standing in the community. The latter has been mentioned as one of the supporters of Dr. Bundesen, but he had nothing to do with the filing of the nomination by the "People's Nonpartisan" party and has not been associated in any way with the Charles C. Roe activities.

Lyle Supporters Present.

At the "Republican day" luncheon of the Democratic organization it was said that a large number of precinct captains who had backed Judge Lyle last Tuesday and several who had been with Albert were seated at the tables among the Democratic captains, but that the names were withheld until after their groups have had opportunity to look over the situation and determine whether they will take united action.

BATTLESHIPS WIN "PANAMA WAR"; BEAT AIRCRAFT

PANAMA CITY, March 2.—(AP)—The most important lesson learned in this year's war games was that aircraft and cruisers alone cannot withstand the steady and inexorable advance of battleships, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of operations, said today.

Admiral Pratt, who devised the problem which was "fought" off Panama and Nicaragua between the scouting battle fleets, sat as a spectator at today's discussion of the operations. He said later the battleship's day was far from done and although it was enormously expensive "we haven't found anything else cheaper to take its place."

During the war games the defending force was composed of a light mobile group of cruisers and aircraft while the attacking squadron consisted principally of battleships. Recently reorganized on a basis of economy, the fleet, Admiral Pratt said proved itself more efficient than heretofore. A large part of the fleet was leaving tonight for tactical exercises during the next three weeks.

BRITISH CABINET SHAKEN UP AFTER MINISTER QUITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—Political circles were surprised tonight by announcement of an unexpected reshuffle in the composition of the MacDonald Labor cabinet following the sudden resignation of Sir Charles Trevelyan, minister of education. Sir Charles, who piloted the government's recent education bill through the house of commons, was bitterly disappointed when the house of lords rejected the measure. The bill would have compelled children to attend school up to the age of 15.

In his resignation letter to Prime Minister MacDonald, Sir Charles said he was "prohibited by the action of the house of lords from carrying through any drastic educational program."

H. B. Lees-Smith, postmaster general, succeeds Sir Charles as minister of education. Maj. C. R. Attlee, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, becomes postmaster general.

BARILOCHE, Argentina, March 2.—The prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, who passed the night at Huelul Chalet, on the shore of Lake Nahuel Huapi, played golf this morning before proceeding to Bariloche to review ex-service men.

Wales played and beat Carlos Ortiz Basualdo, and Prince George took a licking from Samuel Ortiz Basualdo. The Ortiz Basualdo family, which played host to the royal pair, are fabled to own "half of Argentina." Carlos, who has an income exceeding $8,000 a week, married Leonora Hughes, famous dancer and partner of Maurice, on Feb. 24, 1925.

After reviewing the ex-service men here, with whom the princes chatted for some time, the party proceeded to the Pilcameu ranch, which belongs to the Argentine Southern Land company.

BOOTLEG LIQUOR OF 1930 FOUND LESS DRINKABLE

The bootleg booze on the 1930 Chicago market was slightly inferior to the product of the previous year, according to a report submitted yesterday to Dr. J. M. Murphy, acting assistant health commissioner. Ninety per cent of the booze samples tested by the department in 1929 was drinkable, the report shows, while only 86 per cent of the 193 samples was fit.

Despite this increase in the amount of harmful liquor, the death rate from alcoholic causes decreased in 1930. Other records show that the Chicago death rate from alcoholic causes was 4.1 per 100,000 population in 1929, while it was only 2.7 last year. This means, the report states, that 135 persons died in Chicago from alcoholic causes in 1929 and only 92 in 1930.

The 1930 alcoholic death rate is the lowest since 1920, when only 1.7 persons per 100,000 died.

PASTORS REJECT ANY INDEPENDENT IN MAYORAL RACE

Congregationalists Urge Fight on Thompson.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Coroner Bundesen will not enter the mayoralty race as an independent candidate if he follows the advice of Congregational pastors of the city. At their regular meeting yesterday at the Central Y. M. C. A. the ministers of that denomination not only turned down Dr. Bundesen, but also, by a vote of 60 to 2, disapproved the principle of an independent candidacy to meet Chicago's present political needs.

The defeated resolution had been offered by the Rev. Dr. Gilbert Wilson of the Park Manor Congregational church and an active worker in the Better Government association. Following the vote against backing an independent, another resolution was offered to endorse A. J. Cermak, and a hot debate followed. Some of the ministers asked how they could declare themselves against Mayor Thompson and dodge an indorsement of Mr. Cermak unless an independent candidate should be called into the race.

"Thompson Is Worse."

"In my opinion, Cermak is bad," argued the Rev. Paul Newey, pastor of the Assyrian Congregational church. "But," he added, "Thompson is worse and it looks to me as though we should choose between the lesser of two evils and indorse Cermak."

The Rev. Dr. Morrison Thomas of the Ravenswood Congregational church spoke of the situation as one in which a religious group is called to support a candidate who is an avowed wet.

"We canont indorse Cermak," said Dr. Thomas, "but we are faced with our dilemma due to the lack of better material in the mayoralty race."

Favor Cermak Over Independent.

The Cermak resolution was withdrawn, but what was interpreted as a "backhanded" indorsement of the Democratic candidate was practically unanimously passed. The resolution read: "The interests of Chicago could be better served by voting for the present opponent of William Hale Thompson than by supporting an independent candidate."

The Rev. G. S. Mills, president of the Pastors' association and pastor of the Wellington Avenue Congregational church, said during the debate that an independent candidate would get little support from any of the ministerial groups of the city.

Salesman Shot Twice as He Takes New Territory

Joseph Byrnes, 38 years old, 4526 Sheridan road, a house to house fur salesman, was shot in both legs last evening by unidentified assailants at 61st street and Harper avenue. The truck he was driving was forced to the curb by a large sedan in which rode the two men who fired on him. At the Illinois Central hospital Byrnes said that he believed the men wished to keep him from selling in south side territory, as there had been heretofore a tacit agreement that he would stay north of the loop. He denied that he knew the men who shot him.

FLOOD FUND SUIT POSTPONED UNTIL AFTER ELECTION

Judge Robert E. Gentzel in Superior court yesterday continued until April 13 his ruling on a petition to compel three witnesses to testify at a hearing of the charges that Mayor Thompson improperly used funds contributed by school children and others in 1927 for the relief of Mississippi flood sufferers. The continuance will delay a thorough hearing of the charges until after the mayoralty election on April 7.

The witnesses who refused to testify before Master in Chancery Harry Smitz, are Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe, R. H. Holst, an employé in the city controller's office, and Grover D. Edwards, secretary and treasurer of the Congress hotel. On Feb. 18 Judge Denis E. Sullivan delayed a ruling on the petition which attorneys for the witnesses and the defendants in the flood suit challenged. He placed the matter on the contested motion calendar of Judge Gentzel, who then was on his vacation.

When the case was called before Judge Gentzel yesterday only the attorneys for the defendants were present and there were no objections when the ruling on the petition was continued.

The unopposed Democratic candidate is Peter Peterson.

DIVORCE GRANTED TO MRS. BELKNAP ON DAY SHE SUES

Charges Chicago Broker Deserted Her.

One of the speediest divorces on record in the Circuit court at Waukegan was obtained yesterday by Mrs. Thomas A. Belknap of Barrington, well known in social circles of Chicago and the north shore suburbs, from her husband, a young La Salle street broker.

The suit was filed during the morning session of court yesterday at the opening of the March term. Despite a crowded calendar, Judge Ralph J. Dady heard the case yesterday afternoon and granted the decree. Desertion was charged.

Mrs. Belknap is the former Elizabeth Van Hagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ely Van Hagen of 1550 Dearborn parkway. Her bill states that her husband left their home on Jan. 25, 1929, and has not returned. No alimony was asked, nor was any mention made in court as to any property settlement.

The marriage of the then Miss Van Hagen and Mr. Belknap, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Belknap, was one of the events of the summer of 1925. It was solemnized at Wakefield Farms, the estate of the bride's parents at Barrington, in an elaborate outdoor setting. Hundreds of guests attended the reception and supper afterwards. A honeymoon in Europe followed.

Mrs. Belknap was a debutante of the season of 1924, being introduced to society by her parents at a ball at the Blackstone hotel.

ton's flivver sedan. He was holding a girl in his arms. She had on a raccoon coat and her head was hanging on his shoulder.

Q.—What was said? A.—Well, I hopped into the front seat to chat with Kirkland. I was sitting with my feet hanging over the running board with the door open. I was looking back at him.

Couldn't Feel Any Pulse.

Q.—Yes, but what was said? A.—Kirkland was acting pretty nervous. He was fumbling with her hand and all of a sudden he said: "My God, feel her pulse. I think she's dead."

Q.—What did you do? A.—Well, I took her hand, but I didn't exactly feel her pulse. It never occurred to me that she was really dead. I told Kirkland not to worry—that she was all right and had only passed out from booze.

Q.—Anything else? A.—Well, she looked pretty pale and I felt her face. It seemed cold as ice. I suggested a cup of coffee for her, but Kirkland said it wasn't any use, that she could not drink it.

Q.—Is that all? A.—Barton and Dave Thompson came out of the restaurant, got into the car, and they drove away.

Tells of Call for Doctor.

Davidson was dismissed without cross-examination. A chum, Herbert Parker, was then summoned to tell the jury how, while Davidson was talking with Kirkland in the car, Barton was inside the restaurant trying to get a doctor. Parker said he suggested Dr. Russell O. Wharton, whom Barton called and who pronounced Arlene dead some fifteen minutes later when they carried her into his home.

As Clemens told his story the defense interposed frequent objections. He was subjected to rigorous cross-examination, in which Attorney Oscar B. Thiel developed certain discrepancies between his trial testimony and that he gave at the coroner's inquest.

Q.—When did you first see Arlene after Kirkland took her from your home? A.—At the Marshall & Dewey morgue. She was dead.

Q.—Where were you in the meantime? A.—Well, Arlene and Virgil left about 8 o'clock and my wife and I retired about 11. Along about 2 a. m. we were still awake, wondering why she hadn't come home and my wife said, "Arlene must——"

The defense objected and the answer was stricken from the record.

Q.—Tells us just what happened? A.—It was exactly 3:20 a. m. when the doorbell rang and my wife said: "It must be Arlene."

Another objection and the answer was stricken from the record.

Q.—What did you hear? A.—Some one run up the front steps outside. The doorbell rang and I heard some one shouting: "Open the door, it's Virgil."

Q.—Then what? A.—Well, my wife opened the door and Virgil burst in, carrying Arlene's hat and coat on his left arm. He said: "Babe's dead from poison liquor. We'd all been drinking." Of course, my wife collapsed.

Q.—What happened then? A.—Well, I carried my wife to a sofa. Then I turned to Virgil saying: "What? Poison liquor? Where's she at?"

Q.—Did he tell you? A.—He said she was at Dr. Wharton's house. I thought there might still be a chance for her and when our doctor came I sent him over to see her. It was no use. She was dead.

Describes Kirkland's Arrest.

Q.—Did you leave the house then? A.—No, the cops came in then. One of them saw Virgil and asked who he was. I told them he was the boy that took Arlene to the party. Virgil said: "Murrel, I'm sunk." Then they took him away.

On cross-examination Attorney Thiel had before him a transcript of testimony at the coroner's inquest.

Q.—Have you told all the conversation between you and Virgil? A.—All that I remember.

Q.—Didn't you say at the coroner's inquest that Virgil told you it hurt him just as much as it did you? A.—No, he didn't say it to me. He went into the bedroom and told my wife that.

Q.—Weren't you asked what Virgil's condition was as regards sobriety, and didn't you answer that he'd been drinking? A.—I did, but I didn't say he was drunk.

Q.—And didn't you tell the coroner's jury that Virgil told you Arlene had fallen down and hit her head? A.—No. If the record shows that I was misquoted. What I said was that Virgil told me Arlene had hit her head. He said nothing to me about her falling down.

Sister Identifies Lingerie.

Elsie Draves, a frail girl with unrouged cheeks and modest demeanor, was called to prove that Arlene did not invite Kirkland's advances by her unconventional attire at the party. She was first handed Arlene's lingerie, which had not been previously introduced in evidence.

Q.—You and your sister dressed together that night? A.—Yes, sir. I saw her put on these step-ins.

Q.—You are certain she wore the step-ins and brassiere? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When she put them on, were they torn and soiled as you see them now? A.—No, sir, they were fresh and clean.

Q.—You saw her leave the house with Kirkland? A.—Yes, sir, it was early in the evening.

Q.—When did you next see your sister? A.—On a slab in the morgue. She was dead.

Q.—Were there marks on her body? A.—There was scratches on her hands and finger marks on her throat. It looked as if she had been through a terrible fight with some——"

Attorney John Crumpacker was on his feet objecting that the witness was stating not a fact but a conclusion. The judge sustained the objection. The witness was excused without cross-examination.

Companions' Confessions Barred.

The state incurred a setback at the morning session when the court denied Mr. Underwood's motion to introduce into evidence the confessions of Kirkland's companions, Paul Barton, Leon Stanford, David Thompson, and Henry Shirk, jointly indicted with him, but not now on trial.

A contradiction in the testimony of two of the state's own witnesses, Policemen Paul Roberts and Leo Edwards of Gary, was the deciding factor in the ruling, Judge Crumpacker said.

The legal question at issue was whether all five confessions had been read to their authors in Kirkland's presence. Policeman Edwards, who witnessed the defendants' signatures, had sworn they were read to all while Officer Roberts, who typed out the statements, had asserted they were not.

Following the court's ruling, the Lake county prosecutor, Robert G. Estill, associate of Mr. Underwood, declared that when the trial is over he would demand of Mayor Roswell O. Johnson of Gary that Roberts be discharged from the force.

"He perjured himself on the stand," the prosecutor said. "This isn't the first time, either. He's done it before in Gary liquor cases."

Intricate Medical Questioning.

Dr. Stoner, a typical family physician with iron gray hair, a broad, reamed face and deep deliberate voice, was on the stand more than two hours as Defense Attorney Ronald Oldham wrestled with medical terms and hypothetical questions to make him admit that Arlene might have died solely of a brain concussion, suffered in an accidental fall.

"Now, doctor, can you state these contributing causes of death in their order of importance," Mr. Oldham began.

The physician reflected a moment, then counted them off on his fingers:

1. Exposure to the weather;
2. Exhaustion due to repeated ravishment;
3. Internal hemorrhages;
4. Shock, and
5. Brain concussion.

Q.—What sort of shock are you referring to? A.—Surgical shock. The kind that attends surgical operations.

Q.—Could she suffer this shock if unconscious? A.—Certainly. Her consciousness would not be a factor.

Mr. Oldham then propounded a 300 word hypothetical question, covering the defense's contention that Arlene suffered a fall on the porch, suffering a brain concussion, and asking him to state whether it alone could have caused death. The physician started to give a qualified answer and was interrupted.

MR. OLDHAM: Doctor, you are told enough to know that when a hypothetical question is put to you you must base your answer on the assumptions in the question.

DR. STONER—I can't believe it is possible to answer your question.

MR. OLDHAM—Now, please, doctor, don't inject into your answer anything you've read in the newspapers.

The lawyer finally won an affirmative answer to the hypothetical question and, pressing the advantage, sought to bring out that a girl, suffering from brain concussion, would have acted like one intoxicated, slowly sinking into a stupor, resulting in death within a few hours. Here the physician contradicted him.

Disagrees with Defense Theory.

Q.—Now, isn't it possible, doctor, that a normal 20 year old boy like the defendant here, sitting with a girl who has suffered a brain concussion, could easily be deceived into thinking her drunk and have her die on his hands without knowing it? A.—It would depend on his powers of observation.

Q.—Doctor, I framed the question to keep you from dodging me—answer now, wouldn't the girl have died in just a few hours as I suggested? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Why not? A.—In a brain concussion of the sort you describe the patient would probably live two or three days.

Q.—Without medical treatment? A.—Without medical treatment. I know of specific cases where it happened

Takes Up Injuries.

Here Mr. Oldham took up Arlene's internal injuries.

Q.—The rupture of the tissues and membranes herein described — they were not so large as to justify one assuming an atrocious ravishment, were they, doctor? A.—That's a difficult question. I can't say as to that.

Kirkland, expecting the defense would have opened this afternoon and put him on the stand, wore a freshly pressed suit, stiff linen collar, and new blue tie for his anticipated appearance on the stand.

CASSIUS POUST QUITS AS U. S. PROSECUTOR TO ENTER LAW FIRM

CASSIUS POUST.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson yesterday announced "with regret" the resignation of his first assistant, Cassius Poust, who is entering private practice with former United States Attorney Edwin W. Sims and former Judges Franklin J. Stransky and Walter Brewer.

"Both I and my entire staff have the greatest admiration for Col. Poust," said Mr. Johnson. "No one has more deservedly earned a fine professional reputation for ability and courtesy."

As first assistant under Mr. Johnson Col. Poust has been chief of counsel in all important cases prosecuted here, including the Litzinger-Flannery $133,000 Evergreen Park mail robbery and the income tax evasion cases of Ralph Capone, Jack Guzik, County Assessor Gene Oliver, and State Representative Lawrence O'Brien.

Prosecutor Poust served in the infantry during the war. He is now a lieutenant colonel.

Call for Fair Play Wins Public Support

A Message from L. A. Downs, President, Illinois Central System.

The appeal of the railroads for equality of competition in transportation has won the support of the public.

From press, platform, mail and personal interview has come approval of the aggressive declaration of the railroads.

This response shows that the American people realize that:

No other transportation set-up can permanently supplant the railroads;

Without subsidies or other unfair advantages much of the railroads' competition could not survive;

A square deal in transportation is the only way in which the interest of the public itself can be fairly served.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

CONGRESS ACTS TO CLEAR DECKS TO END SESSION

House Votes 90% Cut in Immigration.

DOMESTIC.

Washington, D. C., March 3 (Tuesday).—(Special.)—A filibuster against the Vestal copyright bill kept the senate in session until 2:58 this morning. Senators Trammell of Florida and Dill of Washington led the filibuster. Senator Herbert (Rep., R. I.), in charge of the bill, finally consented to adjourn. Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.) moved to displace the copyright bill with the Jenkins bill to slash immigration 90 per cent, but he lost, 34 to 22.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Controversies over a wide variety of topics enlivened sessions of the senate and house today, as congress sought to clean up its calendars, preparatory to adjournment at noon on Wednesday.

The senate was in session continuously from noon until late tonight, minor bills receiving attention in the evening hours, while such subjects as appropriations, relief for drought sufferers and unemployment, an investigation of the oil situation, and the Vestal copyright bill were discussed.

The Vestal bill seeks to remodel United States copyright laws and to put America in the international copyright union.

Deficiency Bill to Conference.

The house passed the Jenkins resolution, making a 90 per cent cut in immigration for a period of two years and sent it to the senate, where its fate is doubtful. The house sent the second deficiency bill back to conference, as did the senate, and adopted a joint resolution authorizing the ways and means committee to spend $50,000 in going anywhere it pleases in the world to investigate economic conditions in the oil, coal, lumber, manganese, asbestos, and agricultural industries.

Treasury financing in coming years was facilitated by final action on a bill increasing the maximum amount of bonds authorized by the second Liberty loan act, from 20 to 28 billion dollars. The senate passed the bill after eliminating a section of the house bill authorizing exemption from surtaxes which now apply on income from bonds. The house, later in the day, accepted the senate amendment.

Adopt Maternity Measure.

The bill reviving federal assistance to the states in maternity and infancy work, which has been a subject of much controversy, was sent to the White House when both houses adopted a conference report on it.

A formidable lobby of farm organization representatives was massed in the senate corridors and galleries, seeking action on the bill passed by the house last week, imposing the artificially colored oleomargarine tax of 10 cents a pound on a product in which palm oil is used and which, although yellow, has escaped the tax under a ruling of the internal revenue bureau.

After several hours of consideration, the senate late tonight passed the oleomargarine bill by a vote of 63 to 9.

Shoals Bill Veto Today.

Word came from the White House that President Hoover would send a veto message to the senate tomorrow on the Muscle Shoals bill. It is understood that it will be a lengthy document and that he will meet the power issue raised by the proponents of the legislation. The senate is expected to act immediately, but if it passes the bill with the required two-thirds vote, the house is depended upon by the administration to sustain the veto.

The President's statement of Saturday announcing his intention to subject the Muscle Shoals project to an engineering study, drew caustic comments in the senate from Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.].

"The President denies he is in league with the power trust, but he does the things and says the things which the power interests would say themselves," said Senator Dill. "The President calls Muscle Shoals symbolic. The action he takes on Muscle Shoals will be symbolic. It will be a symbol whether Muscle Shoals will be devoted to the people or to profit making for the wealthy few."

The house adopted the Jenkins immigration restriction resolution, by a vote of 295 to 83. A two-thirds vote was necessary under a suspension of the rules. The action was preceded by a red hot debate, in which Representatives A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.], F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], and other spokesmen for foreign populations in large cities, vainly protested. The chief objection advanced against the bill was that the arbitrary reduction in immigration would make it impossible for relatives of immigrants now in this country to come in. Under the suspension of rules procedure, it was impossible to offer amendments.

The resolution provides that for the two years from July 1, 1931, to July 1, 1932, the quotas of European countries shall be reduced by 90 per cent and that the immigration from non-quota countries of the western hemisphere shall be reduced by 90 per cent of the total admitted in the last fiscal year.

Chief Talks to Salvation Army

EVANGELINE BOOTH.

Sees Business Gain

Optimism over the future of employment and the belief that the period of want and depression is coming to an end were expressed yesterday by Evangeline C. Booth, commander in chief of the Salvation Army. Miss Booth arrived here yesterday from the west coast and spent the day meeting representatives of the organization.

"Our careful investigations have shown that at the end of this month will see the beginning of the return to normalcy," Miss Booth said. "When I left New York we were feeding 50,000 a day, but that number has dropped to 40,000, so we are making some headway."

Chicago, Miss Booth said, was the first of the American cities to organize relief forces for the needy. The canteens here, she said, have fed nearly half a million since Oct. 1, while the shelters have housed 300,000.

GEN. JADWIN DIES SUDDENLY; HEAD OF CANAL BOARD

Stroke of Apoplexy Is Fatal in Balboa.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BALBOA, C. Z., March 2.—Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chairman of the inter-oceanic canal board appointed by President Hoover, died late this afternoon at the Gorgas hospital, where he had been taken following a stroke of apoplexy suffered while he was conferring with engineers at the Hotel Tivoli. He was 66 years old.

Gen. Jadwin was here in connection with an investigation for the construction of a canal across Nicaragua or to increase the present capacity of the Panama canal. He arrived on Feb. 25.

Will Accompany Husband's Body.

Mrs. Jadwin is in Balboa and will accompany her husband's body to the United States Wednesday aboard the army transport St. Mihiel, which also carries the body of Maj. Gen. George Leroy Irwin, former commander of the Panama canal department, who died at sea Feb. 19 aboard the S. S. Virgilio off Trinidad while returning to the canal from a vacation in Italy.

RETIRED IN 1929.

Gen. Jadwin, who was at the head of the engineering corps of the army at the time of his retirement in 1929, was born at Honesdale, Pa., in 1865. He graduated with the highest honors in the class of 1890 at West Point. In the same year he was commissioned second lieutenant of engineers. He was promoted gradually through various ranks until he became a lieutenant colonel in the engineering corps in 1913. His rise was largely due to his work on the Panama canal between 1907 and 1911.

Gen. Jadwin took the 15th engineers to France, was made brigadier general and served as chief engineer of the advanced section of the A. E. F.

Following the war he was a member of the American mission to Poland and an observer in the Ukraine. In 1924 he became assistant chief of engineers, and was appointed chief June 27, 1926. With this appointment he was made major general. He attained the rank of lieutenant general upon his retirement two years ago.

Aided Illinois Waterways Plan.

In 1927 Gen. Jadwin was placed in charge of the Mississippi flood relief plan.

A year later he took an interest in the Illinois waterways plan and endeavored to secure federal financial assistance. The general was called upon as a witness at the Chicago water diversion hearings at Washington early in 1929.

29 PER CENT OF STATE'S PEOPLE RULES ILLINOIS

Reapportionment Survey Shows Unfairness.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Declining population in 62 of Illinois' 101 downstate counties will be brought to the front in a hearing on reapportionment in the house judiciary committee set for Wednesday. Three resolutions dealing with the redistricting question in three diverse ways are to be considered, and redistricting is rated the most important question of the week.

Assembly leaders are pondering over the increase in minority rule in government as disclosed by the census returns of 1930. The tides of population have brought into more pronounced relief than ever the lopsidedness of the districts and the growth of taxation without representation.

Census Figures Analyzed.

Reduced to a contrast between minority and majority, the census when analyzed, shows the following:

Twenty-nine per cent of the population has a majority of the seats in senate and house.

Seventy-one per cent of the population has a minority in each chamber.

	Population.
7 Cook county midget districts	432,299
19 smallest downstate districts	1,749,804
26 smallest dist's [a majority]	2,182,103
25 other districts [a minority]	5,448,551
51 total senatorial districts	7,630,654

The present districts were established in 1901, and here are a few more protuberant facts indicated by an analysis of the census:

Fourteen downstate districts have less population than in 1920.

Nine downstate districts have even less population than in 1900, thirty years ago, when the present districts were fashioned and when the population of the state was only 4,821,550.

Lose as State Grows.

In the last thirty years Illinois has grown 2,809,104 in population, while these nine districts have shrunk 74,731 in size, but still have nine senators and 27 representatives.

Then there are six stationary districts, which have stood almost stock still in population while Illinois as a whole has been expanding.

These fifteen backwater districts with fading or stationary populations embrace only about 18 per cent of the population of the state, but they have almost 30 per cent of the seats in the legislature.

The recession table, showing the districts from which inhabitants have been drained for the last thirty years while other regions have grown, is regarded as rather knocking full of holes, Gov. Emmerson's remarks to the legislature about the effect which full representations for Cook county would have upon "the other 101 counties."

Plan National Park

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The Cramton bill establishing a national park at Isle Royale, Mich., was passed by the house early tonight and forwarded to the senate, where approval may be voted tomorow. This measure provides for what will be called the Isle Royale National park, one of four projected park sites in the northern woods of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

Isle Royale is a wooded island 205 square miles located in Lake Superior northwest of Keweenaw point.

Under the provisions of the bill the park will not be established until title to all the property on Isle Royale has been vested in the United States and the secretary of the interior has designated the land as necessary or desirable for national park purposes. The lands are to be acquired by the government through public or private donation.

'TIPS' BY WIVES CAUSE ARREST OF SIX ALIENS

Six aliens who admitted they each paid between $50 and $75 to be carried across the St. Lawrence river from Canada to the United States in row boats were arrested early this morning and will be held for deportation. The arrests were made by Immigration Inspector Sigurdson and Lieut. Mako Mills' police squad, which investigates communists and other "Reds." The predicament of the aliens was said to be due to the unemployment situation. Most of the men are married and have wives in their native lands. Since the men have been out of work they have not been sending money back home, and this caused the wives to begin an investigation which led to the arrests.

Those taken into custody were Tony Fata, Italian, 1749 West Polk street; John Tylka and John Babirz, Poles, 2311 South Albany avenue; Yon Bulgielan, Jugo-Slav, 2239 Ward street; John Matus, Hungarian, 1933 North Winchester avenue, and Roman Glista, Italian, 2756 Flournoy street. Only two of them, Babirz and Fata, have been employed recently, police said.

DRIVERS' LICENSE BILL HEARING SET FOR TODAY

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Two important hearings on pending auto and road legislation have been set for tomorrow when the 57th general assembly returns to work after the primary election recess.

The house roads and bridges committee is to receive the report of State Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets who was asked to prepare a summary of all road legislation passed in the state's history. He has a 100 page report for submission to the committee.

In the senate, bill No. 1, the proposed drivers' license act, will be considered in an afternoon hearing by Henry M. Dunlap's roads and highway transportation committee. Drawn in November at the meeting of the Illinois state conference for street and highway safety, the measure has the backing of many civic organizations. It provides for the examination and licensing of auto drivers, assesses a fee, and provides penalties for violations of its provisions.

Before the house committee, Engineer Sheets is expected to retell the details of the $45,000,000 road construction program contemplated for 1931 and plead for a "hands off" policy as regards the present sources of roads revenue. The Emmerson administration is opposed to a pending bill which would disturb the gas tax distribution and award cities and villages one-third of the 3 cent levy with which to construct their own roads. At present the state receives 2 cents and the counties 1 cent.

To divide the gas tax further, the administration contends, would only delay completion of the highway program.

URGE LICENSE BILL

BY HAL FOUST.

Proponents of a drivers' license law met at the City club yesterday in a rally preliminary to a hearing on the measure this afternoon before the senate roads and highway transportation committee at Springfield.

The principal speakers were Senator James J. Barbour and Representative David I. Swanson, who introduced the Hoover code drivers' license bill in their respective branches of the general assembly. Fifty men and women, representatives of various civic organizations, were present. Some of them plan to attend the hearing.

Senator Barbour said his daily mail reflects the general popularity of the bill requiring drivers to pass an examination for a license to operate a vehicle on the streets and highways. The cost of the license, under the bill he has introduced, is 75 cents for three years.

"No cost or inconvenience," he said, "is too much to pay for a saving of human lives. Arguments that it is an additional tax or a nuisance upon the motoring public bear no weight when it is admitted a licensing of drivers will reduce the toll of automobile traffic."

Representative Swanson spoke in opposition to the drivers' license bill sponsored by the Chicago Motor club, which does not require an examination.

BOY, 6, KILLED BY AUTO AS HE PLAYS IN STREET

Six year old Bruno Cia, 547 West 116th street, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile while playing baseball in the street near his home. The driver of the car, Joseph Doyle, 12225 South Union avenue, is being held for the inquest.

This death and three others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 217. The other victims:

Joseph Kucaba, 39 years old, 6328 West 26th street, Berwyn. Killed when his automobile crashed into a car parked on 26th street near Ridgeland avenue.

Owen Curtis, 33 years old, 7726 Normal avenue. Fatally injured when the truck which he was driving collided with an automobile and overturned at 82d street and Muskegon avenue. Adam Gdenidiski, 3419 Baltimore avenue, driver of the automobile, is being held.

Fred Kahn, 44 years old, 7638 Blackstone avenue. Died at the county hospital of injuries received Saturday when he was struck by the automobile of Bert Hudson, 9856 Avenue H, while crossing Indianapolis boulevard at Avenue G.

Raymond K. Olmstead, 36 years old, 1624 West 100th place, died yesterday at St. Therese hospital, Waukegan, of injuries suffered early Saturday when his automobile overturned in Green Bay road, west of Zion.

Awarded $35,000 for Loss of Arm in Auto Accident

Mrs. Mae Schindler, 232 Lathrop street, River Forest, was awarded damages of $35,000 by a jury in Superior Judge Miller's court yesterday for the loss of an arm as the result of an automobile accident two years ago. The suit was against the Singer Sewing Machine company. Prior to the accident, Mrs. Schindler testified, she earned her living as a pianist.

HOPES FOR PEACE BRIGHT IN INDIA; BRITAIN YIELDS

Gandhi to Resume Talk with Viceroy Today.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW DELHI, March 2.—The miracle which the noted Brahmin leader, Pundit Malaviya, said alone could bring peace to India, after hope for a settlement was abandoned by both sides Saturday night, appeared to be working its magic spell today.

With the government ready to concede a major portion of Mahatma Gandhi's demands in return for his calling off the civil disobedience campaign and participating in a second round table conference to frame a constitution for the self-government of India, prospects of a truce appeared exceedingly bright tonight.

Gets One Hour's Rest.

After conferring with Viceroy Lord Irwin at his palace until after midnight—an unusually late hour for this medieval ascetic—Gandhi trudged back most of the four miles to his residence and explained the new situation to his working committee of the all-India Nationalist congress until 2 o'clock this morning. Then he spun for an hour in order to keep his vow to make 200 yards of yarn daily, slept for an hour, and as usual was up at 4 o'clock.

Fortunately or unfortunately for the negotiations, his weekly 24 hours of silence began today, although this did not keep the "holy man" from conferring all day long with his working committee, by means of hastily scribbled notes or a quick nod of his head.

Tonight he was closeted with Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Jayakar for two hours, and when the round table leaders emerged they admitted that a peaceful settlement was almost in sight, barring an unexpected stiffening in attitude on the part of the government toward certain demands of the Nationalists. The two have been acting as mediators in the deadlock ever since their return from London.

Favor London for Parley.

The mediators discussed with newspaper men the proposed procedure for setting up a responsible constitutional government if Gandhi agrees to a truce.

Both favor London as the site of a new parley, as they can deal directly with British political leaders, who must vote on the Indian constitution in the end, instead of complicating the bureaucratic machine here, which must always refer its matters to London.

"Do you think Gandhi will go to London?" Sir Tej was asked.

"I think Gandhi will lead the next Indian delegation there," he replied. "Why shouldn't he?"

The "holy man," returning from his prayers, overheard the remark and smiled, but, this being his day of silence, said nothing.

The conversations betwen the viceroy and Gandhi will be resumed tomorrow.

At 11 a. m. he will confer with Sir. George Schuster, finance minister of the viceroy's council. At 2:30 p. m. he will meet the viceroy. Through his secretary, Gandhi tonight announced he hopes to make a definite announcement immediately after seeing Lord Irwin. He will confer with the finance minister in order to devise methods to obtain revenue to supplant the salt tax, which the government is ready to abolish in answer to Gandhi's demand, providing the Indian leader devises a substitute.

EDNA COOPER, ACTRESS, MISSING A WEEK, FOUND

Film Star in Hospital; Mysteriously Injured.

Monterey, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—Miss Edna May Cooper, movie actress by profession and aviatrix by avocation, was located here today after she had been mysteriously missing for a week from Hollywood.

Miss Cooper was in the Monterey hospital, under guard, recovering from head and body injuries. How she obtained the injuries mystified physicians and police.

It was learned Miss Cooper had been registered at a local hotel several days under an assumed name. She showed signs of illness yesterday and Dr. Hugh Dormody found she had an abrasion "possibly a week old" on the back of her head and bruises and contusions on her body, especially on the right thigh.

Taken to Hospital.

Miss Cooper was removed at Dr. Dormody's orders to the Monterey hospital, where she was identified by Mrs. Ruth Morris, wife of Gouverneur Morris, the author, as Miss Cooper.

How Miss Cooper got here was as much a mystery as was how she acquired the injuries. She had little to say, but told authorities she thought she was in Santa Monica, as she started for Santa Monica when she left Los Angeles.

Joseph Duckwell, Monterey cab driver, said he picked the young woman up while she was wandering aimlessly in Carmel. Chief of Police Oyer, however, said Miss Cooper got off a Los Angeles-San Francisco train last Wednesday night and took a cab to the hotel from which she was removed to the hospital. She apparently was without funds.

Holds Flying Record.

Hotel employés said the actress phoned to Joseph Matin, an oil man in Los Angeles, last night. Mrs. Mary Cooper, Miss Cooper's mother, also talked by phone with her daughter. Mrs. Cooper said she was unable to explain how her daughter got to Monterey.

Together with Bobby Trout, Miss Cooper won the woman's world flying endurance record some months ago. Dr. Dormody said she could leave the hospital when she pleased.

PAUL WHITEMAN WINS A DIVORCE FROM DANCER

Paul Whiteman, orchestra leader, won a divorce yesterday on grounds of desertion from Mrs. Mildred Whiteman, a dancer, known on the stage as Vanda Hoff. The decree was granted by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan after Whiteman and his business manager, John F. Gillespie, had testified.

Whiteman told the judge that they were married seven years ago and that his wife left him for reasons unknown in September of 1929. His attorney, Benjamin F. Kanne, introduced a property settlement by which Whiteman will pay his former wife $600 a week alimony and give her three insurance policies. The orchestra leader will have the custody of their son, Paul Jr., three months out of each year.

VICTIMS CROWD FELONY COURT TO ACCUSE ROBBER

Maurice P. Tennant, 23 years old, who confessed, the police say, to 150 robberies, was held to the grand jury yesterday in $80,000 bonds by Judge Frank M. Padden in the felony court. The courtroom was crowded with Tennant's victims, although only four of them were called upon to testify at the preliminary hearing.

Celina LeClaire, arrested with Tennant in an apartment at 3512 West Congress street, was declared to be innocent by the defendant. She is being held at the detective bureau pending possible identification. Among those expected to look at Tennant and Miss LeClaire are the witnesses from Boscobel, Wis., who saw the murder of three Wisconsin farmers by a bandit gang of three men and a woman.

"Miss LeClaire is as innocent as any one in this courtroom, judge," said Tennant when arraigned.

RADICALS CALL PARLEY ON 1932 CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Senators Urge Cutting Loose from "Parties."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Under the leadership of Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], radical senators launched a movement today to shape up issues in the next congress to be used for the campaign of 1932. As a starter, Senator Norris and four other members issued a call for a conference in Washington on March 11 and 12. It was specifically stated in the call that "no third party is contemplated."

Those joining with Senator Norris in the call were Senators Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], Bronson Cutting [Rep., N. M.], and Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], and Senator Elect E. P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.].

Five Governors in Favor.

The call was sent to more than 100 persons, including five governors. The latter were Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, whose views on the power issue have won radical approval; Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Philip La Follette of Wisconsin, brother of the senator; F. B. Olson of Minnesota, who was elected in November on the Farmer-Labor ticket, and Julius L. Meier of Oregon, who was elected in November as an independent.

Five general topics were listed for round table discussions, as: First, unemployment and industrial stabilization; second, public utilities; third, agriculture; fourth, tariff; fifth, "return to representative government."

Would Avoid "Party Lines."

"In the midst of depression, the nation is without effective leadership," said the call. "Months of misery in the industrial centers and on the farms have disclosed lack of any proposals for solution of one of the greatest crises ever confronting the nation. The disastrous results of failure to meet the responsibilities of this situation will be increasingly evident during the next nine months. Certain economic and political problems must be solved.

HEFLIN'S ADIEU TO SENATE HITS RASKOB, AL SMITH

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—With an attack on John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and former Governor Al Smith, Senator J. Thomas Heflin [Dem., Ala.] sang his swan song in the senate tonight. A Hoovercrat in 1928, Senator Heflin was defeated at the last election and goes back home on March 4.

His farewell was three hours long. Mr. Raskob was "Rummy" Raskob. Gov. Smith was "Alfred the Anointed."

For opposing Raskob and Smith, Senator Heflin declared, he had been "stricken down as I stood there at the altar place of my party with the sword of white supremacy in one hand, the banner of Jeffersonian democracy in the other."

When he attacked the North Carolina electorate, however, alleging that corruption had been used to defeat Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, also 1928 Hoovercrat, Senator Heflin ran into a sharp reply by Senator Cameron Morrison [Dem., N. C.], recently appointed to fill the vacancy of the late Senator Lee S. Overman.

"I deny, I denounce, I assert it's false," he cried. "It is an assault on the proud people of a proud state."

Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.] interrupted to inquire, "And what has all this got to do with the oleomargarine bill?"

AL SMITH BARS WET-DRY ISSUE IN COMMITTEE

Declares That Is Up to National Convention.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—Harmony movements were definitely under way tonight for the Democratic national committee meeting on Thursday as the party leaders began assembling here.

AL SMITH.

While apprehension continued among the Democratic chieftains in congress over a prohibition flare up, others privately expressed the view that the proposals to commit the committee to an anti-prohibition stand would not be pressed.

Significance was attached to the statement today at Raleigh, N. C., by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, that the national committee is without power to do anything on political issues. Smith conferred over the week-end with Chairman Raskob.

Raskob Receives Word.

This is the position taken by the Democrats in congress who have sent word to Raskob that they would consider it a mistake to seek to commit the national committee on prohibition or any other issue.

However, in the absence of assurance that the door would not be closed against the controversies over policies, new protests arose against their injection into the meeting.

While the New York Democratic state committee was adopting a resolution urging delegates to the national committee meeting to oppose discussion of several national issues, the Tennessee congressional delegation requested its national committeeman to oppose any attempt to take up such issues.

Tennesseeans Send Protest.

The delegation sent the following message:

"We, the Tennessee Democratic members of both branches of congress, state that in our judgment the Democratic national committee has no authority to prescribe policies for the Democratic party, and any effort to do so would be very unwise. In the interest of our party, we respectfully but earnestly request you to vigorously oppose any such action being taken."

Says U. S. Needs Leadership.

Raleigh, N. C., March 2.—(AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York today expressed the opinion that the meeting of the national Democratic executive committee, to be held in Washington, March 5, "has no power to do anything about a political issue; that is the right of the convention."

Otherwise the titular head of the party refused to discuss the meeting called by Chairman John J. Raskob and which has resulted in a widespread opposition, especially from southern quarters, to any proposal that the committee take a stand on the prohibition issue. He reiterated his opinion that "no living man can tell" whether prohibition will be an issue of the 1932 campaign.

Promotion of the public welfare was described by the former governor as "the main function of the Democratic party."

"When it ceases to be," he told a joint session of the North Carolina legislature held in a theater, "we cease to exist."

Gov. Smith's address dealt chiefly with advocacy of simplification in state government and the welfare of women and children in industry.

The presidential candidate in 1928 said it was "too early to talk about issues and candidates for the 1932 election, but added "the country is seeking leadership, and there is no doubt that it needs leadership."

OPEN COURT FIGHT FOR THRONE AND INDIAN MILLIONS

Favorite Wife of Rajah Against Grandnephew.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—The case of who is to inherit the $5,000,000 estate of the aged rajah of Ramnagar, who died without issue from any of his four wives, was opened before the privy council today. Ranee Chattra Kumari Devi, the rajah's favorite wife, is seeking to wrest the fortune from her grandnephew, whom the prince at one time made his sole heir. She has two wills to back her claims.

The case will determine whether she will spend the rest of her life in poverty or accede to the vast lands in India with their rich income. Opposing her is Mohan Bikran, named by the rajah in his second will as successor to his title and estates.

Mohan Bikran opposed the first and third of three wills made by the rajah, contending that the latter, in which the rajah declared that he 'did not expect that the adopted boy would preserve "my estate with its name and fame according to my views," was written while the rajah was in unsound mind and under undue influence of Princess Devi.

The Indian courts ruled in his favor, and now Princess Devi has appealed to the privy council.

The wills were written in 1901, 1902 and 1904. The rajah, when he died in 1912, was still eager to perpetuate his house and made provision for the continuance of his name in the last will by authorizing Princess Devi to adopt four boys in case of his death, and that the boy of her choice should succeed to the estate at her death.

Numerous lawyers have been retained by both sides at fabulous fees. Five men, including one Indian, are sitting in the judicial committee of the privy council to hear the case.

Roger Q. Williams, Ocean Flyer, Granted Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—The divorce of Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic flyer, and Mrs. Carrie Williams was disclosed in the Superior court today. It was obtained last week by the aviator. Williams alleged his wife hit him frequently and told him she regarded men as "the most disgusting things."

MURDERED VICE WITNESS IN DIARY LISTS HER 2 FOES

Feared Own Attorney and His Ex-Convict Aid.

New York, March 2.—(AP)—A threat of death alleged to have been made by Samuel Cohen and relayed to her by John A. Radeloff was recorded by Vivian Gordon in a dairy two years ago, District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin revealed today after the men, held in bail of $50,000 each as material witnesses in her murder began a Supreme court fight for freedom. Cohen is an ex-convict.

Having discarded the theory that Miss Gordon's murder by strangulation was in any manner connected with her alleged "frameup" by her husband and Andrew J. McLaughlin, a vice squad patrolman in 1923. The district attorney with the aid of detectives was searching for the murderer.

The portions of Miss Gordon's diary which were made public contained many allusions to an intimacy between her and her attorney. Radeloff repeatedly referred to Cohen and expressed a fear of the two men.

Decides to Put Things Down.

The diary, as made public, follows:

"I did not start this diary for reasons other than to remind me of dates—but think it's best to put down things as they happen concerning John A. Radeloff. He would stoop to anything.

"Feb. 12, 1929. J. A. R. here—finale—between us. If anything happens to me—he is to blame—he has henchmen—don't know when I go to hospital—reckon as soon as he. J. A. R., gives me money for Dr.

"J. A. R. again hinted—about my getting killed—said 'I'd better get my collars and skirts out of here—if you should be killed they'd look for me' there is $18,000 in mortgages of mine in his office."

Still another undated entry:

"John A. Radeloff's office—$500—not show up—waited 7½ hours—phoned him home—went over there—had it out with him—met him as he and wife were going out for walk—read the riot act to him—she didn't say a word—Dumb! Dumb! Dumb!"

Undated, as other entries:

"Radeloff said that S. C. (meaning Sam Cohen) had been in to see him within past week. Sam Cohen is one who was to have knocked me off last winter—I guess J. A. R. is seeking his services now for that deed. J. A. R. would stoop to anything—J. A. Radeloff is the only one who is really an enemy of mine—because of certain things I have told his wife in retaliation for all the rotten things he has done to me—he was just using me for a good thing. Treating me half civil—a necessary evil as it were—because he knew that he could borrow money from me—besides—I have a mortgage of $11,339 due to close Oct. 30. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if he tried to grab that money."

The last notation made public was under date of Feb. 4, 1931, and read:

"I believe John Radeloff and Sam Cohen pulled that jewelry deal alone."

At some time, which was not dated, Miss Gordon confided to her diary:

"The threat has been made—Sam Cohen—who is a client of J. A. R. in a case has brought the thugs [2] to J. A. R.'s office—so J. A. R. told me—and he refused to let them do the trick—how did they know?—J. and I had a scrap unless he told S. C., and why make a confidant of a common loft thief?

Threatens to Take Her for Ride.

"The above information was conveyed to me in my apt. After a reconciliation on Feb 23. But still I list this information. His man, according to his after statement, is supposed to have said 'We'll take her out somewhere—no one will know what happened to her. Every mark of identification will be missing, especially that ring'—meaning that $2,500 ring I wear."

The ring is missing, and along with a $2,000 mink coat and many other valuables is being sought by police.

REBELS OF PERU DEFY NEW JUNTA IN AIR "RAID"

Demand Own Rule; Put Up a President.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, March 2. — Two red winged fighting planes darted out of the skies and circled over the capital at 11 o'clock this morning. The ships came out of the south and from Arequipa, revolutionary headquarters.

Their "bombs" were handbills, which fluttered into the streets and stated that the Arequipa forces would not accept the junta, headed by Ricardo Leonice Elias, lately chief justice of the Supreme court. The crowds, which raced to pick up the handbills, read that Col. Aurelio Garcia Godos, former chief of the Chorrillos Military academy, is the army's candidate for the presidency of the government junta.

They also read a warning that the nomination of a provisional military cabinet rests in his hands.

Cause Great Excitement.

The appearance of the revolutionary planes created great excitement among the populace and great consternation among the members of the new junta, which seized power yesterday when the navy's coup d'état forced Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro to resign.

Col. Godos, the "southern junta's" choice for president is reported to be in northern Peru at the present time.

The Arequipa forces are particularly angered by the presence of Col. Ruiz Bravo as the army's representative in the new junta. They refuse to forgive him for approving the order which started an expeditionary force south last week under orders to wipe out the rebels.

Planes Rush for Arequipa.

Soon after the scarlet planes of the rebel forces disappeared, a government plane containing six emissaries took the air for Arequipa in attempt to win them over to the new government side. The diplomatic representatives are expected to confer with the insurgent chieftains all day tomorrow.

Another plane carrying government representatives hopped for the north a few minutes later for similar negotiations with the insurgents in that section of Peru.

One of the government's first official acts was to lift the censorship clamped on by Sanchez Cerro when the rebellion assumed serious proportions. Several prisoners, arrested by the old government as plotters of the revolution, were released.

The aviation corps today officially accepted President Elias and his provisional rule as a manifesto issued by the inspector general of aviation from the naval headquarters at Pisco. Sanchez Cerro appeared in public several times today. He came out on the balcony of the Bolivar hotel, where he is staying, frequently for a breath of air. The ousted president also took several mysterious automobile rides, accompanied by several henchmen.

Mounted troops are on guard in Plaza San Martin, which fronts Sanchez Cerro's hotel.

The fallen leader today gave his own version of the recent political happenings in an interview in his rooms. Attired faultlessly in Palm Beach silk, Sanchez Guerra, surrounded by several friends, answered two questions. The first was: What about future events in Peru?

To this query he wagged a significant finger towards the government palace, saying:

"I have delivered power to the new government now being formed there. With them rests the responsibility of future developments in Peru."

May Go Abroad.

There was a twinkle in his eye as he made that remark. When asked as to his own future, he waved his hand in indication that that was the last consideration. Whether he may go abroad or remain in Peru depended, he said, on events.

EDWARD B. M'LEAN'S DIVORCE SUIT HALTED BY COURT INJUNCTION

MRS. E. B. M'LEAN.
[Acme Photo.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, was enjoined today from prosecuting divorce proceedings in Mexico against his wife, Evalyn Walsh McLean.

The injunction, signed by Justice Adkins in the District of Columbia Supreme court, applies until further order of the court.

The divorce suit was scheduled for hearing in Mexico on March 15, but counsel for McLean told Justice Adkins steps would be taken immediately by the publisher to halt the proceedings.

Mrs. McLean is suing her husband for maintenance for herself and three children.

The only way to roast coffee to real flavor-perfection is Hills Bros' method

. . . evenly . . . continuously . . .

IF COFFEE IS ROASTED UNEVENLY, YOU CAN'T HAVE FLAVOR-PERFECTION. HILLS BROS COFFEE IS ALWAYS DELIGHTFUL AND MELLOW BECAUSE CONTROLLED ROASTING IS EVEN ROASTING

BUT this exact process—Controlled Roasting—belongs to Hills Bros. alone. They invented it. That's why no other coffee has the same wonderful flavor as Hills Bros. Coffee.

The ordinary method of roasting coffee is in bulk. But even with watchful care, there is bound to be variation in the roast, and that means variation in flavor. Hills Bros.' process absolutely prevents variation because the coffee is roasted a little at a time under exact control.

You will always find Hills Bros. Coffee perfectly fresh because it is packed in vacuum. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out, and kept out of the can by this process. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Cabbage Soup and Skyscrapers

Napoleon said that an army marches on its belly.

Napoleon thought almost entirely in terms of military tactics. Here in America, where we are trying at least to think in terms of peaceful pursuits, we know that an army of workers just as much as an army of soldiers travels upon its belly.

Europe comes to visit us with its eyes turned upwards toward our skyscrapers, or, figuratively toward any of the other big scale efforts that we undertake, and marvels at our accomplishment. Especially at the speed of our accomplishment. They see us set time limits upon the completion of vast operations, the physical work of which alone must call for almost superhuman effort.

And they marvel not so much at the depth of our plans as at the speed of that very physical effort with which those plans are carried out.

It never seems to occur to them that you can't build skyscrapers on cabbage soup, that you can't lay three thousand bricks a day and eat meat once a week, that you can't throw an underfed body against a pneumatic drill and make it roar through a concrete block as if the devil were behind it.

Here in America we are apt to forget that eighty percent of all the other peoples of the earth are underfed most of the time and undernourished throughout their lives; that they never really get enough to eat, even of the unnourishing things that they have to eat. And that any physical labor, therefore, is a sullen affair.

We are so used to the joy of living and the fun of doing, we find it hard to remember that there is very little joy and no fun with an empty stomach. Possibly we haven't enough sympathy regarding the other fellow, but at least we have learned our lesson regarding ourselves.

We now know that the capacity which our American wage-earner has for doing things is based entirely upon his zest for doing them. And that that zest is based upon a wholesome food supply. No sacred tower that ever pierced the sky for the glory of a religion, was ever builded with more ardor than any one of a thousand American skyscrapers that shoot up like a bean stock to the song of the rivets. Probably not half so much. For the serfs who builded them were half starved; while one look at the average structural steel worker will show you a physique as pretty as a prizefighter's, well-fed by a generous flow of food, inspired at its sparkling source by appetite.

Yes; we have learned our lesson. For we now want our American wage-earner to have every one of the good things of life to the limit of his capacity. In sympathy with our new standard of ethics (or economics, according to your philosophy) we begrudge him nothing. And we fight in his interests more earnestly than in our own. We were more concerned last year with a possible three percent of our people who might not be getting enough to eat than the rest of the world has been with its eighty percent whom they know mighty well have never gotten enough to eat.

At least we have humanized our relationship. And that is a big step in the progress of civilization.

And does it pay—this new humanized relationship?

It pays to the extent of making this the most interesting epoch in the history of the world.

Who ever heard of a wage-earning population in any other civilization at any other time being the consumers of sixty-eight percent of everything that was produced? Who ever heard of any other period in history when production was not entirely for the few by the sweat of the many?

Even today, in this present civilization, two-thirds of the rest of the world still goes unshod. Certainly two-thirds of them never have a garment that isn't rudely fashioned in their own hovels. And as for social and cultural wants and desires, they are virtually still undreamed of with ninety percent of the people of the earth.

There is no doubt about it. Ours is a commitment to our own wage-earning masses which is something new under the sun. Our new business policy of providing the means for a greater and greater mass outlet in order to balance a greater mass production has added more to the sum total of human happiness than anything has ever done before.

As a mass, our American wage-earners, right today, are better clothed and fed and are in the market for more of the good things of life than all of the other similar groups in the world put together. Marching upon their bellies, their accomplishments are amazing the world while their capacity as a consumer group is amazing even us.

And True Story Magazine, fitting into this picture of wage-earning distribution and constantly fostering the new idea of wage-earner market, is doing its job beautifully. Practically alone in its field, it is opening the doors of over two millions of these very homes that the new American policy of mass consumption is seeking to enter and it is offering the penetration point of millions more.

It is not to be wondered at that so many of the great advertisers of America have long since found that here is where their advertising dollar goes farthest and are using True Story pages most generously in return for a most generous response.

TIME LIMITATION ON CONGRESS.

The lame duck resolution for a constitutional amendment shortening the period between elections and inauguration and the sitting of a new congress failed again, although it went further in this congress than it ever did before. It reached a conference committee and there broke down on the question of limiting the session. Senator Norris, the long time sponsor of the resolution, preferred to let it go over to another session rather than accept limitation. It was provided that congress should sit Jan. 4. The house fixed May 4 for adjournment. The house conferees were willing to extend this time to June 4, but the senators on the conference committee would not accept a limit.

For the most part the country is more tranquil when congress is not in session. Its necessitous work seldom protracts its meeting, and when it goes into a long stretch the consequences are generally more dreaded than welcomed. Wherever there is a time limit the check has been regarded as rather good than bad.

The American congress is a pretty independent body and was intended to be. It can't be dissolved by administration defeat on a bill, and it cannot be prorogued, and it cannot be thrown unexpectedly into general elections. The house members must renew their credentials every two years, which may be regarded as a short term, but constitutional provisions protect the congressional authority from executive invasion unless the executive can get a political hold on it, which is possible in fact although not provided in theory. The struggle for undisturbed tenure has a long parliamentary history in England, with much violence on the part of both the houses and the king. The long parliament tried to perpetuate itself. The kings used forced loans and foreign subsidies to keep going without a parliament.

The American system gives the President the power to call a special session. If, between elections, voluntary adjournment were the only means of terminating a session, the equivalent of special sessions would be at the choice of congress itself. Every two years there would be a new congress, but it would be possible to have a virtually continuous session with one body taking up about where another left off. The proposed innovation lacks proof of advantages. The first proof would have to be that more extensive legislation is what the country needs. The contrary would seem to be true.

THE NAVY'S STEPCHILD.

The hostile fleet off Panama was finally found by the Los Angeles, says D. S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, in reference to this year's maneuvers and battles, theoretical, in our southern waters, and the big dirigible, seven years old now, more than justified the long defense of her admirers. The new Akron, bigger and better than the Los Angeles, filled with much more gas and flying twice as far, will no doubt do much better.

The Los Angeles has long been the stepchild of the navy. Nobody liked her, except a few enthusiasts. Most people would rather have had the money that she cost used for airplanes. Though the Germans at Jutland, it is said, used a Zeppelin to advantage, these flying gas tanks have not found much favor here. To prove her worth the Los Angeles flew first to Panama to meet the maneuvering fleets, then went into action. She was employed only as a scout without defense, but her repeated contacts with friendly ships and her discovery of the main body of the enemy (theoretical) soon established her military value.

The controversy will no doubt continue, but the record of the Los Angeles this year will justify at least more study and experimentation in this form of national defense.

SPAGHETTI AND THE FUTURE.

Spaghetti and Italy must henceforward go their separate ways, says the futurist, Marinetti. The tomorrow of the Romans, Milanese, of all denizens of the sunny, southern appanage of Europe, must be divorced once and for all from the long coils and deep intricacies of this old fashioned fare. For Italy it is a fateful hour. For spaghetti it will be a decline and fall no doubt that only a Gibbon can celebrate.

To Italians their spaghetti is more than food. It is a moral pattern, and that pattern, says Marinetti, is supine, limp, lazy, pessimistic. Spaghetti is an old nostalgia for great days of empire and art. It is a backward looking food, and Marinetti, a specialist on the future, will have it twine its old dream and romance no longer round the fingers of the next age. At the gray inn west of the Janiculum spaghetti will no longer lie tangled seductively in a brown dish. By the Dom in Florence the child of the great Medicis must turn his skill toward other things.

The futurists have denounced spaghetti, but in its place they offer strange dynamic dishes designed to rouse the nation from its past and hurl it forever into tomorrow. "A ring of sausages rests on three golden balls of chicken meat," says Princess Kropotkin. "On the sausage platform stands a cylinder of minced veal stuffed with eleven kinds of vegetables. The cylinder is crowned with a generous splash of honey, and the whole affair represents a synthetic picture of an Italian landscape." Verve, thrust, motion, this is Italy's new era.

Nothing, indeed, is immobile, say the futurists. From within, says Sheldon Cheney, they seek to see the object and from there to represent its movement. They paint successive motions of an object in one picture. Their forms stutter and rasp upon the canvas. A little dog goes walking, for the futurist doctrinaire, like a tangled skein of yarn. The futurists repudiate Cezanne along with their spaghetti. They return to representation, as the painters say, but the future, which for them no doubt is Italy, the future in motion is what they represent. Their paintings are strange medleys of motions. They are pluralities, oddly coiled, complicated. Italy will save spaghetti, perhaps for futuristic paintings.

And the hit and run government of modern Italy under Sig. Mussolini is also forcefully futuristic. Spaghettiless it will roar on, no doubt, plastered with apologies from Mr. Hoover, burning with zeal, flamboyant dynamism. If it cannot always hit, it no doubt still can run.

THE SENATE AS ELECTION CENSOR.

Senator Nye in a report which tries to produce a record of needed public service for his campaign investigation committee—other than that contained in the committee expense accounts—makes an exhibit of the Nebraska case and says that Senator Norris would have been defeated by gross political trickery if the committee had not exposed the fraud to be worked on him.

The Nebraska opposition to Mr. Norris had procured another George W. Norris to enter the primaries against him. The other Norris was a grocer who, of his own decision, would not have become a candidate. He was entered to confuse the election and deceive the Norris voters. It was an unconscionable fraud, but it was one for which the remedy, if any, was in Nebraska laws or in Nebraska opinion. The Nye committee has offered serious and dangerous interference with state jurisdiction in elections and with the rights of the voters wherever it has stepped in. It has been an encroachment upon electoral freedom and in instances has defeated the will of the voters. No proper warrant for the authority thus seized can be found. The pretenses advanced in justification are sophistries and frauds in themselves. The committee established itself as a censor in opposition to the principles of American elections, in effect asserting that its approval and indorsement were required to validate certificates of election to the senate.

One purpose was to close the senate to new members who in entering would unseat sitting senators. This was to be accomplished by making it a disqualification to spend enough money in seeking a seat to have much of a chance of getting it. It would be simpler to declare the sitting senators seated for life or, what amounts to the same thing, until they wish to retire. It would be simpler and it would not be much more of a fracture of political rights.

MR. SHAW ON HOLLYWOOD.

Bernard Shaw, replying to the Hollywood comment that his "How He Lied to Her Husband" was a flop, said it wasn't when an intelligent British concern made it and it would not have been if Hollywood had learned a little more about making talking pictures. The American producers' greatest error regarding sound in the pictures, he said, was not to realize that a play could be produced for the screen just as it was produced for the stage. "But Americans will do it very well when they've got over the first shock. They always do when shown the way."

Hollywood is open to the charge that the policy of a producer or director is to add himself to what he produces. He creates Shakespeare. He necessarily would create Mr. Shaw, which to Mr. Shaw is even less credible. Hollywood is probably satisfied with its success in taking away the moving picture market of the world. The moving and talking pictures which please London are for the most part Hollywood pictures. The American producers are convinced that they know the taste of the people in this mass market for which pictures are made. They regard it as emotional and wholly uncritical. It accepts situations and is indifferent as to the cause or manner of their creation. Hollywood has its formulas and patterns, and when it adapts a work for the screen the technique is to apply to them. When it is crudely done devastation is the result, but method follows the box office returns. It is hard to argue against the take of a successful picture, even if it jumps most of the conditions which are supposed to dictate what shall be the content of a thing worthy to be called drama.

Editorial of the Day

THE HARM GOOD MEN DO.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Difficult as it is to believe the nomination of Judge Lyle for mayor of Chicago would have brought in a municipal millennium, it is even more difficult to believe that it would not have been a long step upward from Big Bill Thompsonism. Any repudiation of Big Bill is not to be despised. It is, therefore, particularly irritating to note from the Republican primary figures that the intrusion of Messrs. Albert and Schmidt into the fight against the mayor may well have accounted for his success in demonstrating to the whole world that what American politics needs is more animal parades.

Roughly, the early figures give Thompson 296,000, Lyle 228,000, Albert 99,000, and Schmidt 11,000. In other words, anti-Thompson candidates received approximately 338,000 votes, or 42,000 more than Thompson received. Nevertheless, because the highbrows insisted upon trying to transform the city administration from a circus to a general directors' meeting all in one jump, his honor remains in power in his party. Of course, it is too much to say that all the people who voted for Albert and Schmidt would have voted for Lyle had he been the only opposition candidate in the field, but it is morally certain that few of them would have voted for Thompson. Allow a fifty per cent shrinkage from the total of 118,000 cast for Albert and Schmidt, and Thompson could still have been beaten.

The odds are on Thompson, and also on the probability that any effort anywhere to break up a régime like Big Bill's will be gummed up by the aristocratic aloofness of some high toned statesmen who object to the leading anti-machine candidate because he lacks a "judicial temperament" or because he attends burlesque shows.

And the chances are also overwhelmingly in favor of loud shouts by these same right thinking leaders, who were too proud to back a winner, that "democracy has again been repudiated."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A VET AND HIS BONUS.

The vets are drawing their bonus money, and everybody is going to help them spend it. About all the advice we would give the buddies would be not to buy more than two or three 16 or 20 cylinder motors and hold down to a single yacht and not more than one private car. A residence at Bar Harbor and another in Palm Beach is, of course, a necessity nowadays, and the veteran would also do well to add a home in Southern California, near Hollywood. A seat on the New York stock exchange should, of course, be purchased right away, and then five to ten thousand good stocks in hundred share lots.

A two-decker apartment on the Gold Coast should be acquired before night. A neat little farm in Virginia of, say, ten to twenty thousand acres, and an old brick manor house in the center, should next be secured; and it might be well to have a shooting box in Scotland and a town house in London. An old castle in Kent or Surrey wouldn't be bad, but that is optional. The well dressed man needs half a dozen silk hats and spats, from pearl gray to tan. If we were a vet just getting the bonus we wouldn't buy more than two dozen suits of clothes, three dozen pairs of shoes, and six overcoats.

Platinum watches, diamond cuff buttons and studs, and a dozen or so of Malacca canes are de rigueur, as we would say in France; a racing stable in Kentucky would furnish a delightful change from selling apples in the loop.

Having read the speeches in congress against the bonus and likewise the veto message, we think it wise to horn in with a little advice. And, buddies, let us now give three rousing cheers for dear old Uncle Andy Mellon. Lykell, lykell, lykell!

MARCH WIND.

When the wind is in the Lombardies
And clouds are caravans
That gather near the highroad
Like the mustering of clans
To a council of the mighty
In a legendary day—
It's March and I am wishing
You'd come drifting out my way.

To the house beyond the poplars,
With its door of hewn oak;
Where the chimney-pot is friendly,
With its windblown birchwood smoke;
'Neath the slanting brown-beamed ceiling
You'll be home again with me
To renew the dreams we cherish
When the winds blow wild and free.

COLORADO PETE.

MARCH came in like a lion. Yes, but like a lion with the pip, the mange, the measles, and fleas. Also he walked with a limp and had warts on his paws. We should worry how March goes out. The silly old month will probably go out like a cold storage lamb with curvature of the spine and dandruff and ingrowing toenails.

HARVARD will no longer use Yale locks on its doors. It has always caused deep grief to the loyal students and alumni of Harvard to read the hated name Yale on the locks of the great school founded by the late Mr. Harvard. Yale is anxious to retaliate and says it will wait, yea, a thousand years if necessary, until something or other is named after Harvard. Then Yale won't use it.

OUR GOOD OLD FRIEND Chairman Legge of the farm relief board has resigned. However, the rumor that Mr. Legge is going to sell apples on a corner in the loop seems entirely without foundation.

THE SECOND POST.

(Received by a Virginia broadcasting station.)

THE WAR DEPARTMENT is moving along. A special board is to meet this week to decide on whether or not the new Christie fighting tank is a success. Usually they wait until the next war is over and done with before they pay any attention to improvements in arms invented before the war.

CRITICS.

You've seen places called "Sandwich Grills"?
The customer ahead of me
Ordered lean corned beef on rye.
The busy counter man
With a leer and reluctant compliance
Shoved the order across the counter.
"Fat corned beef on rye"
Was my timid request.
The counter man's face lit up
Into a joy and relish of compliance.
"You got brains, mister; have some mustard
And pickle?
That guy ain't got no sense. . . .
Lean corned beef, humph. I like fat beef, too."

FIFTY THOUSAND MEN are going to be put to work this spring widening and generally improving the highways of Illinois. And in spite of those fifty thousand men somebody is going to go busting down the road straddling the white line.

AL SMITH says the U. S. is ready for change. Yes, indeed, Al, and we don't care how small it is, and we'll take Canadian dimes, plugged nickels, and counterfeit quarters; just so it's change.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

A SMART MILKMAN.

WITHIN a few weeks a milkman, at his daily job, rang the back doorbell of a flat building in Chicago. A woman answered. When the driver saw her he made a diagnosis of smallpox. He hurriedly handed her the milk her order called for, then turned and hustled down the steps. He made good time. His next customer was a physician. He asked the doctor to call up the health department and report the case. This the doctor did, but he refused to give his name, placing the responsibility on the milkman. Thus he missed his chance of making a diagnosis of smallpox based on the keen observation and general intelligence of a milk driver.

The health department hurried an inspector to the flat. This inspector found that the milk driver knew his onions. The woman had smallpox and presently she was on her way to the smallpox hospital. There she got the best of care and before long she was back at home unscarred. The family and friends were vaccinated. A neighborhood epidemic of smallpox had been stopped by reason of the intelligence of this milk driver.

The writer knows of one instance in which an undertaker made a diagnosis of "black smallpox" where others had fallen down. In this case what might have been a bad epidemic was held to a half dozen cases or less because of the intelligence of the undertaker.

Cancer of the face is ceasing to be an important disease. The number of deaths it causes is on the decline, although cancer of other locations is increasing. One reason is the widespread intelligence on the subject of cancer. A man with cancer of the face knows that, of the people he meets daily, a score or more will spot his eruption as cancer as soon as they see it. Some of them will tell him what they think. There is not much chance that he will remain long in ignorance of the nature of his trouble or that he can long withstand the pressure to do something about it.

A fair proportion of the people know the characteristics of peculiar people, can classify them after a fashion, and tell why they are odd. They know that the very nervous, jerky, instable woman is a thyroid case and, knowing that, they are more patient and fairer.

Articles in newspapers, magazines and books, and courses of hygiene in schools deserve most of the credit for this. And more good is done than is required to offset the harm done through making people worry about health.

TREATMENT FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

A. W. L. writes: About four months ago I was told I had active tuberculosis and that I would have to quit my job and go to a sanitarium. I have done so. I have been at the sanitarium for three months. The first month I was up and around, but I had a hemorrhage and was put to bed and have been there for two months. I am taking what they call pneumo or gas treatments once a week. Since being here I have turned negative.

1. What would happen if I stopped taking the gas treatments? My trouble consists of a cavity on the left lung.

2. Do you think that I could get cured at home, now that I have been here three months and see how things are done. Would you advise me to come to the sanitarium for treatments? How long does a person have to have these treatments?

3. My feet feel cold at times when they really should not. What is a good remedy?

REPLY.

1. You might relapse, have your disease start up, have a fever, and possibly hemorrhage.

2. No one except a physician who has examined you could answer your question.

3. The best remedy is to build your vigor by following the sanitarium treatment. Wear warm underwear and loose, warm shoes.

GETS PAIN IN SIDE.

F. S. writes: I am a boy 15½ years old, a freshman in high school, and in fairly good health. When I run fast or run a little I get pains in my body just below my ribs, at about four inches from my side. Could you tell me what it is and how to cure it. My mother says she used to have it when she was a girl.

REPLY.

Could you have your physician examine you? This symptom might be due to heart trouble or to anemia. Many boys and girls of your age have one or both of these ailments.

On the other hand, your symptoms may not be important. Young people have a great capacity for temporarily overcoming organic incapacities and for seeing their symptoms disappear spontaneously.

CAUSES OF EDEMA.

P. S. writes: What is edema? What does it come from? Is it serious?

REPLY.

Any undue accumulation of fluid in the tissues causes edema. We have inflammatory edema, dropsy, hypostatic edema. Among the causes are heart disease, Bright's, cirrhosis of the liver, milk leg, varicose veins.

The seriousness of edema depends on the cause.

NUISANCE ABATED.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—A regular dump is made out of the vacant lot at the corner of 79th and Eberhart avenue. Besides that, papers are burned there and other rubbish, making a smoke all the time.

N. S. C.

Report is made that notices have been served on offenders to stop dumping and burning of rubbish on vacant lot referred to, which is now in good condition. Location will be kept under observation.

P. J. DONOVAN,
Deputy Superintendent of Streets.

TROUBLE WITH PAWNSHOP.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Recently I pawned my ring in a regular pawnshop. Pawnbroker required me to sign the ticket issued. I now find:

1. The ticket authorizes him to sell ring if interest not paid in thirty days.
2. The rate of interest is 25 per cent per month.
3. Can he escape the provisions of the pawnshop law by requiring me to sign the ticket.
4. Can he sell at the end of 30 days?
5. Can he charge more than 3 per cent by agreement?
6. In case he refuses to accept legal rate of interest, and deliver the property on tender of loan and interest, what remedy can I invoke without expense? The matter involves only five dollars. This is a universal rule with pawnshops now. J. C.

1. This would not supersede the statute, which requires one year.
2. The statute specifies 3 per cent per month.
3. No.
4. No.
5. No.
6. We suggest that you try to get a police officer to accompany you to the shop.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BANK REOPENS.

Hinsdale, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a bank in Illinois, or Indiana, closes through lack of funds, and later reopens, but claims to be unable at present to repay depositors, is there a time limit which outlaws their responsibility, as in private debts?

2. If so, what must one do to insure the refund of their deposits?

E. F. J.

1. The limitation is 5 years on oral contracts and 10 years on written contracts.
2. We do not see how the same bank could reopen without paying or settling with its creditors. It seems probable that a different corporation is involved. We cannot advise without having the facts on this point. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 3, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The "Hotel de Hobo" is one of the latest additions to the proud list of Chicago hostelries. It is a cooperative establishment, managed by its guests, who all are unemployed men, and occupies a long store room at 411 Milwaukee avenue. The International Brotherhood Welfare association, fathered by Ends How, the St. Louis millionaire, who renounced his big fortune, makes the hotel its local headquarters.

PARIS.—The Germans appear intent to make progress in the vicinity of Reims, but so far they have failed in their efforts. Attacks on the whole front have been repulsed. One hundred Germans were captured in a fresh attack in the Argonne.

PETROGRAD.—An official statement says: "On the front, between the Niemen and Vistula rivers, our troops continued their offensive on March 1. To the northwest of Grodno our troops are making successful progress. The enemy, offering stubborn resistance, has fallen back beyond the line formed by the villages of Markowce, Ratiezi and Rakowicse. The Austrians again have been repulsed in the Carpathians."

WASHINGTON.—John D. Rockefeller Jr., was the subject of a scathing arraignment for the stand he took in the clash between the Colorado miners and their employers by the mines and mining subcommittee in its report submitted to the house. The report criticized the son of the oil magnate for not submitting the labor differences to arbitration instead of starving the workers into his way of thinking. The Colorado militia's treatment of striking miners and their families was denounced as inhuman. The strike was settled long before the committee completed its report, so no specific recommendations are made. The committee appeals for arbitration, however.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 3, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Henry E. Allott, alias "Bunk" Allen, saloonkeeper and well known among sporting men, is complainant in a "bunko" game. His complaint amounts to $900, which he alleges was taken from him in a fake faro game at Elkhart, Ind. In cells at Central station are John Talbot and Charles McMurtrey, who, Allen says, aided in bunkoing him.

CHICAGO.—Official information has just reached the University of Chicago from Stockholm that it has been appointed a member of the world's committee of great universities to recommend candidates for the prizes provided by the will of the Swedish millionaire, M. Nobel, to go to living men who have done most for the cause of humanity. The institutions which make up the committee of awards are the Universities of Berlin, St. Petersburg, Vienna, Rome, Leyden, London, Paris, Zurich, and Chicago.

CHICAGO.—Maude Gonne, "the Irish Joan of Arc"; John Daly, mayor of Limerick, and Maj. McBride, late of the Irish brigade in the Transvaal, addressed 2,000 of their countrymen last night in Central Music hall. The occasion was the celebration of the 123d anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet, arranged by the Irish Nationalists of Chicago.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 3, 1881.

LONDON.—The Irish coercion bill passed the house of lords and immediately received royal assent. The lords were so anxious that it should become law as to forego the pleasure of discussing it on the third reading.

PARIS.—M. Drouyn de l'Huys, prominent French statesman, who was minister of foreign affairs under the republic and under the empire, is dead at the age of 76. He represented France at the English court and at the Vienna conference in 1855.

WASHINGTON.—After a protracted contest the house passed the funding bill as amended by the senate. Mr. Carlisle, in order to meet certain objections against the bill, introduced a supplemental bill, taking this course rather than permit amendments to the funding bill which would jeopardize its passage in the senate. The supplemental bill embodies the amendments offered by Frye, Conger and McKinley, and the principal one provides for the sale of bonds and certificates of small denomination at the various subtreasuries throughout the country. The general impression is that the President will veto the bill.

CHICAGO.—Marcus A. Farwell, the collector of South Chicago, is on the warpath. After waiting patiently for two months, he has finally concluded to enforce the collection on all delinquent taxpayers. Four of his deputies, armed with tax warrants, are out on the avenues with a two horse truck, and those who are still delinquent either have to pay or see their personal property seized.

THE KIRKLAND TRIAL.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Every one is talking about the Kirkland trial and shaking trite heads over the revolting details. But how many of us, sitting in our easy chairs and smugly clucking our tongues in righteous horror, are realizing the fact that we are to no inconsiderable degree responsible for conditions which are not only suitable but conducive to such situations?

It is the average respectable, retiring and law abiding citizen who has failed to take steps to prevent bigotry and impractical idealism from continuing to curtail his one time right to live according to his own dictates, within the bounds of decency, who should blush with shame, together with the accused, at the tale of drink crazed brains and their criminal tendencies. Human nature, lacking freedom, has chosen the alternative of evasion. Those among us who practice this method attain the status that a bad schoolboy who "gets away with it" occupies in a class of children. It is this attitude which has led to the amount of hard drinking, in the high school groups as well as the older, which we know has developed since the advent of prohibition. The former group followed the example of the latter. And all think it clever.

And still the menace to youth and all it portends goes on. Instead of protecting it in its ignorance, an ignorance of probable results and not of ways and means of procuring or using liquor, we either abet them or look on benignly; or if conscience does prick we claim the excuse of helplessness. And it's time; the individual is helpless. But collective aggression, in the form of loud and repeated demands of large bodies of honest citizens unaffiliated as a group to any political organization, will bring about the desired end. There is such an organization, but its numbers are few and it has few if any sister groups.

Let's not only get our heads below the clouds but allow ourselves to get mad, rousingly so, and stay that way, until this thing that has been perpetrated upon us has been removed.

And then, but not until then, may we call ourselves and families free. And only then will this crime situation become controllable, and our children free of the curse of becoming lawbreakers and potential murderers in order to be popular moderns. D. D. OGDEN.

THE JUGGERNAUT.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—If a gun was given to an insane person and he was permitted to run amuck, would the blood of his victims rest on his hands? If a boy is allowed to purchase rotten booze that weakens his mind and sense of decency, is he responsible? Virgil Kirkland is a sacrifice to the juggernaut of prohibition. J. M. M.

A LAMENT FROM LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19.—I am from Chicago and wish I could get back there, but cannot make any money here to get back. The saying Go west, young man, makes me laugh. I'd say to the young men of Chicago and the east, stay where you are; there is more there than here. In all my life I've never seen as much poverty as I have seen here. I've been out of work two months. Climate is wonderful, but that does not feed one. Believe me, I'd walk back if it were not for the snow.

WILLIAM PAUL.

PHILIP THE HORSE LOVER.

Chicago, March 1. — P. M. L. plaintively why so many people mispronounce "Philip" with two "l's." Come to me, Phil, and I'll give you the solution. "Philip" is a derivative of two Greek words meaning "lover of horses." The first syllable of your name springs from "philos" [lover] and the second from "hippos" [horse]. Note that the root word is spelled but one "l." The average person does not know this and spells your name with a brace of "l's." Besides, many of them probably hold with Mark Twain that he is a dunce indeed who can spell a word only one way. Pardon the pedantry, editor, but I must get some use out of a four years' devotion to the study of Greek! RALPH [illegible]

ADDRESS.

Chicago, March 1.—Philip has nearly written that about 45 per cent of his mail has his Christian name spelled with two "l's." But this percentage is small indeed when you consider the tremendous number of people who mispronounce "address." The word, whether noun or verb, has only one pronounciation. The accent is on the last syllable, and the "a" is equivalent to the "a" in senate. Over 95 per cent of the American people pronounce this word "add-dress," with accent on the first syllable, and the first syllable rhyming with the term of arithmetic "add." [illegible]

MAYBE IT'S HIS PRIDE.

Lincoln, Ill., Feb. 21. — What's hinder Daddy Warbucks from putting in the Silos? He gave them their start on the country home, as I remember it, when Spike Marlin's, to whom he gave his first boat, and the "Deacon." It seems mighty queer for him to be so flat after he was so powerful. It's almost asking too much of our imaginations.

HOW IT'S DONE IN MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Feb. 28.—Congressman Big Bill has taken your scalp and will be mayor of Chicago during the coming World's Fair. Fine business, I say. Your hick burg continues to be a gang rule. Ninety-eight per cent of your population know as little about civic government as they do about legion and finance, and if only one could teach them the rudiments of either it would be unhappy for the remainder of their lives.

I again take the liberty of suggesting that you elect a mixed city government as we have in Milwaukee, with two minorities, each of which watches the three others. Result, good government.

THE CHERRY TREE BOYS.

'TRAITORS' INSIST GERMANS URGED 'WAR' ON RUSSIA

Reveal Details of Plot at Moscow Trial.

MOSCOW, March 1.—(AP)—Further "confessions" marked the second day of the trial of 14 leaders of the outlawed Social Democratic or Menshevik party before the special session of the Supreme court, which may sentence the men to face a firing squad.

Little public interest is being shown in the proceedings and there were many vacant seats. Several of the defendants rose to oratorical heights as they told of their activities in plotting to overthrow the present government by sabotage and foreign intervention. All have pleaded guilty.

Link Germans to Plot.

Led by the brisk cross-examination of the soviet prosecutor, N. B. Krilenko, the accused detailed the formation of the Menshevik organization. All testified that the formation of the party was inspired by the Social Democrats in Germany.

Today's most fervent speech was made by the defendant, Michael Yakubovich, a former official of the supplies section of the trade commissariat, who has long, flowing whiskers and wore an old sweater and belt. His testimony sounded like a political address.

"We were undoubtedly trying to change the policy of the government by illegal means and sabotage," he shouted. "My only excuse was that I was influenced by others."

Tells of Food Shortage.

Yakubovich declared those in the plot connected with the supply department of the trade commissariat "shipped more food supplies to the country and less to the city, thus creating a shortage in urban centers which caused great discontent with the government."

All the witnesses testified the Mensheviks honestly thought at one time that the communist policy was wrong for the country, but most of them had changed their minds when "it was seen that the industrialization policy would be a success."

The general opinion seems to be that few, if any, of the guilty will be executed, although they may be sentenced to death and then reprieved by the central executive committee. Thus far workers' resolution and letters to newspapers have demanded "severe punishment" for the plotters, but not death, as they did in the recent trial of engineers.

HOOVER'S ORDER ENDS NAVAL RULE IN VIRGIN ISLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, March 2.—Capt. Waldo Evans, governor of Virgin islands, today received an executive order from President Hoover setting up civil government in the islands. The message says the naval personnel and clerical employés of the department of the navy, assigned to executive departments in the municipal government, should remain in their present positions until relieved by civil employés with the approval of the secretaries of the navy and interior. The civil replacements are to be made not later than six months from the date the new civil governor, Paul M. Pearson, assumes his duties. Virgin islanders are worried because congress ignored their request asking that the naval base be continued here.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

SENATE ITSELF DELAYED RELIEF, RETORT BY HYDE

Talked Too Much, Answer to Complaint.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Blame for delay in distributing the $20,000,000 drought relief fund was thrown back at the senate today by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

In a letter replying to the resolution introduced by Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], asking why he had not yet begun distribution, the secretary declared:

"I have the honor to inform the senate that because of the extended debate upon the appropriation of $20,000,000 contained in the interior department bill, and because of the uncertainty as to the provisions of the act, it was not possible to work out the administration and accounting problems entailed until the act was finally passed and its provisions definitely known."

Explains Machinery Necessary.

He explained the machinery which the department had set up in order to distribute loans through intermediate credit organizations and directly to the farmer.

"There exists now no reason why application for loans may not now be received and payment made shortly thereafter," he concluded.

A pair of patched and workstained overalls appeared on the senate floor today. They were unwrapped from a brown paper parcel by Senator Caraway as exhibit one in his argument that five of the twenty million dollars in the drought relief fund be loaned to farmers who had no other security than their character and energy. They were sent, he said, by an Arkansas farmer to disprove reports that Arkansas drought sufferers weren't so badly off after all.

"Do they indicate too much prosperity?" asked Senator Caraway. The senate passed his resolution.

He, in turn, was followed by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], author of yesterday's resolution to appropriate 100 million dollars for the relief of the unemployed.

The administration, congress, and business, industrial, and financial leaders, said Senator Wheeler, all had failed to supply a solution striking at the fundamental economic heart of the depression.

"Congress must do something to take care of the unemployed before it leaves here," he declared.

ILL, HE KILLS HIMSELF.

Brooding over illness, William J. McGough, 37 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in the home of his brother.

THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund received $247 in five gifts and pledges from Good Fellows yesterday, bringing the total of the fund to $98,645.

The withdrawal of two families on Saturday from the roster of needy Good Fellow charges raised to eighteen the total of families aided until they have become self-supporting. The adoption of two families in their stead places the total number of Good Fellow families at 307.

The two new families as well as the others under Good Fellow care have been investigated as to their worthiness by the following social agencies: The United Charities, Salvation Army, Central Charities bureau [Catholic], and Jewish Social Service bureau.

REPORT ALLEGES MONOPOLIES OF BREAD AND MILK

Senate Committee Blames Wholesalers.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—"An alarming tendency toward the monopolistic control of the food of the nation by a small group of powerful corporations and combinations" was disclosed to the senate today in a report submitted by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], chairman of the special subcommittee investigating food prices.

ARTHUR CAPPER. [H. & E.]

The tendency, according to the report, is strong in the case of bread and milk, and a careful scrutiny by the federal trade commission and the department of justice was recommended.

The committee found that the large wholesale bakeries have failed to pass on to the consumer the recent reductions in the cost of bread ingredients.

"The committe finds that there should be an immediate average reduction of at least 1 cent per pound in the wholesale prices charged by the large baking corporations for their standard breads," the report states.

Wholesalers Get the Benefit.

In the case of milk it is the producer rather than the consumer who is suffering, the report says, while, as in the case of bread, the wholesale distributor continues to receive his profit.

"The committee finds," the report states, "that the lower prices paid to farmers for milk purchased for fluid purposes have in general been reflected in the retail prices charged to the consumer. What has actually occurred is that in the majority of cases the reduction to the consumer has been taken wholly from the price paid to the farmer without any portion of the reduction being borne by the distributor."

Borden Company Criticised.

The Borden Farm Products Company of Illinois is held up by the committee to exemplify an exorbitant spread between the price per quart to the farmer and retail price per quart. In 1931, the committee found, the Borden company was paying the farmer 4.9 cents and was retailing the milk at 13 cents, a spread of 8.1 cents.

"The committee does not believe conditions in Chicago warrant a spread so large," the report asserts.

"In studying the spreads over a period of years the committee finds that almost without exception all reductions to the consumer have come from a reduction to the producer."

MANY ILLS ARE DUE TO FATIGUE

Common Cold Is Very Easy "To Catch" When "Tired Out"

Fatigue, according to medical authorities, lowers the resistance of the human system. As a result, the system is more susceptible to infections. For example, when fatigued, the body is easily chilled and often a head cold or worse follows.

One of the most effective ways to overcome fatigue is to eat or drink something sweet. A soda fountain beverage, ice cream, a piece of candy and small cakes are appropriate because they are quickly digested and their energy is ready at once to restore vigor.

Thousands of people who work, or spend the day shopping, have learned the value of a mid-afternoon sweet snack to banish fatigue. Children upon coming home from school are also benefited by a light, nutritious sweet food. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

HOUSE VOTES OIL JUNKET; SENATE TO PASS UPON IT

Coal and Other Industries Involved in Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—A joint resolution, authorizing holdover members of the house ways and means committee to investigate economic conditions in the oil, coal, manganese, asbestos, and agricultural industries during the interim before the 72d congress convenes, was adopted by the house today.

Senate approval of the resolution will be necessary, however. If approved by both houses, the committee men would be empowered to take junketing trips to Latin America and even to Europe in search of evidence for a tariff revision fight on oil and other commodities in the next congress. The resolution authorizes expenditure of $50,000.

Garner Sees Republican Design.

Representative John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], Democratic leader, termed the resolution a move to "save the face of the speaker for the way he and his party had handled the oil situation."

Speaker Nicholas Longworth [Rep., O.] and the Republicans, Mr. Garner said, wanted to keep the Kansas delegation in line for the organization of the next house, and had brought out the plan for an inquiry so that Kansas members could go home and tell their constituents something would be done for the independent oil industry.

Would Call Rockefeller.

Mr. Garner indicated he would like to turn the light on the operations of the big oil companies by calling Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and John D. Rockefeller Jr. as witnesses.

Representative Willis C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the ways and means committee, said he had no objection to calling Mr. Mellon. He said, also, that the committee would not go to Russia during its proposed investigation, and then Representative Garner stated that he would vote for the resolution.

Representative Homer Hoch [Rep., Kas.] asserted that the independent oil industry was being strangled and that big companies soon would dominate the field unless protection was afforded against foreign competition.

CONGRESS AND PRESIDENT PAY COOPER TRIBUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—President Hoover and both houses of congress today paid tribute to Representative Henry Allen Cooper, [Rep., Wis.], the oldest member of congress, who died yesterday.

President Hoover sent the following note to Mrs. Cooper, widow of the Wisconsin representative:

"I send you my deepest sympathy in your bereavement, and I do pray that you may find consolation in the memory of his long and useful career."

Both the senate and the house recessed for an hour today out of respect for Representative Cooper and many verbal tributes were paid him by members of both houses.

Vice President Curtis today appointed a committee consisting of Senators La Follette, Blaine, Borah, Watson, Frazier, Norris, Howell, Shipstead, Robinson, Bratton, Connolly, King, McKellar, and Thomas [Okla.], to attend the funeral at Racine, Wis., on Thursday. Speaker Longworth is expected to appoint a similar committee of about 20 members of the house tomorrow.

Resolutions mourning the passing of Representative Cooper and appropriating $10,000 to his widow were passed in both houses.

The attempted takeoff resulted in a crash. The plane was wrecked, but the men, unhurt, escaped. They were apprehended thirty minutes later by the police.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

DISPUTE ON ZONING LEADS TO FIGHT AT COMMITTEE HEARING

Differences between two neighbors over the proposal to zone a section of Mount Greenwood for industrial purposes, reached a fistic climax yesterday at a meeting of the city council committee on building and zoning.

The neighbors are Thomas B. Hamer of 11038 South Whipple street, and Michael O'Malley of 10949 South Whipple street. Both appeared at the session, the former to advance his proposal for industrial zoning, and the latter to oppose it. As they met, O'Malley, according to witnesses, struck Hamer once in the face. Sergt. John Dohney ended the fracas by ejecting O'Malley.

O'Malley's ire was aroused, it was said, because he had sacrificed a day's pay to attend the proceedings only to learn that but two of the 21 committee members were present, causing the hearing to be adjourned.

11 DEAD, 40 HURT IN THEATER FIRE; ACTORS TRAPPED

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—(AP)—Firemen dragged eleven bodies out of the smoldering ruins of the 178 year old Principal theater today, but in the twisted wreckage of the old house it was feared more victims were buried.

The theater burned to the ground after a midnight performance today and more than forty persons were injured in the stampede to escape.

Several women and children perished, among them Carmen Velasco, a member of the cast, who escaped and then ran back into the building to save a friend and was killed.

As the crowd was leaving the theater about 1 a. m. a stage hand lowering the curtain let it drop on an electric wire, which was short circuited, igniting the drop. Then he raised the curtain so the dancers could take a bow and the flames leaped to the flies. He lowered it again and the actors were trapped.

PICK 8 ON JURY TO TRY BOWLES, GIRL AS SLAYERS

Hillsboro, Ore., March 2.—(AP)—Eight men today were selected as tentative jurors in the first degree murder trial of Nelson C. Bowles, Portland capitalist, and Irma G. Loucks, his former secretary, charged with the murder of Bowles' wife.

Mrs. Leone Bowles died in Miss Loucks' Portland apartment last Nov. 12 from a knife wound in her breast. The defense will contend she took her own life after learning of intimacies of the accused couple.

The state asked each prospective talesman if he had any prejudice against the death penalty and if he could convict for first degree murder on circumstantial evidence.

The defendants were in court but took no active part in directing their attorneys. Most of the trial spectators were women.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John said, had magnanimously adopted the child. His sister, Gertrude, took charge of Judith when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead Hilary was returning home.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

AN UNBELIEVED STORY.

Hilary lay awake for a long time that night, shaken yet happy at what the day had brought her. In spite of her ready acquiescence when John Falconer had spoken of seeing her soon again, she had not until then looked beyond the moment. Her life had been so long without settled roots, the future so doubtful that she had perhaps lost the habit. And she was too honest to deny herself now what he had not put into words—that this was something more than a friendship neither wished to end. Naturally reticent, she had noticed and approved the same quality in Falconer. He would not have told her about the little girl if he had not seen it as something inevitable and necessary for her to know. He had not found the telling easy; she had realized that the whole thing still bewildered him; nor had he tried to excuse or justify himself. It had not even occurred to him, she thought. He had been engrossed in showing her Sylvia and how perfectly she had done a very fine and generous thing, but Hilary was more touched at his own male oblivion of the delicacy of what he had embarked upon—singing one woman's praises to another. To her ears Sylvia's beauty and perfection sounded cold. She had been moved at last by the picture of the little girl's silent, heartbroken grief, until now, thinking it all over, it occurred to her to wonder whether an indulged and happy child would cry like that. She felt it was unnatural, too controlled; and suddenly she knew that she did not believe in the magnanimous wife, the story was altogether too pretty and sweet, too completely worked out and rounded off. Destiny does not move like that without some human agency.

"Any one would think I was jealous," she thought, smiling in the darkness, "and how ridiculous! I don't really care about any of it except on his account, poor dearling."

Hilary lay awake for a long time that night.

"I'm not going to pretend," John had said to her awkwardly, "that I have any sentimental feeling for Judith. If we had had her earlier, perhaps. . . . I always felt it hard that Sylvia and I had no children. But I was away a good deal and deep in my work, and a man doesn't see much of his youngsters when they've reached the age for governesses and so on, I suppose. . . . Or if I had been responsible for her after Sylvia died . . . we'd have got to know each other. But she was sparing me still the embarrassment and well, in a sense, the opprobrium, and of course thinking of Judith's welfare, too. Much better that the poor little thing should have a woman's care, and my sister has children of her own—companions for her. So you see how it is. I am without ties of any kind except that I shall always want to know that Judith is looked after, and be ready to help her to a career if she wants it later on."

Was he telling her that he would not expect her to be a magnanimous wife and exhibit Sylvia's perfection?

"Nothing would induce me to try," said Hilary to herself with humor. "I should do it so badly."

While she could smile at his clumsiness she found it strangely touching, for however much she might try to convince himself and her, she could see that to spare him was what Sylvia had never attempted.

"A woman who really loves a man does not exalt herself at his expense or lay him under an intolerable obligation," thought Hilary indignantly. "I suppose she believed she was doing something fine and I daresay I am a cat to criticize her, and yet why not have held her tongue and let him manage his own affairs? Or if she wanted the child she could have asked for her. People are so fond of melodrama and I suppose even in these days there are conventional fools afraid of the opinions of other fools. . . . But a lovely girl like that, sure of his adoration, would be too secure. No, I can't make head or tail of Sylvia's attitude, but whatever it was they have all sheltered and protected him, those women, and it's impertinence. I'll never do it."

Were all women born with this instinct to manage men, she wondered. Was this one of the much talked of results of their centuries of subservience? She remembered how in his own phrase she had "run" Hugh out of England, and how, grinning, he had made her pay for it in an exile of ten years. Hugh had never forgiven her that interference. Men didn't, however much they might delude themselves.

"Well, at least you've cured me," she said whimsically to the shade of Hugh. "I shall let other people do all the managing in the future."

That thought, her last before she fell asleep, was recalled to her by Falconer next day.

"We'll put your small luggage with mine," he said, "in case your brother doesn't make Liverpool. I'll see to it, and you'd better let me help you through the customs, too."

"I'm not used to being spoilt like this," she reminded him. "Juggling with luggage and customs has become second nature to me."

"Then please try to get used to it."

"O, I shan't need to try. I am naturally a parasite, I shall wallow in it," declared Hilary gayly, "but I don't think you quite realize what you're taking on. I shall probably burst into floods of tears when I see an English tree."

"Then I'd better have a stock of handkerchiefs ready. I don't believe a word of all this talk of parasites and wallowing, but I like to believe you are a little homesick."

"Do you? I'm rather ashamed of it myself, because I can't logically acknowledge what it implies—that there's some mysterious virtue in one place more than another to every individual. It must be sentimental egotism, or perhaps snobbery, a longing for the kind of accent you've been taught is correct. I daresay that's why I quarreled with you so instantaneously."

"Why, is mine so bad?" he asked in dismay.

"No, so home grown. One doesn't rush into a quarrel with a complete stranger."

"A Cockney or Lancashire accent would equally have been that."

"Not to me. . . . You see how parochial I am."

"Well, as long as I belong to your parish," he allowed, smiling. "And yet isn't homesickness perhaps just the race instinct in every one of us? Of course there is a mysterious virtue in our own country. We are our ancestors, and if for generations past they have been English, then England is our natural element—the one place which is familiar and safe whether we are conscious of it or not. We may be more prosperous elsewhere because too deep a sense of security doesn't make for progress, quite the reverse, but England still calls to us under it all. Look at all these youngsters coming 'home,' to a country they have never seen. That is their ancestors speaking in them. If you call them English they will deny it with fury."

"You do relieve my mind," declared Hilary. "If I howl with zest all the way to London you'll know it's really my ancestors and won't blame me."

"I can't imagine blaming you for anything," said Falconer, simply, to [illegible].

"Out of Date," Movie Makers' Reply to Shaw

Hollywood's Shield Turns Shavian Arrows.

Hollywood, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw got his answer today from Hollywood, and Theodore Dreiser and other so-called "literary giants" came in for mention in verbal fireworks set off by the Irish playwright in his reply to an American criticism of his English made talking picture, "How He Lied to Her Husband."

Josef von Sternberg, leading director noted for silent and talking film successes, including "The Blue Angel" and "Morocco," led the attack.

"George Bernard Shaw," he said, "is antiquated. He is operating, thinking, talking and writing in terms of the last century. He emptied himself 20 years ago and that also applies to many of the so-called literary giants—in particular Theodore Dreiser."

Von Sternberg, who began production today on the American novelist's "American Tragedy," would offer no personal reasons for special mention of Dreiser, who by terms of the sale of film rights to his book to Paramount two years ago for $150,000 was entitled to read the screen adaptation before production.

Samuel Hoffenstein, screen writer who prepared the treatment, is meeting Dreiser in New Orleans to show him the script for the first time, said Von Sternberg, but actual shooting of the picture began today.

The director implied Dreiser represents "the superior attitude" toward movies affected by many, including Shaw, "who know nothing about screen requirements."

Von Sternberg said he had seen portions of the Shaw picture and what he saw was "pretty terrible." To Shaw's remark that American movie makers can do things "after they have been shown how," the director said: "Hollywood has absolutely nothing to learn in motion pictures from any European country, neither from Russia nor Germany, and least of all from England."

Other leading Hollywood directors took exception, more or less emphatically, to the manifesto, while some were inclined to Edwin Carewe's opinion, that it all "proves again that Mr. Shaw is the world's greatest jokester."

Tod Browning pointed to Hollywood's box office successes, remarking: "If Hollywood's pictures kept as many people out of theaters as do Shaw's pictures in the British empire, the entire industry would have to close in 30 days."

Mack Sennett, veteran comic maker, said: "Don't pass the buck to Hollywood. It may be possible that some of Mr. Shaw's plays or stories are afflicted with a bit of repetition—meaning, when one word will convey the point, why use twenty?"

Movie Interests Balk at Argentine Tariff Increase.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 2.—The recent revision in customs duties has hit the moving picture business a hard blow, with an increase of approximately 1,000 per cent. This, it is said by some, is expected to put all but a few of the highest class cinema theaters out of business. Importers and distributers are planning to petition the government to reconsider this decree. It is believed in some quarters that the original intention was to increase the duties 100 per cent, which became converted into 1,000 by a slip of the pen.

Chicago 94 Yrs. Old Tomorrow as City; Relics to Be Displayed

Tomorrow is the 94th anniversary of the incorporation of the city of Chicago. This was announced yesterday by the Chicago Historical society. A special exhibition of various articles reminiscent of the first days the city was in official existence, which include a gavel used at the first council meeting, will be given in the headquarters of the society at 632 North Dearborn street.

It was also pointed out by officials of the society that 100 years ago next Saturday, in 1831, the first election of county officers following the admission of Illinois to the union as a state, was held. The men elected were County Commissioners Samuel Miller, James Walker, and Gholson Kercheval, and Treasurer Archibald Clybourn.

Indian Wars Whites' Fault, Bishop's Charge

Calls Them Blots on History of America.

Treatment of the American Indian by white men in this country is one of the greatest blots on record of the nation. This opinion was expressed by Bishop Granville G. Bennett of Duluth. He spoke before the Episcopal Church club of Chicago yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. Bishop Bennett is the preacher this week at the noon day Lenten services at the Garrick theater. He was greeted at his opening services by chiefs of the Ojibwa and Winnebago tribes in full regalia.

The Duluth prelate, in whose diocese, which extends across northern Minnesota, is located what he declared to be the second largest Indian work in the Episcopal church. Some time ago he was "adopted" by the Ojibwa or Chippewa tribe and made a chief with the Indian name, "Hole-in-the-sky." Bishop Bennett referred to the old saying, "The only good Indian is a dead Indian," and declared it to be a gross untruth.

"It has been the white man who has corrupted the Indian," Bishop Bennett said. "The Indian loses his dignity when he comes in contact with the white man, and it is always the case that the first contacts between the races is between the worst class of white and the lowest types of Indians."

Intermarriage between whites and Indians does not result in "throw backs," Bishop Bennett explained, as he referred to the pride with which many well known people refer to their strains of Indian blood.

"Our greatest task today is to develop a sense of world citizenship," Bishop Bennett declared. "Such a sense is absolutely necessary, if we are to save our civilization from cracking wide open. Our greatest responsibility toward the Indian is to bring him into that sense of world citizenship. We must recognize that we are brothers of the Indians, brothers in basic origin."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

The annual concert of the Swift & Company Male chorus was erroneously announced in Sunday's issue of THE TRIBUNE as coming on Tuesday evening of this week. It should have been Thursday evening.

THE STAGE

THE eighth and last play in the subscription season of the repertory company at the Goodman theater will be "The Sacred Flame," by W. Somerset Maugham. It will be staged after "The Adding Machine," which opens next Tuesday night, has run its allotted three weeks.

Of "The Adding Machine," now in rehearsal, it may be reported that Elmer Rice, author of "Street Scene," wrote it several years ago when "expressionism" was in vogue; and that it is a fantastic allegory of the spiritual agonies of a clerk—called Mr. Zero—who is a victim of what the intellectual essayists call "the futility of the machine age." In the Goodman production, as an extra touch of modernism or symbolism or something, the characters in some of the scenes will wear masks.

This recalls Eugene O'Neill's use of masks in "The Great God Brown" and "The Hairy Ape."

Other gossip from the Goodman deals with Luigi Pirandello, the much talked about author of "Lazzaro," now on view there, and "As You Desire Me," now a hit in New York. The producers of Pirandello plays have been promising to import the distinguished Italian man of letters for American observation; but he seems to be elusive. The New York première of "As You Desire Me" and the Chicago première of "Lazzaro" were supposed to have Signor Pirandello in attendance, but thus far he has not risen to take his bow.

His American publishers are now announcing that he will come to this country some time in April. He will be headed toward Hollywood. Incidentally, he has written a brochure of 20,000 words, which will be published under the title "Explaining 'As You Desire Me'" and the subtitle, "If It Requires One." All of which sounds as if Pirandello has fallen into the hands of Cash-and-Carry Pyle, who promoted Red Grange and the cross-continent loping carnivals.

Al Jolson returned to the stage last night, in Washington, D. C., as the star of an operetta of European renown called "The Wonder Bar." His company includes Mme. Trini, Rex O'Malley, Wanda Lyon, Adrian Rosely, Michael Dalmatoff, and twenty-one others.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 2.—The tendency of the American woman to accept a standardized fashion of dress has become a serious danger to the French dressmaking trade, according to President Gerber of the French couturiers' syndicate. He warned the French not to adopt standardized methods.

Because of the falling off in overseas orders, French fashion houses are tempted to turn their efforts toward mass production, he said, but declared that if the French houses do this, they are doomed, as they cannot compete in this field with other countries.

The figures given by M. Gerber showed that French dress exports in 1926 were valued at $30,000,000, but that they fell to $57,400,000 in 1929 and to $35,640,000 in 1930, or a drop of $24,360,000, or more than 80 per cent in four years.

Lady Cynthia Helps Husband with New Party

Heiress Finds Critics on All Sides in Britain.

LONDON, March 2.—(AP)—Lady Cynthia Mosley [she prefers to be called Mrs. Oswald Mosley] is going to help her husband's "right hand man" in the building of the new political party which Sir Oswald launched Saturday.

The granddaughter of Levi Leiter of Chicago has, in the last few years, made a mark of British politics comparable with that of her husband, a dashing figure who has sat in the house of commons as Conservative, Independent, Laborite, and now has broken away from the Labor party.

When she deprecated her title, joined the Labor ranks, and described herself as a "pink" but not a "red," she faced and endured the snubs of British society with rare good humor. Now both she and her husband face even more severe ostracism, for the combined forces of British politics, with the embittered Laborites in the lead, are aligned against her.

Jim Thomas, Labor M. P., recently gave an example of what they are in for. Replying to Sir Oswald's attack in the house on Prime Minister MacDonald, Thomas, in a scorching speech delivered in his cockney accent, declared that "If Ramsay MacDonald has committed any crime it was in raising Sir Oswald from obscurity to notoriety."

Several years ago Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia visited the United States, where she spoke at several Socialist meetings, encouraging American workers to look to their rights against the encroachments of capitalism.

As a political force the Mosley party is still a babe in arms, with only a half dozen members, and the lobby jokers are saying it will need all the mothering Lady Cynthia can give it.

Among the old hands there is more regret than anger with Sir Oswald, because it is feared that the young man, admittedly a man with a brilliant future, has turned his back on his best chances to take the long and hard road of building a new party.

They estimate that, to finance the 400 candidates he has appealed for to run in the next election, Sir Oswald would need $1,000,000 or more, and that, despite his own wealth and Lady Cynthia's American millions, the financial burden would be more than they can carry.

To begin with, the Mosleys must set themselves right with their own constituencies, and, if they are outlawed by the Labor party, their constituents may demand their resignation as official Labor candidates can oppose them in the new bye elections.

Both will have to do their campaigning largely from public platforms, but Lady Cynthia will be able to hold her own, for she has been through the rough and tumble of campaigning before and has the ready wit so popular with British audiences.

Film Theaters Report Gain in Business Since October

New York, March 2.—(AP)—An upward trend in the motion picture theater business is shown in a survey by the Motion Picture Herald. Basing its statistics on gross receipts of first run theaters in 20 metropolitan centers in the United States and Canada, the publication says an average increase of 6 per cent was shown during the 19 weeks from Oct. 4 to Feb. 7. The comparison was with the average for the last 20 weeks of 1930.

Beauty Shop Owners Come to the Aid of Unemployed Women

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Job or no job, the requirement is that personal attractiveness must be kept up. And just to prove that the beauticians are not without heart in an unemployment emergency, we have the word of Hazel L. Kozlay, editor of a leading hairdressers' publication, of a most human, kindly service being given to women out of jobs who cannot afford from their own purses the services of a beauty specialist.

In many beauty shops, Miss Kozlay informs us, are to be found clinics for unemployed women. "Here, with a diplomacy which would be the envy of courtiers, a human service is performed," Miss Kozlay tells us. "For certain periods of the day the doors of a special department are thrown open to women who seek employment and cannot afford the necessary grooming, which they can obtain only in beauty shops, to prepare them for the keen competition they now have to face in seeking positions."

In one of New York's largest establishments, where such a department is in operation, the work and handling of these women is done with the utmost secrecy so that the most sensitive souls will have no feelings of charity.

Great work, you agree? No one is in a better position to realize the effect on the morale of such service than those catering to women the year around. A woman out of a job is a woman in low spirits, unless she is endowed with a gift of fortitude few of us possess. The outlook is disheartening. What like the knowledge that one's appearance is above criticism helps an unemployed girl to face the world with renewed confidence?

I call the work that is being performed in the interests of unemployed women a grand and noble one. More power [and luck] to the beauty shop owners performing it! With Miss Kozlay, let us hope, too, that the generous movement will spread so that no unemployed girl will be left to feel that she is without the appearance to face a critical test.

Many Factors May Enter Into Poorly Done School Work

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Enough letters like the following come to me to make a general answer seem advisable.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I am a daily reader of the paper, but have never seen this problem answered in your articles. "My oldest girl is 8 years old. She is in third grade in school. I think she is in the right grade for her age, but I have to help her. It takes three hours every day to get her lessons done and then she isn't doing well in her studies. She forgets so easily—has a poor memory. She often complains of a slight headache. Can there be anything ailing her that causes the poor school work? She always plays and never complains about anything but the headache.

"Please answer this if you can, as I do not want her to fail in school and it is hard for me to help her so much as I have two younger children."

This is not much information on which to base advice, but most of the letters of this group contain about this number of details.

There are several reasons why a child may be in such a state as this one:

She may be undernourished.
She may not get enough sleep.
She may need a daytime rest period.
She may not be outdoors enough.
She may have poor eyesight.
She may have defective hearing.
She may be placed just a grade ahead of where she should be in school, which makes her constantly discouraged.
She may be managed in such a way in school that she is fearful or discouraged.

Or last, she may be a little below the mental age of eight, which is her physical age.

So first she should have a general medical examination and a careful examination for sight and hearing.

Then if there is no physical cause of any kind, the teacher should be called upon, and the principal. Their general opinion should be gained and also an intelligence test given.

This covers possible causes in a general way, except the possibility of poor management at home, or discouragement caused by favoritism and praise being bestowed on the younger children.

Lelong Sponsors Black Lace for Afternoons

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Smart Parisiennes prefer lace for their late afternoon and dinner frocks, this season. Each kind of lace, from the coarsest weave of linen to the finest cobwebby varieties known to woman, is smart. Silk lace is good, and cotton, too!

Lelong makes the late afternoon gown, sketched here, of black braided lace, for Mme. Bernstein. He achieves its amusing line by Bias tailored folds of the lace, laid flat on the bodice, flaring into a ruffly peplum effect around the hips, diminishing to slenderness above the knees, and then widening again into a full circular bell at the hem, which you will notice ends about eight inches from the floor, a fact that is significant of shorter skirts for spring.

The elbow sleeves with their circular flounces masking the elbows are a typical Lelong touch. They're worn with wide topped gloves of black suede.

The Suzanne Talbot hat has a satin crown and a veil-brim of starched chiffon. A jeweled band surrounds the crown.

Drinking Heads In on Romance in a Large Way

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Wonder how much the prohibition law has to do with the increase in inquiries received here about the advisibility of marrying men who drink?

The question comes with varied descriptions of the drink habit. Some of the young men asked about are obviously babes at the alcohol fountains. Others are getting in deeper and deeper, and others again, are veteran hardened drinkers. All cannot be disposed of with the same gesture of doubt as to their worthwhileness as future husbands.

Anyway, drinking is heading in on romance in a regrettably large way. We have repeated objections from young men toward the "gin guzzling" girl as good marriage material. And the girls are equally opposed to taking on for life men with similar or stronger drink appetite.

What a pity that youths, of either sex, should in the most glorious period they'll ever know so far as love and romance are concerned, be confronted with the question of liquor. You'd say more the pity, too, did you realize the ideals about love and marriage these inquiring young folk reveal in their letters. But the problem's there in more instances than the average person dreams of.

Parents of girls entertain the old fashioned prejudice against a drinking youth. Where their girls' happiness is at stake, the preference is for the abstemious suitor. And this gives rise to conflict in homes, the daughters holding—and perhaps justifiably—that the drinking done by a particular suitor may be a harmless pastime. That seems to be the training girls are subjected to in certain quarters.

But for the most part the serious girl is a bit chary of taking on a man with a liking for drink. The drinking girl holds about the same unexalted position among men as she always did. That is, when they think of her as a marriage prospect.

A leter from "Isabel," now on my table, tells of her broken engagement due to the continous drinking of her fiancé, a popular chap who, two years ago, drank nothing. Another letter presents the old query of whether to marry a man who is a confirmed addict. That we dismiss with the warning: "Don't."

But this other crop, some of them on the make as confirmed addicts and some what we might describe as "harmless," or just party imbibers—what are we to say about them as marriage material? It's hard to say anything with mothers and fathers indulging themselves according to the "law busting" code and breaking the law out of sheer contempt for its injustice.

Miss Johnston, W. H. Boyden Are Engaged

BY THALIA

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS LEIDY JOHNSTON of 1520 Dearborn parkway announce the engagement of their daughter, Angela, to Willard Newhall Boyden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Boyden of 1214 Church street, Evanston. Miss Johnston and Mr. Boyden are to be married some time this spring, although the wedding date has not been set definitely.

Miss Angela is a graduate of Bryn Mawr, class of 1926, and her fiancé is a Williams college graduate. She distinguished herself in scholastics and campus activities during her college career. She won the Bryn Mawr Memorial prize and was senior class president. Following her graduation and debut, she became interested in archaeology and went on two expeditions, the first in 1928 with Prof. Edward Capps of Princeton to Corinth, and the other—the following fall—to Athens, also with the Princeton workers. Last winter she took an active part in the Junior league children's theater work. She's most attractive and popular, and everybody's very much pleased with her romance.

Some Notes from California and Other Nearby Places.

Neighborhood notes from Santa Barbara—The William H. Mitchells are installed in the J. J. Mitchell house on the beach at Montecito for a stay of 4 weeks or so [the children arrived a week earlier and stayed with the Clarence Mitchells until they arrived.] . . . The Robert G. McGanns gave a dinner party last week, and Mrs. McGann is to give a luncheon next Sunday at "Ca' di Sopra," the McGann residence. . . . Mrs. James H. Douglas and the junior Douglasses are back from a week at Palm Springs, and Mrs. D. Stout motored to Los Angeles for a day or so. . . . Miss Ruth and Miss Virginia Borden of Philadelphia, who have been visiting Dorothy Wilson, have returned east, and Chicagoans who have taken season tickets for the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra include the Hobart Chatfield-Taylors, Mr. and Mrs. Ellicott Evans, the Francis V. Lloyds, Mrs. Stout, and the W. P. Nelsons.

Art, Mrs. Margaret Barnes, and Tea for Chinese Professor.

Various things going on in the next few days—Margaret Ayer Barnes, who seems to be frightfully busy being guest of honor of something or other every little while, is principal guest at the March meeting of the Junior Friends of Art this afternoon at the Chicago Galleries association, and is to speak on "Literary Highlights of My Life, Etc." . . . Mrs. Marshall Sampsell of Highland Park is having a luncheon meeting for the Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare today. . . . Alice Gerstenberg, president of the Playwrights theater, and Hurbert Osborne, directory of the Goodman, are to be guests of honor at a luncheon to be given by the art and literature department of the Chicago Woman's club on Thursday. . . . The Chicago Vassar club announces a tea at Vassar house Friday afternoon for Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Chang [Dr. Chang is visiting lecturer at the University of Chicago, you remember, and Mrs. Chang is a Vassar graduate], with the hostesses, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mrs. William H. Bush, Mrs. Percival G. Hart, Mrs. O. R. Torrison, Mrs. W. Gordon McKeldin, Mrs. Stanley K. Peirce, Mrs. John K. Norwood, and Mrs. Whipple Jacobs.

This traveling business—Mrs. Paul Blatchford of Oak Park sailed on the Conte Biancamano for Naples last Friday . . . on the same ship was David A. Noyes . . . the Frank J. Loesches, who make so many trips east, are going west for a change, taking the California limited next Saturday evening for California . . . the Philip K. Wrigleys and their two small daughters, Ada Blanche and Deedie, departed last week for Catalina island, and will be gone about six weeks . . . the Laurence H. Armours are at Miami Beach, having taken the cottage next to Mrs. W. Scott Linn's at the King Cole . . . the Charles H. Morses sail this week on the Europa for Europe (they'll be on the continent for about three months, most of the time at their place in Munich, and are to take a motor trip through Italy, Switzerland, and France) . . . the Lester Armours, who have been at Phoenix, have proceeded on to Coronado Beach, the Robert B. Dickinsons are at Castle Hot Springs for six weeks . . . the William Bradshaw Egans return this morning from a few days in New York City.

France May Put Chaplin Into the Legion of Honor

PARIS, March 2.—(AP)—The red ribbon of a knight of the Legion of Honor may blossom in Charlie Chaplin's buttonhole next week when he visits Paris.

It was reported from a reliable source today that the foreign office sees no impediment to the decoration. It was expected that the ministry of fine arts would shortly make a formal request for it.

Charlie received the purple rosette of an officer of public instruction in 1931 on the occasion of his Paris visit when he appeared in a charity gala for the benefit of the devastated regions, held under the auspices of Miss Anne Morgan.

WEDDINGS

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 2.—(AP)—Mal. Benjamin Mendez, Colombian flying ace, will be married next Saturday to Señorita Tulita Dousdedes, and immediately thereafter will leave on a honeymoon in the United States, which will include a visit to Niagara falls.

The United States minister, Jefferson Caffery, will be the best man at the ceremony. Mrs. Samuel Haskell of Salt Lake City, Utah, will act as matron of honor, and Capt. Vernon De Vetis, United States military attaché, as usher.

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Dr. George P. Waller, 46 years old, of Los Angeles, Cal., today married Mrs. Florence S. Hazard, 45 years old, of New York. The bride is the daughter of Albert L. Stetson and was born in Sioux City, Ia. Dr. Waller was born in Osceola, Neb., son of George B. Waller.

MISS ANGELA JOHNSTON.

[Du Bois Photo.]

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Leidy Johnston of 1520 Dearborn parkway of the engagement of their daughter, Angela, to Willard Newhall Boyden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Boyden of Evanston. Miss Johnston has made two trips to Greece with a party of Princeton archaeologists.

Two Chicago Painters Bring Credit to City

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE exhibition of paintings by John F. Stacey and Anna Lee Stacey which has just opened in the O'Brien gallerey is of such caliber as to make one proud of a Chicago that can produce such artists. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stacey have lived and worked in Chicago for years. They are members of the Tree studio group, that contingent of unswerving conservatives who have kept the banner of beauty flying against all assaults from the modernists.

That it is worth while to have standards and to cherish ideals is magnificently brought out in the current show, the first in which Mr. and Mrs. Stacey have figured alone in a Chicago gallery. Their canvases of rich and intelligent beauty fill the long rooms. The spoils of a European travel year, we find the landscapes of France and thee Riviera offered to us in glowing, tender colors, exquisitely varied but the same in their stressing of craftsmanship, technique and composition.

There is no need to choose between these painters. Each has an individual style and neither could be mistaken for the other. Where perhaps Mr. Stacey is a little more of the romanticist and dreamer, a little more the poet, Mrs. Stacey, in her painting, is like a clear bell that at each tap gives back a singing note. Her paintings are definitely staged. Here, we speak more particularly of the still life compositions in which flowers bear a decorative part, there is nothing left to chance, no weakness to be covered by a shadow nor fault to be blocked by an irrevelance. This is considered work and the strength of its loveliness lies in the knowledge and practice that temper her brush.

If you want an hour of sheer delight; if you want to feel that Chicago is in the first rank of art, that it is important for other than commercial or sensational reasons, go to this exhibition and enjoy the sunshine and trees and river and hills which Mr. Stacey offers and the landscapes and still life offered by Mrs. Stacey. It is a rare opportunity for catching up with a radiance and beauty that others of our shows make us feel have almost died out of the world.

The exhibition will continue through the month.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A primary teacher, well advanced in years, was preparing her pupils for a celebration of the 22d of February. She told them of the simple life of the revolutionary period, and how during the time that Washington was becoming established in business Martha was learning to keep house and making her quilts, so that when George asked her to marry him she was all ready with her share for the new home.

There was a dramatic pause; suddenly Johnnie piped up: "Miss Smith, why didn't you make some quilts?"

C. M. P.

I caught my finger in the door and my little girl, aged 7, ran in to see what the commotion was. She examined my finger and said, quite nonchalantly, "Well, that's the way life is."

Illinois Gets Title to Old Lincoln Land for Memorial Park

Springfield, Ill., March 2.—Title to the old Coles county homestead of the Lincoln family has been obtained by the state of Illinois.

The tract will be developed into a Lincoln memorial park. The 18 acres, according to traditions connected with the sojourn of the Lincoln family in the territory south of Charleston, includes the site of the log cabin that Lincoln helped his father to build, just prior to his departure for New Salem, where his ascendency in public life began. The cabin, Lincoln authorities say, was exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893 and then passed out of existence.

Negotiations for the land were opened about two years ago. At that time two parcels of land in the vicinity of the homestead were bought but the price demanded for the 18 acre tract was considered exorbitant. The third tract was purchased recently at the price per acre paid for the other two, the department of purchases and construction announced today.

Food Talk.

When I receive requests for the Hollywood diet, and I get them every now and then, I always feel like sermonizing. Trying to live on this particular diet and on many others is suicidal. It may be a slow process of self-extermination, but it is a sure one. The reason I feel so keenly about this is that I know a number of women who have never been strong, vigorous women since they followed the Hollywood diet. In each case that I have followed there has always been some kind of digestive disturbance following the eating of a well balanced meal.

What every human being should aim at is normal weight. That is important for good health. Overweight that continues for years puts a strain on muscles, vital organs, blood vessels, and bones which may cause various disorders. Underweight results in mental fatigue, nervous diseases, and susceptibility to infection.

Our weight may vary 10 or 15 pounds on either side of the weight we should have for our height and age, and still be regarded as normal. One's build should always be taken into consideration in judging abnormalities of weight.

The best way to safely cut down weight is to eat only those foods that supply proteins, minerals, and vitamins. These we must have for general well-being. The foods that one should cut down on are the sugars, starches, and fats. These foods are not good sources of minerals, vitamins, and proteins. Foods which furnish the necessary elements are milk, eggs, fruits, and vegetables. Only lean meats should be eaten. The cereals and breads should be of the whole grain varieties and not too much of these should be consumed. Only enough sugar to make foods acceptable should be used. Many foods that we serve with sugar may be eaten without if we will only train ourselves to do so. Desserts, like pie, cake and fat meats should be gradually excluded.

For those who wish to gain weight all of the essential foods, as well as the fuel foods, should be added. Since the appetite of underweight persons is liable to be poor the food should be made palatable.

DAYTONA PUDDING.

1¾ cups graham flour 1 egg
4 tsp. baking powder 1 2-3 cups milk
¾ tsp. salt. ¼ cup walnut meats, chopped
6 tbsp. butter
1 scant cup sugar

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt, returning any bran remaining in the sifter to the sifted mixture. Cream butter and sugar, add slightly beaten egg and continue mixing until mass is thoroughly creamed. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Add nuts and stir just enough to distribute. Bake in square or oblong pan in a medium oven [375 degrees F.]. Serve hot or cold with raisin sauce.

Yield: 6 servings.

RAISIN SAUCE.

1½ tbsp. cornstarch 1 pt. boiling water
½ cup brown sugar ½ cup raisins
1-3 cup granulated sugar 1 tbsp. butter

Mix the cornstarch and the sugars well. Add the boiling water. Stirring constantly, cook over a low flame until clear. Add raisins, which have been well washed and drained, and butter. Cook slowly 5 minutes longer. Serve hot or cold.

Yield: 6 servings.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Request of Elderly Woman.

"I am an elderly woman in an institution and suffer from severe rheumatic pains in both my arms. I was able to stop these pains for a few years with electricity. Now they bother me again, and as I do not work I cannot afford such a treatment. I would be grateful if through your column I could get an electric home therapy machine with handles. It would help me so much. M. V."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Steno's Strategy.

As quitting time drew near I went into the washroom to doll up for the evening's dinner date. To save time I put on my galoshes, and managed to get back to my desk without being noticed.

About two minutes to five the president rang for me, and I marched in, unaware of the galoshes. The first thing he did was to look down at my feet, and in all seriousness asked, "Coming or going?" I was too embarrassed to reply, but my blushes answered for me. N. Y.

COLD INFECTION

carried and spread by handkerchiefs

Ordinary handkerchief carries millions of disease germs during a cold..self-infects user... infects others.

Use Kleenex then destroy

IMPORTANT to the health of every man, woman and child in the United States is the latest scientific information about the importance of Kleenex during colds.

This information comes as a result of tests performed on ordinary handkerchiefs used during colds. These handkerchiefs, without exception, were found literally teeming with disease germs. Used even once, a handkerchief may contain over 200,000 germs! These germs are carried back to the face by the ordinary handkerchief . . . but are destroyed when you use Kleenex.

What Kleenex is

Kleenex is a soft, super-absorbent tissue. So inexpensive that you use each tissue only once, then discard. So gentle that irritation is impossible. Every tissue that touches your face is clean and dry.

For removing cold cream

Yes, this is the very same Kleenex that beauty experts advise for removing creams and cosmetics from the face. Its absorbency assures super-cleansing. Kleenex saves towels from cosmetic stains.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store; 25c, 50c and $1. If you have not tried Kleenex send for a free trial packet to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

The reports at left are based on tests performed in the laboratories of Dr. Bertram Feuer, Chicago bacteriologist.

BACTERIOLOGICAL TESTS SHOW:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

OUT OF NAZARETH?

Dr. Dan B. Brummitt,

[Editor Northwestern Christian Advocate]

"Out of Nazareth ariseth no prophet." John vii., 52.

We love the stories of rail-splitters and canal boys and blacksmiths who became famous because of our delight in seeing the impossible come to pass.

Nazareth was a sort of a Palestinian joke; as who would say "Podunk." Why expect anything great out of Nazareth—or anything dangerous, either? Thus spoke complacent officialism in the last months of Christ's ministry.

But Jesus was not merely a Nazareth teacher. He had more to say than a peasant's word to the peasants and fishermen. In His message was an authority which did not derive from Nazareth.

On the Nazareth side, Christianity has always had active and steady competition. What it offers can be supplied today, and usually better, by many human agencies.

But in its other aspect, as the spiritual force operating to establish the city of God in the earth, with all which that implies, the religion of Jesus has had the field pretty much to itself.

Those who ask, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" or who say, "Search and see that out of Galilee ariseth no prophet," have not thereby disposed of Jesus. At most they have eliminated from the problem a few square miles of rather commonplace countryside. Jesus and his program for living are still here—they can neither be hid nor ignored in a world which confesses the supremacy of the imponderables and the intangibles.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Thousands of Chicagoans may benefit in the coming months and years through a trip which Miss Eileen Neuhauser of the Garfield park conservatory staff will begin Saturday when she leaves New York City on a steamship for tropical islands.

The purpose of the five week excursion is to visit some of the heretofore exclusive gardens in an endeavor to select unusual plants not now available for public exhibit at the Garfield park showrooms. Her itinerary includes ports in the West Indies, the Island of Trinidad, which is called a botanist's paradize, the Lesser Antiles, including the Virgin islands, and St. Kitts, Antigua, Guadeloupe, Dominica, Martinique, and Barbados.

Plant growing under glass, although it is well established under the direction of August Koch, chief florist at Garfield park conservatory, is said to be far different from inspection of similar plants in their native habitat. A federal embargo in force in the United States prevents importation of many plants, except those which are considered rare and difficult to obtain. Then they are brought in under federal permit.

100% COVERAGE

A.B.C. Philadelphia and Suburbs

43.9 MILES FROM THE CITY HALL

A coverage of the entire Philadelphia marketing area that cannot be approximated by any other Philadelphia paper.

ALWAYS . .

When selling becomes hard—when prosperity lags—when wheels of factories slow down—

Always . . .

Mainly, because response is assured. Because they know they can adequately reach and move to action vast groups of people quickly. Because, they know it to be more economical—and certain—to sell in concentrated territories, than in scattering sales and advertising effort clear across three thousand miles of territory.

Philadelphia with its suburbs is one of America's greatest concentrated markets. Advertising in newspapers pay here.

Fortunately, the newspaper situation here is unique.

In the Curtis-Martin newspaper group of five papers any advertiser can completely cover the 3,709,000 people . . . the 843,000 FAMILIES residing in A.B.C. Philadelphia and Suburban area.

These five great papers—the morning, evening and Sunday Public Ledger together with the morning and Sunday Inquirer are now obtainable for complete, adequate advertising campaigns and the cost is so modest you'll be agreeably surprised. Think of the sales leverage this gives you in this active, compact market.

PURPLE WHIPS IOWA, 41 TO 16, IN FINAL GAME

College Basketball

Northwestern, 41; Iowa, 16.
Illinois, 36; Chicago, 30.
Ohio State, 31; Indiana, 15.
Purdue, 24; Wisconsin, 17.
Syracuse, 28; Notre Dame, 23 [overtime].

Central [Fetin, Ia.], 44; Western Union, 31.
St. Ambrose, 38; Columbia, 20.
Carroll, 46; Ripon, 35.

Northwestern added further luster to its Big Ten basketball crown by whipping Iowa, 41 to 16, at Patten gym last night. It was the season's finale for the Purple, and despite the onesidedness of the conflict, an enthusiastic crowd made the most of the occasion to celebrate the first conference cage title won by Northwestern in 25 years.

The game itself amounted to little more than an opportunity for Wildcat sharpshooters to bolster scoring averages inasmuch as they clinched the title last Saturday by defeating Ohio State at Columbus.

Between halves Capt. Bert Riel, on behalf of the Wildcat team, accepted the Allerton trophy emblematic of the Big Ten title from its donor, William F. Dwyer. The first team to win three championships will obtain permanent possession of the cup. Purdue now leads with a leg and a half.

Iowa Takes the Lead.

A four point advantage was obtained by the visitors at the start of the game when Williamson and Riegert tossed in two field goals in a row from the foul line. Two free throws by McCarnes, a basket by Riel, and a free throw by Reiff gave the Purple the lead which then soon relinquished when Rogers batted in a field goal.

They alternated until the last five minutes of the half when McCarnes sank two long baskets in a row and Riel and Smith added one each, giving Northwestern the lead half time, 20 to 16.

The final session was a romp for Northwestern. After Williamson scored a basket and free throw for Iowa to start proceedings, the Wildcats settled down to show the crowd some basketball of championship caliber.

Baskets rained through the hoop from all sections of the floor as every member of the Wildcat team participated in the drive which ran their total from 20 points to 38 before the bewildered Hawks were able to stop the rush.

ILLINI BEAT MAROONS

Illinois may not be the best basketball team in the Big Ten, but they convinced the assemblage at Bartlett gymnasium last night that they can shoot with precision from more strange positions than their conference competitors. This ability to flop them in from hither and yon, one handed or two, trimmed Chicago, 36 to 30.

One Caslon Bennett, who alternates at center and guard, was the chief offender against basketball etiquette, popping away over the back of his head, and with one hand from almost impossible angles to amass a total of eight field goals. E. Kamp plunked in four from the field; Harper sank two, and Owen, R. Kamp, and Fierburf each had one successful venture.

PURDUE WHIPS BADGERS

Madison, Wis., March 2.—[Special.]—Outclassed in size, speed and shooting ability, the University of Wisconsin five lost its final basketball game of the season to Purdue by a score of 24 to 17 here tonight.

The Boilermakers jumped into an early lead and by controlling the ball most of the first half ran up a 16 to 6 lead at the intermission.

The Badgers staged a rally in the second half, outplaying the visitors at times but never able to get within six points of their rivals. Stewart made two sensational goals in this half, one from mid-floor after dribbling from a far corner. Nelson, Wisconsin, got three goals.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Champion fought champion last night at the Coliseum in first rounds of THE TRIBUNE'S fourth Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament.

For nearly five hours and in two rings the winners of fifteen out of town tournaments and qualifiers in three metropolitan sections battled to remain among those still eligible for the diamond studded Golden Gloves.

Eight thousand, a record crowd for the first night, watched forty-nine bouts. Four weights went into action last night, the flyweights, bantamweights, featherweights, and lightweights. Twenty-one boys started in each class. This morning eight remain undefeated.

Heavier Boys Fight Tonight.

Tonight the other divisions report, the welterweights to the unlimited class, inclusive, will trade wallops until, at midnight, eight stout hearted lads from city and country remain in the tournament of champions. Tomorrow the quarter finals, with all weights in action, will reduce the field to thirty-two. From these will come Chicago's team of twenty-four—eight champions, eight runners up, and eight alternates—which invades New York on March 30 in the fourth intercity bouts.

Thousands of Chicago fans had watched their favorites qualify in three sectional tournaments. Other thousands had seen championships decided in 15 cities in five states. But last night Golden Gloves reached a climax which even the Stadium finals cannot equal.

From 7:30 o'clock when bouts started simultaneously in both rings, action was continuous. Knockouts and close decisions. Stirring rallies for victory. For these the thunder of applause roared through the rafters of the old Coliseum. In the highest tiers, stamping feet drowned all other sound. Champion against champion. No wonder the cheering thousands approved.

Mastro Rallies Gamely.

Dick Mastro and Joey Kleko. There was a battle long to be remembered. West side qualifiers in the featherweight division, the Coliseum thrilled to their action, the high spot of a night of excitement. Kleko won in three rounds and only a courageous heart kept Mastro from a knockout.

Dick went down once in the first round. Again Kleko's smashing right dropped him to the canvas in the second round, and the bell rang at the count of seven. Despite almost certain defeat Mastro fought back with a fury which had Joey nearly exhausted when the bout ended. And when Kleko's hand was raised in victory a tremendous cheer reverberated and was repeated when Mastro trotted across the ring to congratulate his conquerer.

Don Gonzales, Cleveland's national junior featherweight champion, came on next, and Steve Dusek of Gus Rock's gymnasium, Chicago, could not meet his attack. Twenty-six seconds and Dusek, qualifier from the north

Every Cub a Master Mind! That's Training Camp Slogan

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 2.—Our Cubs are going to be the smartest club in the history of baseball if they can retain, O, say, 33 1-3 per cent of the smart stuff they are being told these days.

WILLIAM WRIGLEY.

New Secret Signs, Too.

The foregoing is just elemental stuff that is being taught daily right on the practice field. Before there is any practice a secret meeting is held each morning in the clubhouse. We have no way of knowing how much slick stuff has been revealed in these star chamber sessions, but we suspect that a lot of new signs are being doped out.

Joe McCarthy used to give signals with his chin, making off as if he were just perfunctorily chewing gum, but neither Manager Hornsby, Coach O'Leary, nor Coach Schalk has a chin suitable for baseball signals, and as a consequence the Cubs will have to arrange a complete new set of semaphores. That's what we think they are doing in these secret meetings every morning.

All of this inside baseball is delighting Owner William Wrigley Jr., who even is permitted to sit in on the secret sessions if he wants to. Until this year Mr. Wrigley had been led to believe that victorious baseball was simply a matter of hitting baseballs where enemy fielders were not and having pitchers who could hold an advantage after it had been gained.

Mr. Wrigley Likes Deep Stuff.

The intricacies naturally appeal to a man of Mr. Wrigley's vast business interests and his genius for machine-like organization. Many of the more severe baseball problems are saved for such times as he may be looking on to see them solved.

Mr. Wrigley scarcely comes on the baseball premises without seeing from three to a hundred baseball problems solved before his very eyes, and, being a friendly and fair man, Mr. Wrigley spares no words or phrases in singing the praises of his new manager.

Of course, there are some problems carrying over from last year that can't be solved for a while yet, such as the matter of getting through a ball game with fewer than five pitchers, and preventing Lefty O'Doul from breaking up ball games with home runs.

Hits Are Still Valuable.

We sincerely hope that we haven't appeared snippy in the foregoing composition. We do not underestimate the value of Hornsby's stress on every detail of baseball, and if he pours it into them they can't help remembering some valuable things. As it appears to us, the one thing that Mr. Hornsby in his enthusiasm is liable to forget, is that few baseball players know baseball or love baseball as he does, and that he may find some of his favorite strategies completely forgotten or ignored when the time comes to use them under fire.

It is likely, we believe, that whatever success comes to the Cubs, and we're pulling for the maximum, will accrue from their happy faculty of socking out hits when hits mean runs and not from the ability of pitchers to keep from wiggling their right heels when planning to catch a runner off first.

The Regulars and the Goofs will play the second game of their series tomorrow and the third Thursday. The Los Angeles Coast league team will be here Saturday and Sunday, followed by Joe Brown's team of movie actors a week from today.

White Sox Hold Initial Drill Minus Reynolds

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 2.—Except for a high, cold wind and three missing faces the initial training effort of Donie Bush's complete White Sox squad was run off today according to schedule. Among the faces not present was that of Carl Reynolds, the fleet footed right fielder, and his failure to appear as ordered definitely established him as a collaborator with Catcher Moe Berg in a move to extract more money from Charles A. Comiskey's strong box. The third absentee is Smead Jolley, whose case of boils explains his tardiness.

Club officials, with their usual dislike for the word holdout, insist Reynolds might be along any minute now, but, if the inside information is correct, there is such a vast difference in salary ideas between the club and the player that the affair may be of considerable duration unless one or the other suddenly displays a desire to cause no trouble over a mere $5,000. The actual difference between demand and terms offered is reported to be $15,000, but, naturally, both will compromise. He's asking $25,000.

Club's Position Weak.

The low down on Reynolds is that he received $8,500 in 1930 and that the contract tendered him this winter called for $10,000. The latter is not a bad pickup for six months of work, but the club's position is weak because of what it paid him last season. Until 1930 he had done nothing exceptional and $8,500 was hardly warranted. But he was paid it and then came up in the last campaign with a .359 batting average, which gave him fourth place in the league. It is only natural that after work such as that he should consider himself doubly valuable. On top of this he knows Lyons and Thomas are getting well over $12,000 and a good batter always feels he's worth more than a pitcher.

In Reynolds' case the club naturally is going to attempt to reach a settlement with the young man because he is going to be needed, but there will be no such effort in behalf of Berg. He was cut because he was of no use last season. Since he signed his last contract the Sox have picked up Tate, Henline, and Grube, so the catching department is no problem. Berg probably has had on a Sox uniform for the last time. As a matter of fact he wants to be traded to New York, his home town. The Yanks can have him for an infielder.

The big part of a three hour muscle stretch was devoted to plain throwing and instructions for pitchers and infielders on defensive plays. The pitchers were given about an hour on fielding bunts and covering first base. The infielders, with the assistance of the catchers, were tutored on the best methods of getting base runners caught between the corners of the diamond. Such little details as these are highly important and until Bush took charge no Sox manager had given them much consideration.

Boys Take It Easy.

The infield drill was participated in by the men Bush hopes will make up his regular inner wall, provided no intraleague trades are consummated. Radcliff was at first, Cissell at second, Appling at short and Kamm third.

It was Appling's first practice of the year and Radcliff had to restrain himself because of a sore arm. Under such conditions the quartet exercised in a somewhat listless manner. Radcliff's ailment is the first reported thus far. Even the pitchers have escaped such trouble and they are well along in their work.

Among others on hand was Mel Simons, the new center fielder recently purchased from Louisville for $25,000 and two players. He had telegraphed that he might be late because of teeth extractions, but he got here on time, nevertheless.

PRO CHARGES PUT 3 BOXERS OUT OF GOLDEN GLOVES

2 Peoria Boys and 1 from Springfield Barred.

BY ARCH WARD.

Three downstate entrants in the Golden Gloves tournament were ruled out of the meet last night on charges of professionalism. All were scheduled to compete tonight, when contestants in the four heavier divisions take the ring.

Two of the disqualified athletes were from Peoria and another from Springfield. The Peoria boys were George Kingery, a middleweight, and Walter Elkins, a heavyweight.

Fought as Pro in 1929.

Springfield's disbarred battler was Harry Canada, a middleweight, who captained the undefeated football team of Carbondale Normal last fall. Canada's professionalism in the ring dates back to Jan. 31, 1929, when he fought Bud Gibbons, a professional, at West Frankfort, Ill. He received $17.73. A year later, on Jan. 15, 1930, he boxed Charley Harris on another professional card at West Frankfort. For the latter appearance he was paid $15.

Kingery, the Peoria 160 pounder, boxed Pat Hearndon, a professional, at Springfield, Ill., on May 28, 1930. He received $35. A few weeks later he was paid $25 for fighting Eddie Schlereth in the same arena. Kingery's third professional appearance was against Buck Cable, also in Springfield, last summer. All three bouts were promoted by John Connors Jr. of Springfield.

Walter Elkins, Peoria heavyweight, was ruled out for meeting Jerry Sullivan on a professional card in Chicago on Jan. 3, 1929.

Identified by Boxing Commission.

The three lads were identified as professionals by the Illinois boxing commission. When a boy enters the Golden Gloves tournament he is required to take out a registration card with the Amateur Athletic union. Before he is granted a card he submits his photograph and record in the ring. A copy is sent to the Illinois athletic commission. If either group finds evidence of professionalism he is denied credentials.

THE TRIBUNE, in the promotion of the Golden Gloves tournament, makes a special effort to verify the amateur status of the contestants. No athlete under suspicion is permitted to compete. A field of 168 entered the Coliseum bouts. Only three were found ineligible.

CRASH FORCES BELLONI OUT OF N. Y. BIKE RACE

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Gaetano Belloni, Italian cyclist, was the victim of the most serious accident of recent six day bicycle race history today when he suffered a spill on the Madison Square Garden saucer and was removed to the Columbus hospital, painfully injured.

Belloni, who started the race teamed with Franco Georgetti, a fellow countryman, was forced out before the expiration of the afternoon's official sprints for points. A tumble from the lip of the steep, banked saucer sent him out of the race and to the hospital.

At Columbus hospital tonight it was said that Belloni's condition was not serious and that he would be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

Belloni's withdrawal from the race was followed by that of Paul Buschenhagen, German rider, who started the grind as a partner of George Kroschel, another German.

When the sprints ended Gerard Debaets and his partner, Charley Winter, comprising the Belgian-American team, were deadlocked for the lead on mileage with Freddie Spencer and Norman Hill, American team.

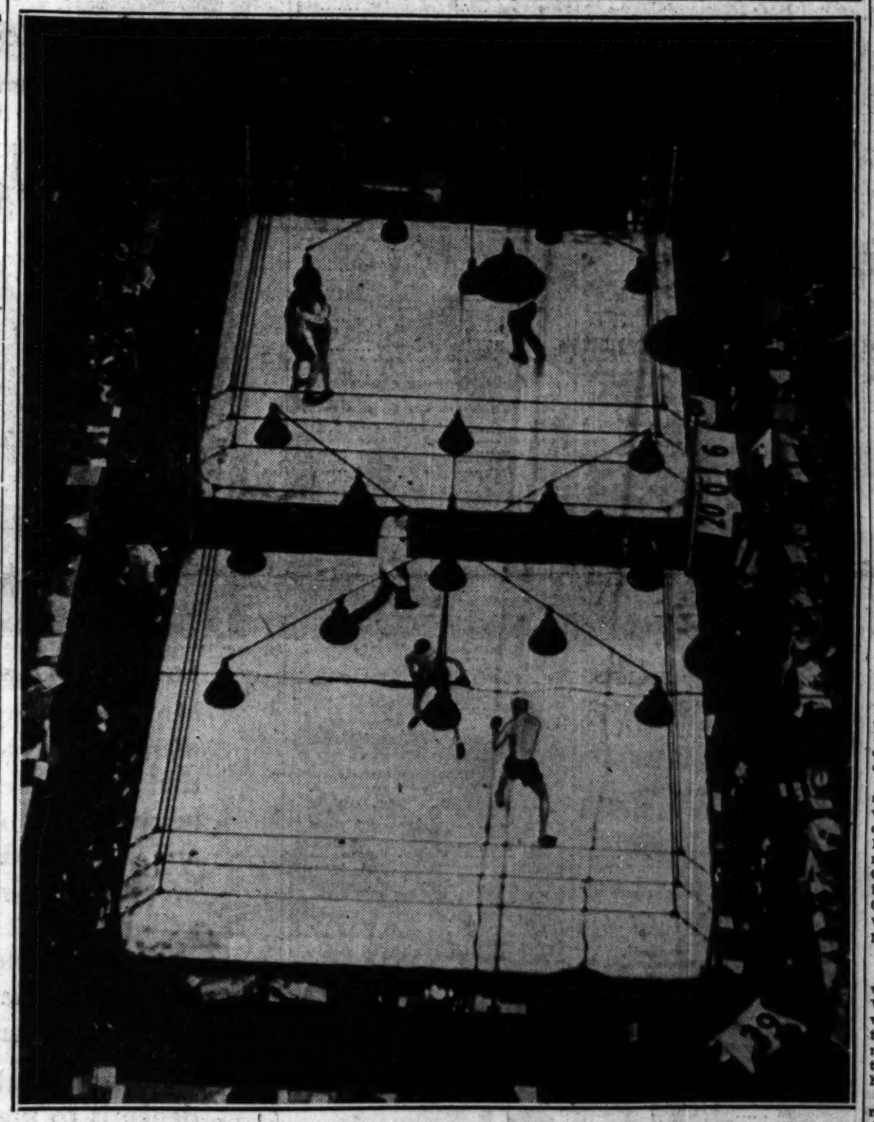
WHEN BOXING'S BIGGEST SHOW BEGAN



The two rings at the Coliseum while the battles for Golden Gloves was at its height. Eight thousand spectators, a record first night crowd, sat through nearly five hours of thrills while 104 stout hearted boys fought for places on The Tribune Golden Gloves team. The four lighter classes saw action last night, and this evening the heavier lads will enter the ring. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Sports Editors Tell of Golden Gloves on W-G-N

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon twelve sports editors of daily newspapers associated with THE TRIBUNE in the Golden Gloves tournament spoke from W-G-N, the TRIBUNE radio station, on the merits of their fighters. Many of the writers said it was their first experience in broadcasting. A few of them not only emphasized the good points of their battlers but sent regards to their city editors and publishers who were listening in back home.

Quin Ryan will announce the fights again tonight and tomorrow night, beginning at 10:30 o'clock.

Home Town Ring Heroes Inspire Golden Gloves Boys

BY FRENCH LANE.

Shades of Billy Papke of Kewanee and of Billy Meyers, the old Streator cyclone! Shades of clever Packy McFarland of Joliet and of Sammy Mandell of Rockford!

Boys inspired by these ring gladiators of yesterday and of day before yesterday passed in review at the Coliseum last night, cheered by 4,600 spectators.

Maybe there wasn't a Papke or a Streator Cyclone, a feinting, slashing Packy McFarland, or a phantom Mandell in the ring, but there were some second editions of these famous fighters in the ranks of the boys from Chicagoland. A smash on the chin or blood streaming out of a nose or from a cut over the eye didn't stop them. A punch in the stomach now and then doubled them up, but they came right back for more.

From down in the territory where Billy Meyers once fought "Little Caterpillar," who is Kenny Jackson of Peoria, reached almost undreamed of heights when he won two battles. From Packy McFarland's Joliet territory several boys battled their way through to brilliant triumphs, and the boys from Rockford, where Sammy Mandell was an idol not long ago, rushed on through to a flock of victories.

Indiana's boys were just as game, although every time you looked into one of the rings there seemed to be an Indiana boy down in the rosin with a referee tolling "one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, and out."

Those people in Milwaukee should enjoy their breakfast today as they sip the coffee and nibble on the toast with the morning paper spread out just beyond the glass of cold water. Four Milwaukee boys went into action. Three of them came through with flying colors.

The two great idols from Chicagoland seemed to be "Little Caterpillar" from Peoria and Frank Doxey of Springfield. Both are flyweights. "Little Caterpillar" had no sooner rolled up his second victory than Doxey stepped into the ring and got his second decision.

Peoria, Davenport, and South Bend took the honors for sending the most rooters to the opening of the tournament of champions. Delegations numbering more than 200 were on hand from each of these cities. About 150 fans followed the Gary team to the tournament, and there were large delegations from all the other cities.

Paul Helms, bantamweight member of the Peoria team, got lost in the loop yesterday afternoon, but a searching party in charge of Kenneth Jones finally located him at State and Madison streets.

HOG NOSED VIPER STILL CAN BLUFF HIS WAY AROUND

And Hoopsnake Supposed to Roll Along.

BY BOB BECKER.

The outdoorsman, especially the hunter, who spends any time in the south during the winter, invariably participates in a snake story fanning bee and during the course of the story telling contest some rare and fantastic tales may be heard. We have found this to be true in most any section of the country where the climate is warm enough to warrant the usual variety of snakes in the natural history scheme. Even around Chicago, where we have few poisonous snakes, fairy tales about the venomous character of the harmless hog nosed viper or spreading adder and other species which cherry no poison in their fangs, are common.

When we were in Florida last month the usual snake story broadcast occurred one day on a quail hunting trip. This time the hog nosed snake, which according to a recent newspaper dispatch spat venom in a farmer's face and nearly killed him, and the hoop snake, that remarkable species which is supposed to roll like a hoop at the speed of the race horse, came up for discussion.

Then There's the Milk Snake.

Eventually another prize fairy tale slipped into the argument. This concerned the milk snake, whoch thousands of people still believe is able to suck milk from cows. There is no natural history story more ridiculous than that, with the possible exception of the porcupine shooting his quills for 40 feet.

The hog nosed snake or puff added probably is the most maligned harmless bluffer that we have among snakes in the central states. We have a hunch that there are thousands of people who absolutely refuse to believe that he is anything but a deadly reptile. They have the poor old hog nose ranked as a poisonous snake.

Some years ago we collected quite a number of these snakes for a laboratory. In the course of this work we got pretty well acquainted with them. They look deadly, we will admit, because of a thick body, triangular head and also because when cornered the hog nosed snake makes a terrifying noise by a rapid hissing. However, this little snake is just one big bluff. He doesn't carry a drop of poison in his mouth and his best defense is to scare you to death. In this he's a whale of a success.

Thousands Fear Him.

Today thousands of people are scared of him. He's bluffed his act so long that they consider him as deadly as a rattler or a cobra. You can still read stories about this old bluffer among snakes spitting venom at people. Such a yarn was printed right here in the middle west not so many months ago. It said that the man who was struck by the venom was very weak but would recover. We can imagine he was weak from fright and from straining his imagination because the poor old hog nosed snake can't shoot venom, having none, but he sure can scare anybody to death. Incidentally the one snake which successfully can spit its venom with force is the cobra of the far east.

In similar fashion the fantastic stories about the hoop snake taking its tail in its mouth and rolling like a hoop continue year after year although no one has ever seen this southern species do such a marvelous circus trick which would instantly win a long term movie contract.

Wildcats Beat Iowa, 41-16, in Last Game

15. The Buckeyes had little trouble in taking the victory, being superior in every department of the game.

Every Ohio player made at least one basket, while the Hoosiers made only five baskets throughout the game, two in the first half and three in the last. Of these Capt. Joe Zellar caged five. Out of 14 free throws the Hoosiers caged five and Zellar made four of these. The Buckeyes made 13 baskets and caged five out of seven fouls.

LOYOLA BEATS DE PAUL, 24-20, TO EVEN SERIES

The Loyola university basketball team evened its series with De Paul last night by rallying in the closing minutes to score a 24 to 20 victory at Loyola gym.

The lead seesawed in the first half, but in the second De Paul marched to a lead of 20-16. Then Joe Wagner, husky Loyola center, put on a rally that sent the Blue Demons down to defeat.

Wagner drove in for a basket from under the goal and followed it with another after a wild scrimmage for the ball. A pair of free throws by Wagner and others by Capt. Waesco and Cavanaugh clinched the decision.

The lineups:

Broadcasting MAN Style
Men tune in regularly every Monday evening for the man's own radio hour—the Robt. Burns Panatela program. As Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians broadcast man style in music and smoking, a chap falls in rhythm with the swing-back to the gentlemen's choice of smoking for generations.
What Lombardo's cadence is to popular music, the long, graceful Robt. Burns Panatela is to cigars. Its smart, shapely outline captures masculine taste. Then too, the unusual mildness of its Clear Havana Filler gives a cigar no cigarette smoker need fear.

side tournament, went down and out from a left hook to the stomach.

All the fighters, however, do not live in large cities. Frank Doxie, Springfield's flyweight, for whom 200 home town fans came to Chicago, stepped out with a victory over Al De Schepper of Rockford.

Davenport Boy Wins.

Johnny Baltzer of Davenport, was another. He knocked out John Kroll of Michigan City, Ind., in one round.

George Van Der Heyden, a featherweight from South Bend, disposed of Harold Dunnington of the Lawndale gym. Young Dunnington, one of three colored lads, brothers, had been the only successful qualifier in the family. For three rounds he punched and jabbed on equal terms with the South Bend boy. A fourth round was ordered. And Van Der Heyden came through with a reserve strength his opponent could not equal.

Wisconsin's Golden Gloves team secured three places in the quarter finals. Little Joie Kratchovil of Racine was eliminated in the flyweight division, only after he won one fight. Max Maker, 118 pound champion; Chief Bill Webster, 126 pounds, and Ernie Kratchovil, the lightweight, earned positions where one more triumph will send each into the final show at the Stadium March 11.

Big Boys Fight Tonight.

So runs the battle for Golden Gloves. Tonight the tournament is renewed with the big boys in action. Thousands will see Frankie Knauer, Milwaukee's great welterweight, and George Keenan, Chicago's middleweight pride, in action. Eighty-four boys will compete. Two rings will be used.

Tickets are on sale today at THE TRIBUNE'S public service office, Dearborn and Madison streets. Prices range from $1, $1.50 to $2. Fifty-two bouts, with each round three minutes. That's boxing's bargain bill unequaled.

Chester Menk, middleweight member on the Vincennes team, will go into his battle tonight with a slightly fractured rib. A jinx seems to be trailing Mr. Menk. Last year he got out of a jail house just in time to fight his way to a place on the Vincennes team, but lack of training cost him a beating early in the Chicago tournament.

Benton Harbor's mayor, John J. Sterling, is coming with a big party of friends for the battles tonight. Another mayor from a Golden Gloves sectional tournament center was on hand cheering his home town boys last night. But he asked that his name be withheld. "I'm supposed to be attending a better government meeting up in Michigan," he said.

Ernie Evans, light heavyweight from Milwaukee, was around telling the boys how he always spots his opponents from 10 to 15 pounds. He just misses the middleweight division by a couple of pounds, and as a result has to step up into the 175 pound class. But despite this handicap he has lost only one bout in 35 starts.

Earl Lackey, bantamweight, and Red Boyer, welterweight, on the Vincennes team, formerly held championships, but it was while they were representing Uncle Sam. Lackey is a former army champion and Boyer, while a sailor on the U. S. S. New York, knocked the block off every welterweight in the navy.

Roy Spooner, heavyweight on the South Bend team, is a coal miner, and lives at Cassopolis, Mich. When he traveled to Chicago with the South Bend team yesterday, it was his first day off the coal mining job in two years.

Most of the boys on the Benton Harbor teams looked like battle scarred veterans. The Benton Harbor battlers were fighting in their fifth tournament of the year. They fought their way through the amateur meets at Muskegon, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, and Benton Harbor before coming to the tournament of champions.

KWARIANI MEETS ROMANO IN MAT BOUT THURSDAY

Kola Kwariani, Russian contender for the heavyweight wrestling championship, will try to upset precedent Thursday night when he meets Mike Romano, veteran Italian, in the feature match at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

Romano, who is regarded as a trial horse for all aspiring heavyweights, has a habit of spilling grapplers who are aiming for the title. He has never been defeated here by a wrestler who hasn't either later won the championship, or else climbed right near the top.

Promoter Arnold Minkley has arranged four other matches for the card. George Zaharias meets Hans Bauer, and Fred Grobmier, the body scissors specialist from Iowa, tackles Pat O'Shocker, of Salt Lake City. The match between Frank Brunovicz, Polish star, undefeated here in six starts, and Rudy Laditzi, also promises action. A fifth match introduces Jack Zarnos, 195-pound Greek collegian from Ohio, who meets Wild Bill Nelson of St. Louis.

SYRACUSE BEATS NOTRE DAME IN OVERTIME, 28-23

Syracuse, N. Y., March 2.—(AP)—Notre Dame and Syracuse battled through to a 20 to 20 tie in the regulation time of their basketball game here tonight, but the Orange spurted out in front in the five minute overtime period, to gain a 28 to 23 victory over the Indiana invaders.

Two baskets by Beagle, two free throws by Hayman, and another basket by Bach put Syracuse beyond reach of the Irish marksman in the overtime session and De Cook's basket and a free shot by Neubold merely cut down the Orange majority.

Stanley Poreda Outpoints Herman Heller in 10 Rounds

McKendree Five Beats Lake Forest, 43 to 26

Lake Forest college basketball team lost a Little Nineteen conference game to McKendree college at the Lake Forest gymnasium last night, 43-26. McKendree outweighed and outplayed the Foresters. Summers, forward, and Hubbell, center, were the winning factors for the McKendree squad, while Stralko, guard, and Criddle, forward, were outstanding performers for the losers. This game ended Lake Forest's cage season.

Griffith Faces Another Big Test Friday

Tuffy Griffith's ring future will be at stake when he meets King Levinsky in the Stadium Friday night. Griffith must win this fight or relinquish all claim to prominent ranking. It is not unusual for Griffith to be staking his all against defeat and nothing on victory. Twice before in his career he has been forced to climb out from under to former heights in the limelight.

Racing alone to great acclaim early in his fight life, Tuffy ran against James J. Braddock and was stopped in a round. Braddock was not well known or established in the fistic firmament at the time and Griffith had to undergo an extensive building up process to be ranked among the leaders again.

Just when he was made into a great card again he was matched with Jack Gagnon, a nondescript heavy, at Philadelphia and Gagnon stopped him. A return match was made immediately and Griffith again faced the necessity of winning or quitting. He won the second fight and reclaimed his former popularity.

Later he met W. L. Stribling. It was the first big bout Griffith had fought. So important was his opponent on this occasion that he enjoyed a respite from these do or die machinations and despite his defeat he made such a creditable showing that only Stribling, Sharkey, and the champion, Max Schmeling, were rated ahead of him by the National Boxing association.

It was this fight which recently led to the receipt of an offer to box Sharkey. This offer is contingent on Griffith beating Levinsky Friday night.

While Griffith boxed five rounds at the Arcade gym yesterday and Levinsky stepped six against two sparring partners at Mullen's gymnasium, Ray Alvis, the King's manager, was hurrying back from the east to be present at the boxing commission meeting today. He will present objections to three referees. One of these, it is said, is Dave Barry, of long count fame, who has already been blacklisted by Alvis in a letter sent to the commissioners last week.

Doctor Reports No Change in Ban Johnson's Condition

St. Louis, Mo., March 2.—(AP)—The condition of Ban Johnson, former American league president, seriously ill at St. John's hospital here, was about the same tonight, his physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, announced. Johnson is slightly weaker than he was a week ago when hope for his recovery was abandoned.

Tilden Beats Kozeluh in Last Match of Tour

Omaha, Neb., March 2.—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden, America's ace of the tennis courts, put on a whirlwind finish here tonight to defeat Karel Kozeluh, 4-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, 8-6, in the last match of their "pro championship" tour. Tilden leaves here tomorrow for Hollywood, Cal., to enter the movies.

Petrolle, Tut Face N.Y. Ring Inquiry Today

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Circumstances surrounding the Billy Petrolle and King Tut battle in Madison Square Garden last Friday night will be discussed tomorrow by the New York state athletic commission.

The commission is trying to find out if Tut had either an active or passive part in his knockout by Petrolle in the fourth round of the sixth match these two young men have fought. Apparently the scarred Fargo veteran merely smote Tut so lustily with both hands there was no standing before him, but the skeptics think differently.

As soon as the match was over Commissioner John J. Phelan, the only member of the three man board present at the battle, ordered the purses of the fighters held up pending an investigation. Both warriors and their managers were suspended on Saturday by the Minnesota state athletic commission pending the outcome of the inquiry.

The only change in the stories told after the match concerns the financial arrangements. The handlers of Petrolle now say they did not guarantee Tut $15,000 and take 55 per cent of the purse to pay both fighters. The actual arrangements, they say, were 40 per cent for Tut and 20 per cent for Petrolle. The $15,000 episode was made known "just to make Tut's managers look like smart guys back home in Minneapolis."

Lake View and Roosevelt, north section representatives in the City league basketball semi-finals, won their games yesterday, the former defeating Harrison, 25 to 19, while the latter triumphed over Crane, 38 to 34.

Harrison led Lake View at half time, 13 to 10, but the north siders, led by Werner and Wherry, rallied in the last period. Sisulak and Odron featured for the losers. Bergbom, Barnofsky, and Zissen were the stars in Roosevelt's victory, while big Bob Gruenig scored 16 of Crane's points.

BIG TEN SPORT EQUALITY.

NORTHWESTERN has clinched the Big Ten basketball title for the first time in its conference history. Minnesota, stranger to such lofty places in the cage sport, has been contender for that honor the greater part of the season, at one time indeed a formidable threat to the Purple.

These results are typical of Big Ten athletics of the present era to which The Wake frequently has called attention. They corroborate the expression credited to coaches that "The Big Ten's the toughest league in the country." They mean, of course, that most conference teams are so near an equality in athletic prowess that the champion must possess unusual qualities for that season or be exceptionally lucky.

Time was when gridiron honors were passed around among the teams except Purdue and Indiana. Purdue broke its jinx in 1929. Indiana has not of late years been awarded gold footballs, but has put forth at various times teams able to give any one's eleven a battle.

Chicago of recent years has gone haywire athletically through restrictions on the number of undergraduates and other causes. Even Maroon sympathizers, however, profess to see better things in the future, although how the Midway can hope to compete against the larger enrollments of the other nine—eight of which are state institutions, and thus constantly growing, and Northwestern, which is devoting far more attention than formerly to its undergraduate schools—is something difficult for others to understand.

Now these nine colleges, of course, are not balanced in all lines of sport as yet. But they have possibilities. Which is just the point of this yarn, with the current basketball race now nearing its end as an example. Needless to say, this equality or near-equality is better for sport than perennial champions.

A Sure Sign.

O Spring is coming—that I'll say.
For me no leaf-bud needs to swell,
I saw a surer sign today
That even trees would care to tell!

The air was chill—the cold wind blew—
The ground was soggy, black and wet,
But Spring is coming—that I knew
By surer sign than any yet.

The Wake has received several queries from readers who saw the photograph of Pat Page, new assistant to Coach Stagg, in a westward bound coach of Chicago White Sox. No, Pat, who in his time was a star southpaw sought by major leaguers without avail, is not trying out the old wing for a professional comeback. We are informed that Page will coach or assist in coaching the Maroon nine in April. He has not done any diamond coaching for several years. He is a personal friend of Manager Donie Bush. So he's gone to San Antonio to work out the kinks from the old arm and to absorb any new professional developments of recent years.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

GREECE OF THE ILIAD!

Have you ever thought what it was really like? Strange walls, strange courtyards where occurred the romances and tragedies that have been part of the school curriculum of your children.

Russia of the Crimea, over which wander the ghosts of Napoleon III, and of Florence Nightingale—to whose Red Cross you have just subscribed. Have you any idea how different these shores and hillsides may be from the shores and hillsides where your children run and bathe every summer?

See them on Raymond-Whitcomb's Spring Mediterranean Cruise. This is a voyage intelligently planned. "Educational" is an unfortunate word (from an advertising point of view) to use. But can you imagine a better "education" (if you keep it dark) than the delicacy of the Moorish Alhambra, the safe barbarianism of Algiers, the Norman civilization of Sicily, Athens and the Homeric cities of Greece, the Black Sea part of Russia (now "Sovietized"), the old and new things in Constantinople and the traditional gaiety of the Riviera?

KARAKAS MAY TAKE TIMMINS' PLACE AS GOALIE

Mike Karakas, Shamrock spare goalie, has a chance of appearing against the Minneapolis Roamers tonight at the Stadium. Sam Timmins, regular tender of the goal, is sick and Karakas has shown such fine form in recent practice that the management has decided to lay Timmins off.

Karakas was recruited by the Shamrocks from Eveleth, Minn., where he starred four years with the high school team and was selected as all-state goal keeper. He is only 19 years old the youngest member of the Chicago club.

Tonight's game will mark his first opportunity to start a professional contest. Twice previously he relieved Timmins in the third period of games in which his team mates had piled up a safe lead and showed flashes of the ability which has led hockey critics to predict a brilliant career for him.

With three days of practice behind them, the Shamrocks are in good shape to begin their last stand to get into the American Hockey league playoffs. Coach Dennenay has been working hard with his charges and expects them to click against Minneapolis, but looks for no cinch, inasmuch as the Roamers have a knack of making the going unpleasant for the Shamrocks. He will use the same forward lines employed against Tulsa and Kansas City—Brydson, MacKenzie, McFadyen, and Wiseman, Riley, Burns—with Taylor, Mulligan, Headley and Burland on defense, and Clayton in reserve.

The Shamrocks must win Tuesday night to be in the playoffs. The Duluth Hornets, with 10 games to play, are four points ahead of the Green and White, who have only nine games to go. Also very much in the running is Buffalo, with 13 games to play and only two points needed to catch the Shamrocks.

What a Life Saver!

What a life saver they have been in the last year and a half.

When goods had to be sold—the newspapers sold them.

And when customers had to be awakened to real values—to buying opportunities—the newspapers did the job.

Ceaselessly—day after day—in good times and bad, the newspapers have been the one sure haven for sellers. Here, quick, timely, dependable buying was always assured.

Today, hundreds of executives are analyzing their markets as never before. They know now that advertising must sell. They know they must depend upon the great key markets to move their products.

So, they reach and dominate and sell such markets through the most flexible—the most responsive medium in the world—the great city newspaper.

Whether it be in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, or St. Louis, the one proven key to the teeming, buying millions is the newspaper.

Here, in Chicago, there is one dependable newspaper—the Chicago Tribune. Its market is Tribune Town. It is one vast empire in itself. Its buying power is almost beyond one's imagination.

Its wealth can only be written in staggering terms. 2,480,000 motor cars. $7,966,877,000 in commodities produced each year. $5,516,000,000 bank deposits, etc., etc.

Here the Chicago Tribune reaches almost every other family. Here, where 12,000,000 people live and desire and buy, the Tribune is the one outstanding force.

Through the Tribune alone—alone—you can reach and sell—economically—successfully—completely.

You have a sales and advertising problem. Let a Tribune man talk it over with you. He knows. Simply write, or wire.

FINANCE GOV'T NEEDS ON CHEAP INTEREST BASIS

Oversubscription of Offering Seen.

BY O. A. MATHER.

There was every indication yesterday that Uncle Sam's new offering of $1,400,000,000 of securities will be snapped up by investors. In fact, bankers in Chicago and New York predicted a big oversubscription despite the size of the offering. The new 12 year 3½ per cent bonds, which are the first government bonds offered since 1928, sold at a slight premium in the market on a "when issued" basis.

ANDREW MELLON. [Acme Photo.]

Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, was given credit for another clever stroke in arranging the refinancing plans. First, Mr. Mellon demonstrated his ability to judge the money market to a hair. With money going begging in Wall street at 1½ to 2 per cent and with interest rates on time money, bank deposits and bankers' acceptances abnormally low, the treasury head took advantage of the situation to finance the government's needs on about the cheapest basis in its recent history.

Chiefly Refunding Operation.

It appears that the bulk of the new securities will represent merely a refunding operation on a lower interest basis. The treasury has called for redemption on March 16 an issue of $1,100,000,000 of 3½ per cent treasury notes. And Mr. Mellon has offered the holders of this obligation the privilege of exchanging them, on an allotment basis, for the $500,000,000 twelve year 3½ per cent bonds and $600,000,000 of one year 2 per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness.

It is estimated about 80 per cent of the maturing treasury notes are held by banks, insurance companies, and other large institutions. With the present slack demand for money, there isn't much else for these hold-

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF CONTAINER COR. LOOMS AS DIVIDEND CEASES

A fight for control of the $23,000,000 Container Corporation of America loomed up yesterday. The directors discontinued dividends on the class A common stock by omitting the quarterly payment of 30 cents due at this time, and President Walter P. Paepcke explained that net earnings for last year were slightly more than $100,000. This was insufficient to cover preferred stock dividends.

Simultaneous, John P. Brunt, executive vice president, sent out a letter and pamphlet to stockholders charging President Paepcke and the executive committee with pursuing business policies that have affected adversely earnings and market prices of the company's stocks. Mr. Brunt also asserts an enforced vacation was imposed on him as a result of his differences with Mr. Paepcke and he solicits proxies to elect a new board of directors at the forthcoming annual meeting.

Mr. Paepcke said that unusually low volume and unsatisfactory selling prices in the last quarter of 1930, coupled with inventory depreciation and adjustments, resulted in reduced earnings compared with 1929, when net profit was $774,418. However, economies have been effected that will mean around $400,000 this year.

Oil Leaders Meet Here to Uphold Marketing Policy

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Leaders of the nation's petroleum industry attended an emergency meeting of the American Petroleum institute's general marketing committee at the Stevens hotel yesterday to discuss a policy to follow with respect to the federal trade commission's recent action in withdrawing its approval of eighteen rules of the institute's marketing code and in rewriting two of the three remaining rules.

EDWARD G. SEUBERT.

Yesterday's meeting was a closed session held under the chairmanship of Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Among the prominent oil leaders taking part in the discussion were Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Judge C. B. Ames, counsel of the Texas corporation; E. B. Reeser, president of the Barnsdall corporation and president of the American Petroleum institute; K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California; W. M. Irish, president of the Atlantic Refining company, and W. N. Davis, vice president of the Phillips Petroleum company.

Purpose of Code.

The marketing code, which has been in effect since July, 1929, was set up to do away with unfair trade practices within the industry and to outline business ethics for the members to follow. For instance, the first seven rules were designed to ban attempts to break existing written contracts for the sale of petroleum products, require conspicuous display of the name or trade mark of owner or lessor on all oil equipment using its trade mark, prohibit lotteries, etc., in the sale of petroleum, and to prohibit selling below cost to injure a competitor. The second fourteen rules largely concerned practices within the field of ethics.

The federal trade commission withdrew its approval of the rules on Feb. 2, but on Feb. 9, acting on the petition of the institute, extended the period during which they would govern until April 8.

Now the institute is considering three courses of action, one of which is to be adopted at a meeting of its board of directors, possibly today. One is whether to proceed with the revised code as approved by the federal trade commission. The second course is to advise the federal commission that the new code is unsatisfactory and to petition the commission to reinstate the old one. The third course is to proceed with the old code without the sanction of the commission.

In the event that the latter course is adopted it will mean likely that the problem may be submitted in a friendly test suit in the courts.

Much significance is attached to the outcome of the present deliberations for upon them may rest the policy of the federal trade commission concerning some 127 other codes adopted by the various industrial and trade organizations of the nation.

Boyd's Explanation.

"If the commission adheres to its previously announced intention to withdraw its approval of the petroleum rules," W. R. Boyd Jr., vice president of the institute explained, "it is equivalent to a reversal of policy which means that the commission will rescind its approval of all those rules heretofore approved for all industries which are not specific violations of either the Sherman law or the Clayton act.

"In effect this will mean complete destruction of trade practice conference procedure of the commission, because the adoption by an industry and approval by the commission of rules which merely quote the language of the law will be valueless to any industry."

Bendix Directors Dispel Fears by Voting Dividend

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The fears occasioned by La Salle street gossip over the dividend on common stock of the Bendix Aviation corporation were dispelled when the directors met late yesterday and authorized the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents a share.

Another adverse dividend rumor was confirmed, however, when the North American Car company issued a statement saying that directors at their meeting Saturday had voted to omit the April and July payments on the common stock. The company has been paying 62½ cents a share on common. The necessity for the action was dated back to the unprofitable venture of the company into the salt water shipping trade in the latter part of 1929.

Shares Rise, Then Fall.

The company's stock has been carrying the weight of the anticipated news recently and yesterday broke to 22¼ on the Chicago market. The stock after a sharp break early in the week had turned up again in Saturday's trading, while the news of the adverse dividend action was being held up over the week-end.

The action of the Bendix directors was taken in the face of a drastic reduction in earnings in 1930. A preliminary statement issued yesterday gave net earnings for 1930 of $1,153,859, equivalent to 56 cents a share on the common stock. In the banner year of 1929 the company rolled up net profits of $7,416,408, which were equal to $3.53 a share on common. The company added three more subsidiaries to its string during the last year.

The action of Bendix stock yesterday indicated that, although the rumors of possible unfavorable dividend were prevalent, they were not accepted at inflated values. The stock was easier in sympathy with the general market trend, but was not out of line with the rest of the list.

Has Not Responded.

In recent weeks, however, the stock has not responded to the bullish publicity of the motor industry in the same manner as Borg Warner has done. During most of 1930 the two issues sold on approximately the same price level, but Borg was selling yesterday around 29, as compared with approximately 23 for Bendix.

The omission of the North American Car dividends is part of the program of the company calling for the elimination from its balance sheet of the assets of its marine subsidiaries and the absorption of the operating losses of these properties. The company entered the field late in 1929 through the operation of vessels to the Caribbean islands and Central American points.

The unprofitable nature of the venture is plainly indicated in the remarks of President Erwin R. Brigham, who said yesterday that although the company earned record profits of $1,108,000 on its regular car business in 1930, the decision to write off the marine properties would more than wipe out the profit the car division made. The assets of the marine division will be carried at $1.

Although the company has adopted this conservative policy in writing off the properties, it is understood that the management hopes to realize on the investment after a year or so.

New York, March 2.—The stock market slipped another cog today. After shuttling back and forth for a while, owing to profit taking by pools, little spasms of public buying on the "reactions," and operations on both sides by professionals, the whole list turned tail in the face of accumulating selling pressure in the late dealings and the closing figures reflected losses of from 1 to 5 points or more.

It was one of the worst setbacks since the bulls got their "big spring drive" going along so nicely away back in January. A technical affair, to be sure, since the experts have

Also to Build on South Chicago Corner.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans are now being prepared by Paul Gerhard for two new fire stations for Chicago. The city purchased a 52x120 site yesterday at 4911-15 Belmont avenue, which is 106 feet west of Lamon avenue, from Isaac D. Patton for an indicated $10,460. A new station to cost in the neighborhood of $90,000 is contemplated and bids will be asked as soon as an appropriation has been made. It is expected to have it completed some time this year.

The new station will be two stories, with brick and terra cotta exterior, and will accomodate engine and hook and ladder companies. It will be the headquarters for a battalion chief. It will supply auxiliary facilities for three other stations, it being about the same distance from them. There are the Elfridge station, near Milwaukee avenue; the Grace station, near Menard, and the Narragansett station, near Grand avenue.

New Station for South Chicago.

Architect Gerhardt also has drawn plans for a new fire station to replace the old timer, built forty-five years ago, on the triangular site at 93d street and South Chicago avenue. Construction on this also awaits an appropriation.

Ettinger & Brand, of Cleveland, Ohio, members of the New York stock exchange, have leased approximately 3,500 square feet of floor space in the Central Trust building, 208 South La Salle street.

Risk Company Increases Space

The substantial growth of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co. and associated companies has made necessary the expansion of its home offices. It was announced yesterday by president James S. Kemper. An additional 17,500 square feet of floor space has been leased for a long term to augment the present 52,000 square feet leased two years ago at 4750 Sheridan road, in the Mutual Insurance building.

The twenty-four apartment building at 2217-23 East 70th street has been sold by the Chicago City Bank & Trust Co., as trustees, to Martin and Ada Linz, of 1529 East Marquette road, for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $92,000. John R. Lang, of McKey & Pongue's south shore office, was broker for the seller. Mrs. M. L. Ray of the Woodlawn office of the same firm, represented the buyer.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today and although no sales were reported it was generally believed that something had been done at concession of 1-32 or 3.28 for spot duty paid, with more available at the same level.

Except for a little steadiness at the outset, due to covering and a little commission house buying, raw futures were lower, influenced by the easier spot market, with final prices 2 to 4 points net lower. Approximate sales, 39,900 tons. Prices follow:

HOPES FOR BULL MARKET GIVEN A NEW SETBACK

Stock Prices Drop Under Selling Pressure.

been long agreed that a "corrective readjustment" was not only necessary but inevitable, but it pinched out a lot of budding new hopes and put a crimp into the makings of a lot of young paper fortunes at that.

Rail Shares Weaken.

It was very largely a trader's market—more so than at any time for a week or so past. There was nothing in the news outside of the treasury financing plans to make anybody tear his shirt over one way or the other. Volume ran to about 3,400,000 shares, nearly a million below the average for the full session here of late.

Railroad shares were a drag on the entire market. Because of the poor showing of January operating results of the vast majority of the carriers, there is a growing disposition to anticipate a period of downward dividend adjustments between now and the beginning of summer.

All the leading issues of the section opened lower and sagged steadily, even while the minor rallies that marked the early trading were developing. The finish found New York Central down 5¼ points, Union Pacific off 4¾, Missouri Pacific 3⅛, Atchison 4, Baltimore and Ohio 2⅞, Delaware and Hudson 3, Illinois Central 4½, and Southern Railway 4⅝ points.

Utilities Pay Toll.

Utility issues, the big leaders of the advance from its very inception, had to pay a heavy toll in profit taking, such favorites as American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Standard Gas, American Power and Light, North American, and Brooklyn Union Gas selling off 2 to 4 points or more. Consolidated Gas, the banner bearer of the group, was relieved of 2⅛ points of its last week's runup and Peoples Gas, which has scored one of the most sensational comebacks of the entire list from its December low, lost 4½ on the day's business.

United States Steel, which had crossed 152 on the strength of the new-born enthusiasm last week, finished today's session at 145¼, off 2¼ points. Bethlehem was off 3½, Crucible 4, and Republic 2 points.

Most of the professional shuttlecocks, so-called, found the going rough. Case Threshing Machine was belted for a loss of more than 4 points, Worthington Pump lost 5⅞, Columbian Carbon 4⅞, and Vanadium nearly 3 points.

Top yesterday, $9.25; average, $8.20.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 23,000; sheep, 16,000.

Hog receipts dropped down to 53,000 yesterday, the second smallest Monday total of the year. However, with shipping demand only fair, buyers succeeded in holding the market to a steady basis, with weakness in evidence toward the finish. The extreme top at $7.40 was 15c above Saturday when top grades were absent, but showed 10c loss compared with last Friday.

The general average at $7.00 compared with $7.00 Saturday and with $7.05 last Friday. Small packers and order buyers were the principal operators, larger houses staying almost out of the market. About 6,000 were left at the close. Five western markets expect 62,000 today, against 67,400 last Tuesday.

September Hogs Bring $9.00.

Contracts for hogs for future delivery were in good demand at stronger yesterday. Several carloads of 170@210 lb., averages were sold for next September delivery at $9.00. May light weights at $8.00 were next highest on the price list, while March mediums sold at $7.30 for the first half of that month and at $6.90 for the last half of the month. On the "to arrive" market light weights for today's delivery were bid $7.25 and heavy were bid $6.75.

Sales of choice steers were highest since middle of last month, the extreme top at $11.25 being 25c above last week's peak. Swift obtained 1361 lb., averagees at that price, while $11.10 was paid for 1310 lb., averages. All leading points reported short supplies of cattle. The 20 markets showed a decrease of 21,000 head or 28 per cent compared with a year ago.

Lambs Reach $9.25.

Fat lambs met good demand at mostly 25c higher prices soon after the opening yesterday, with top grades sharing in the full strength of the market. Choice light weights sold to all interests at $9.25, the highest paid for lambs since February 10. Prime 96 lb., averages sold for local slaughter at $9.00, while $8.50@8.75 were the common prices for 100@105 lb., lambs.

COTTON HAS LATE DECLINE

A decline yesterday in cotton prices after an early bulge was disappointing to traders who had expected the early strength to maintain throughout the day. Liverpool was strong and closed 5@11 points higher, with spot sales 6,000 bales.

Exports last week were 86,734 bales, against 88,179 bales last year. Total since Aug. 1, 1930, were 4,900,000 bales, compared with 5,300,00 bales last year. Prices follow.

Detroit International Bridge.

Would appreciate very much if you could give me some information as to the status of the Detroit International Bridge company 6½ per cent bonds. I have some of these bonds and the prices for same have been going down more and more.—D. H.

Detroit International Bridge company owns and operates a suspension bridge 7,542 feet long across the Detroit river from Detroit, Mich., to Sandwich, Ont. It was opened for traffic Nov. 15, 1929.

Capitalization consists of 20,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] and 100,000 no par common shares, in addition to a funded debt of nearly $20,000,000, of which $12,000,000 represents the first mortgage sinking fund 6½s, due Aug. 1, 1952, and the balance 7 per cent debentures, due on the same date.

Revenues have amounted to only a fraction of estimates made prior to the opening of the bridge. In the year ended Dec. 31, 1930, gross revenues were $892,043. After deductions for expenses, taxes, depreciation, etc., earnings, before interest charges, were only $155,267. Interest amounted to $1,339,902. Net loss for the year was $1,367,296.

The balance sheet at the close of 1930 showed a deficit of $1,512,788 and deferred charges amounting to $1,831,149. Cash was $331,672. Accrued interest totaled $557,737, and accrued taxes $108,729.

The interest due Feb. 1, 1931, on the debentures was not paid, although int rest on the first mortgage bonds was met.

The fault appears to lie in overproduction of international transportation facilities at Detroit. There are two ferry lines and a $25,000,000 tunnel, which was opened in November, 1930. In December, 1930, the bridge carried only 28 per cent of all vehicles entering Detroit from Canada, although its investment is about 40 per cent of the total investment in the four transportation lines.

It is believed probable that the bridge company's capital structure will have to be rebuilt on a more conservative basis, although no steps have been taken in the direction as yet.

A committee has been formed to protect the interest of first mortgage bondholders. Leslie B. Soper, 15 Broad street, New York, is secretary.

Triumph Oil and Refining.

Please advise me if stock issued to Triumph Oil and Refining company has any value. It was bought in 1902.—Mrs. C. W

We find nothing on this company except the report that on July 15, 1926, 1,000 shares [par $1] of its stock, together with various other securities, was sold at $2 for the lot. There have been no later published quotations. Apparently the stock is without value.

Were You Living WHEN——

Northern Pacific 4's, Norfolk and Western 4's, and Louisville and Nashville 4's were selling to yield about 3.8% back in 1902?

Is it not likely that similar bonds in the electric light and power industry will sell at corresponding yields in the not distant future? If government bonds should drop to 2% in yield, is it not likely that utility legals will go down to about 3%, and utility debentures sell at their call price?

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

BEARISH FACTORS COMBINE TO PUSH GRAINS LOWER

Scarcity of Storage Room Felt by Wheat.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets were on the downgrade yesterday, the combination of a bearish construction placed on the private estimates on farm reserves, with high estimates on the winter wheat crop and a scarcity of storage room at leading terminal markets resulting in carrying wheat futures off around 1c from Saturday's finish to a new low on the present movement. July touched 63¾c, or within 2c of the lowest figures of the season. New crop futures were ⅝@¾c lower at the last with July 63⅝@63¾c, and September 63⅝@63¾c.

Government agencies were reported as having bought May wheat futures throughout the day, holding prices within narrow limits with the finish ¼c lower at 81⅜c, while the March after selling early at 79c, the pegged price, advanced on scattered short covering and closed ¼c higher at 79⅝c. Deliveries on March contracts aggregated 4,308,000 bu.

Farm Reserves Liberal.

Private estimates on farm reserves of wheat showed an average of 143,000,000 bu, an increase of 13,000,000 bu as compared with last year. Country mill and elevator stocks are around 86,000,000 bu, or 10,000,000 bu less than last year, while commercial stocks are officially estimated at 209,000,000 bu or 49,000,000 bu in excess of 1930, total stocks in all positions being around 438,000,000 bu, against 385,000,000 bu the previous year. The trade regarded the various statements as indicating that less than 100,000,000 bu wheat had been wasted or fed to live stock so far this season.

Winter wheat condition at the present time is well above that of last year and also as compared with the average, and after allowing for abandoned acreage Nat C. Murray expressed the belief that the outlook was for a yield of possibly 650,000,000 bu, or 46,000,000 bu more than harvested last year. Further rain or snow was reported over the southwest over the week-end.

Export Demand Light.

A little export business was said to have been put through in hard winter at the gulf, but the amounts were not given, and private reports indicated that the grain had been offered abroad at equal to 10@12c under Chicago May at the gulf. Sales of 200,000 bu Manitobas were also reported.

Winnipeg wheat showed a heavy undertone and closed ⅝c lower with the July at 60¼c, while Liverpool gained ¼@⅝d with July at 65½c. Buenos Aires was off ⅛@⅜c for the day. An increase of 932,000 bu in the domestic visible supply led to some selling of futures with the total now placed at 196,615,000 bu, against 155,550,000 bu last year.

New Low on May Corn.

Corn showed strength early, but ran into aggressive local selling and later some commission houses who bought early turned to the selling side and prices dropped 1¼@1⅜c from the high, with May touching 62¾c, a new low on the crop. Final trades were at net losses of ⅝@¾c with March, 59⅛c; May, 62¾@62⅞c; July, 65¼@65⅝c, and September, 65½c.

Private estimates on farm reserves of corn of 742,000,000 bu while showing 245,000,000 bu less than last year were regarded as somewhat bearish in view of the liberal supply of other grains available, and led to selling. The visible supply increased 731,000 bu for the week and is 18,961,000 bu against 22,667,000 bu last year. Buenos Aires was ⅝c lower at the close.

The Barnsdall corporation and subsidiaries reported for 1930 net income of $5,130,890, equal to $2.27 a share on the combined A and B stocks outstanding at the end of the year, compared with net income of $7,205,161, equal to $3.19 a share on the combined A and B stocks outstanding at the end of 1929.

WHEAT RESERVES LIBERAL

Private estimates on farm reserves showed an average of 143,000,000 bu wheat, or about in line with expectations, increasing 13,000,000 bu over last year. The trade regarded the report as suggesting less than 100,000,000 bu wheat fed to live stock and wasted. Cromwell estimated country mill and elevator stocks at 83,000,000 bu and Murray made them 87,000,000 bu, compared with 96,000,000 bu last year.

Based on a condition of 87.5 for winter wheat and after allowing for abandoned acreage Murray says there is a prospect of a crop of 650,000,000 bu, compared with 604,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Corn reserves aggregate 742,000,000 bu, or 245,000,000 bu less than last year. R. O. Cromwell estimates the disappearance since Nov. 1 at 1,412,000,000 bu, compared with 1,681,000,000 bu last year. Oats reserves show 92,000,000 bu in excess of last year. Rye reserves are around 6,400,000 bu, against 5,500,000 bu last year. Details follow, last six ciphers omitted:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Formation of Jackson Brothers Grain Company, Ltd., by Chicago grain men to conduct a grain brokerage business in Winnipeg, Canada, is another indication of the increased activity in the dominion grain market, which has assumed large proportions ever since the federal farm board became interested in the American grain market.

The new company was organized by Arthur S. Jackson and Edward Hymers of Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., Arthur W. Cutten, who recently bought a seat on the Winnipeg exchange, and Roy Milner, a Canadian grain man. Mr. Jackson is president and the last three mentioned will comprise the directorate.

Bearish sentiment in wheat was increased by the statistical showing of stocks in all positions, as well as by a heavy primary movement. The support given old May by the government and reports of sales of hard winter to Europe at satisfactory prices, in competition with Canadian grain, had no effect. The whole situation appears to be working in favor of lower prices, as viewed by most traders. The disposition of pit operators is to sell on all bulges, which frequently results in an oversold condition and eventually brings sharp but temporary rallies.

There are 254,000,000 bu in the United States and Canadian visible supply of wheat, compared with 254,000,000 bu last year, an excess of 30,000,000 bu. United States supplies are the largest at this time on record. Traders express the belief that there is too much wheat in sight, with the harvest of the new crop off only four months.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—Cotton goods continued firm today, with business quite active on some lines of wash fabrics. Raw silk was weaker and silk goods were selling moderately. Burlaps were steady here and firmer in Calcutta. More business came forward on women's spring coatings and men's wear suitings. Rayon was selling more freely to knitters.

FINANCE GOV'T NEEDS ON CHEAP INTEREST BASIS

ers to do except exchange their notes for the new securities. Therfore, public participation in the new offerings will be largely limited to the $300,000,000 six months 1½ per cent treasury certificates, which complete the current program. Even this low rate issue is expected to meet generous demand because its life is concurrent with the dull summer period and ends before the normal autumn demand for money sets in.

The treasury's big program failed to cause a ripple in the financial markets yesterday. The older government obligations were strong. Bond experts predicted that over-subscription of the new securities will have a tonic effect on both bonds and stocks by assuring a considerable period of easy money rates.

MUST BORROW AGAIN

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The issue of $1,400,000,000 in securities just announced by Secretary Mellon will provide only $200,000,000 to be used for making loans on world war adjusted service certificates.

Another $200,000,000 must be borrowed before June 15 to meet anticipated loans, Treasury officials said today in discussing their refinancing.

Of the $1,400,000,000 issue, $1,100,000,000 will go to refund maturing treasury certificates and $100,000,000 to meet other government obligations.

Injection of the veterans loans into the financing scheme of the government was said to have caused the treasury to abandon plans for retiring about $2,000,000,000 of short term securities in the court of the next year, in preparation for meeting the maturity of Liberty bonds in 1932 and 1933.

Receives Final Action.

The administration bill to increase the Liberty loan bond issue from $20,000,000,000 to $28,000,000,000 today received final congressional action.

The house agreed to a senate amendment to permit the treasury department to refund within the next two years first and fourth maturing Liberty loan bonds. It does not increase the public debt, but is designed to aid the treasury in refinancing operations through long time securities.

The senate struck from the house bill the provision which would exclude the new bonds from surtaxes, and the house accepted the amendment. The measure was recommended by Secretary Mellon.

The treasury department today issued a call for repayment by depository institutions throughout the country of $60,623,800.

Bankers said that the call was due partly to the heavy demands of the treasury for cash with which to pay world war veterans who have applied for loans. These withdrawals will reduce the government's total deposits in banks throughout the country to $40,416,000.

Canada Reports Increase in Imports from Russia

OTTAWA, March 2.—(AP)—The dominion bureau of statistics today issued a report showing that imports from Russia jumped from $909,620 in 1929 to $1,964,059 in 1930. Canadian exports to Russia were $3,402,833 in 1929 and dropped to $1,689,550 in 1930. An order in council last week prohibited importation from Russia of coal, wood pulp, pulpwood, lumber, timber, asbestos, and furs.

COMMON sense tells you that an investment stock of the highest quality today may have a very different rating ten or fifteen years from now. This fact points to a possible weakness in that otherwise admirable form of investment, the rigidly fixed trust. The sponsors of Universal Trust Shares found, in the new Brown-Carpenter plan, a way of eliminating from the portfolios any stock that may depreciate in strength, long before it has reached the dividend-passing stage, and replacing it with a suitable stock by decision of three independent and expert counsel.

STOCKHOLDERS HEAR REPORT ON FORMAN COMPANY

Present Directorate Is Re-elected.

The fireworks which had been predicted for the annual meeting of George M. Forman and company failed to develop yesterday when the stockholders gathered at the company's offices at 112 West Adams street to hear a report on the firm's condition and the progress being made by the Foreman Realty Trust which was formed to administer the properties on which the Foreman bonds were issued.

Stockholders were told the chance of realizing on their holdings was dependent entirely on the success of the realty trust. Questioning by stockholders brought out the fact that the company has reduced its overhead to approximately $6,000 monthly.

Effect Economies.

Only one executive salary is now being paid by the firm and that to Porter M. Fox, executive vice president. His compensation for the five months ended Dec. 31 was approximately $10,000, it was stated in answer to a question put by an attorney representing several stockholders. The company has also effected a substantial economy in its renting expense, which has been reduced from approximately $76,000 to $30,000 annually, it was stated.

A consolidated audited balance sheet as of July 31, 1930, was read at the meeting. Total assets, which are carried in most instances at book value, were shown at $7,788,809, as compared with $12,976,187 at the end of 1929. Deficit was carried at $481,342.

A balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1930, was also read which, it was explained by the management, was not audited in the interest of economy. The statement, which gave effect to the transfer of certain equities in properties to the realty trust, showed total assets of $6,382,632 and a deficit of $725,041. In return for the equities the company received 35 per cent of the common stock of the realty trust, it was stated.

Discuss Company's Affairs.

Considerable discussion preceded the election of a board of directors for the ensuing year. In some instances the questions were tinged with sarcasm but for the most part the stockholders present displayed a friendly spirit and a willingness to coöperate with the present régime in its efforts to pull the firm's affairs out of the quagmire of deflation. Many of the stockholders had journeyed from Iowa, Kentucky, South Dakota, and other distant points to attend the meeting. Of the odd 100 persons who were present about 25 were women. It was said that their investments in the firm in many cases represented their entire capital.

The sitting directors were reëlected. The board was recently reduced from twelve to five members. The five members reëlected are Herman Hachmeister, Charles Forman, Porter Fox, William G. Lodwick, and Lewis M. Watson. A resolution was also adopted expressing confidence in and a willingness to coöperate with the present management. Attorney Edward R. Johnston presided at the meeting.

North American Aviation May Reduce Directorate

Stockholders of North American Aviation, Inc., will vote March 11 on reducing the size of the board of directors which has held the distinction of being probably the largest ever known to Wall street, with 60 members. FIXED TRUST SPONSORS PLAN OWN ASSOCIATION

Preliminary steps looking toward the formation of an association composed of interests handling "fixed trusts" were taken at the Stevens hotel yesterday at a meeting called by the Chicago Curb Exchange. The primary purpose of the meeting was to discuss problems arising in the fixed trust field—a comparative newcomer in the realm of investments.

Moritz J. Loeb, secretary of the curb exchange, was elected permanent chairman of the conference and he appointed committees to consider the various problems confronting fixed trust sponsors. These committees were to discuss legislation, organization of a permanent body, business conduct, and publicity.

Speakers pointed to the advisability of a fixed trust association to take up with the securities commissioners of the various states of the nation the matter of qualifying this form of investment before the commissioners drew up rules which might result in later difficulties. Other subjects discussed were a code of business ethics and steps to be taken to keep racketeers out of the business.
